Another Straight Sets Victory

New York, Sept. 6.
The American tennis singles championship has now reached the last sixteen stage and F. J. Perry, the British holder, has not yet been taken beyond three sets. To-day's play was featured by the breakdown of the challenge of the new aspirants to national fame—Mako, Tidball, Bowman and so on—although E. W. Felleman eliminated George Lott. BERLIN SWOOPS ON "REDS"

FIFTY ARRESTS IN SUBURBS

HEADQUARTERS UNEARTHED

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1934. Received September 7, 7.11 a.m.)

Berlin, Sept. 6.
Another vigorous attempt is being made by General Goering to suppress Communist activities in Berlin.

Fifty alleged Communists have been arrested to-day by Goering's district police, in the Schoeneberg district, as the result of a surprise swoop.

The raids, which followed long and careful observation of certain houses and persons, are still continuing, creating much excitement in the district.

It is suggested that the police coup is of the highest importance and likely to break the back of the Communist organisation in Berlin. It is rumoured, for instance, that the police have unearthed the headquarters of all the subversive propaganda, whence the anti-Government material was distributed throughout the whole of Germany. —Reuter Special.

ANOTHER MURDER REPORTED

Victim's Daughter Also Wounded

Yet another murder is engaging the attention of the police, the victim being a man named Tsui Tak-choi, aged 42 years, who was found dead from chopper wounds in the Tsau Wan district of the New Territories in the early hours of this morning.

Lying near him was his daughter, Tsui Yuk-yin, aged 12 years, suffering from a series of wounds evidently inflicted by her father's assailants.

The man, who had been employed on the Shing Mun Dam works, lived in an un-numbered hut at Sheung Kwai Chong village, and it was here that his body was discovered.

Robbery is believed to have been the motive of the murderers, but no details are yet to hand of the number of men who took part in the raid. So far, no arrests have been made.

MANY KILLED AND INJURED

MOST OF THE COACHES TELESKOPED

HARROWING RESCUE SCENES

London, Sept. 6.

Three persons lost their lives to-day in the most serious smash on British railways for some considerable time.

The disaster occurred in the suburbs of Glasgow, at Edlington Junction, some two miles from St. Enoch.

Two London, Midland and Scottish Railway trains were involved. They collided when travelling at a fairly fast speed and both were completely wrecked.

Most of the coaches were telescoped and splintered like matchwood and it is somewhat remarkable that the toll of life was not considerably greater than it was.

FORTY BADLY INJURED.

An engine-driver, a fireman and one passenger were already dead when rescue-workers extricated their bodies from the wreckage.

Over forty others were taken out injured, some of them critically.

Immediately news of the disaster was flashed to St. Enoch, ambulances, doctors and nurses were rushed to Edlington, while railway employees and civilians struggled to get at the victims pinned amid the wreckage.

So complete was the smash that the victims were only rescued from the debris with the greatest of difficulty, some being imprisoned for some long time before obstructions were removed. —Reuter.

KING SUFFERING FROM SLIGHT COLD

Unable to Attend The Braemar Games

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1934. Received September 7, 7.50 a.m.)

Braemar, Sept. 6.
His Majesty the King is suffering from a slight cold and was therefore unable to attend the Highland Games owing to the sharpness of the air.

His inability to attend was a great disappointment to His Majesty, who had followed the Games with the keenest interest for many years.

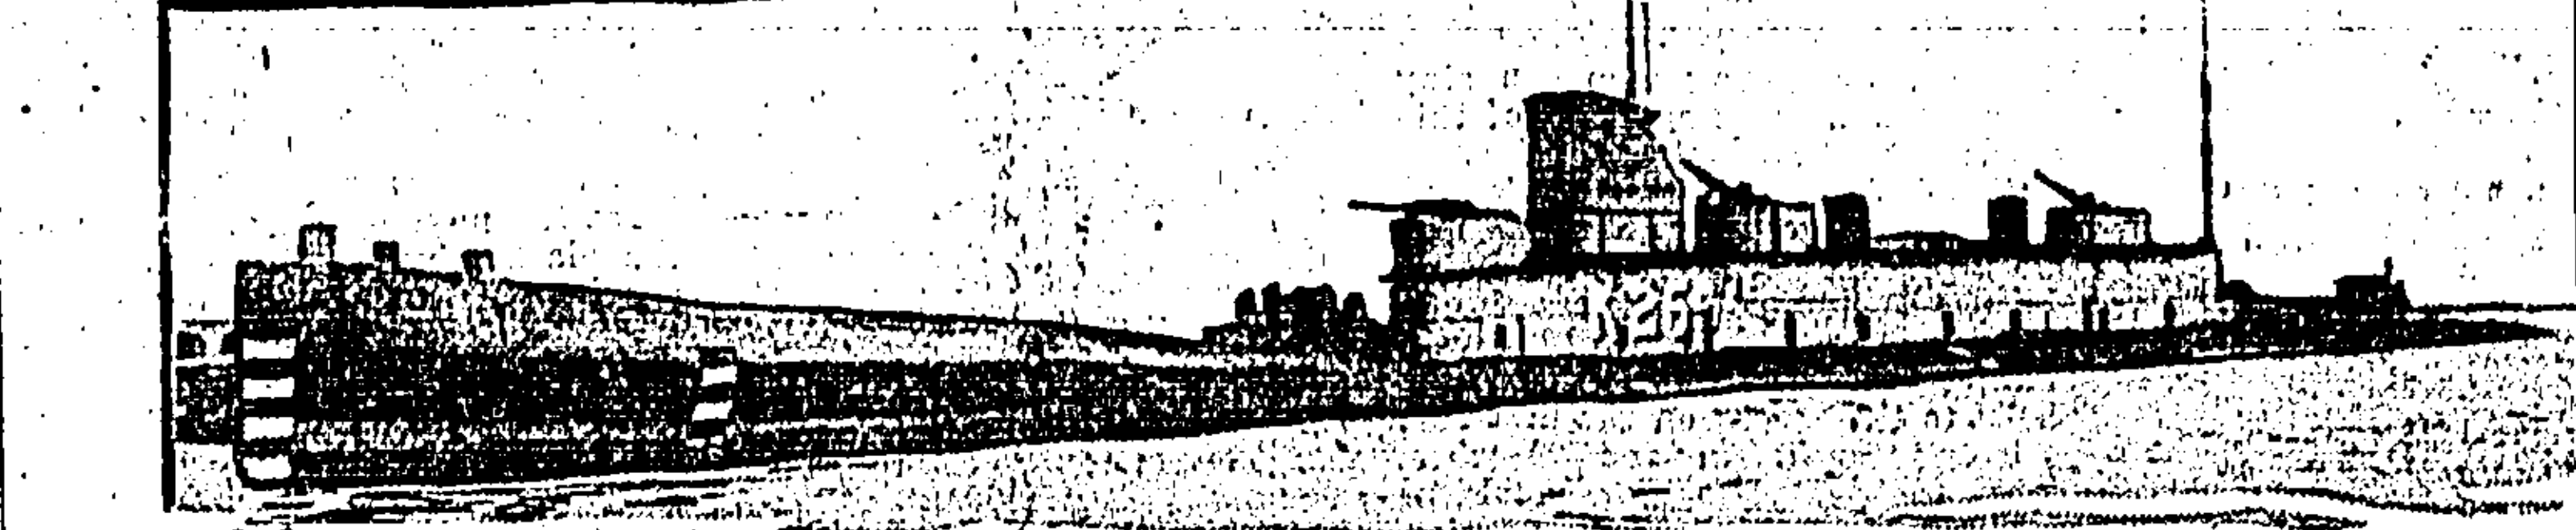

It is stressed that the cold is definitely not serious. —United Press.

CHINA'S RELATIONS WITH ITALY

Nanking, Sept. 7.

Mr. Liu Wen-tao, Chinese Minister to Rome, who has just returned from Italy, is flying to Kuling early this morning. He has received nothing about the special mission causing his return. He said that Sino-Italian relations were most friendly and quoted Signor Mussolini's statement that China, the centre of Asiatic civilisation, had come to a natural contact with Italy, the centre of European civilisation. —Central News.

SECRET MEETING FAILS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1934. Received September 7, 8.07 a.m.)

Washington, Sept. 6.

Revived hopes of an agreement emerging from the debt claim and trade negotiations between the United States and the U.S.S.R. have been quickly destroyed.

Officials of the State Department announced to-night that there has been a complete and hopeless breakdown in the Russian debt negotiations.

The announcement follows upon a "secret" conference between Mr. Trotsky, the Soviet Ambassador, and Mr. Cordell Hull, the Secretary of State, last night, at which they attempted to revive the deadlocked conversations, without achieving anything.

"GONE THE LIMIT"

"We have gone the limit in making concessions on the material questions involved," says an official statement, which adds: "We are convinced that to go further in concession would amount to an unthinkable sacrifice of the public interest."

The breakdown is generally interpreted as meaning the elimination of the possibility of an early resumption of trade activity between the United States and the Soviet. —United Press.

BRITAIN'S ACTION DURING WAR

FRESH REVELATIONS IN THE ARMS RACKET INVESTIGATION

REAR-ADMIRAL DENIES ACCUSATIONS

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1934. Received Sept. 7, 8.55 a.m.)

WASHINGTON, SEPT. 6.
THE EMPLOYMENT OF HIGH NAVAL OFFICERS BY ARMAMENTS FIRMS TO ASSIST THEM IN PUSHING SALES OF WARSHIPS WAS AMONG FURTHER SENSATIONAL ALLEGATIONS IN THE EXPOSE OF THE INTERNATIONAL "ARMS RACKET" IN WASHINGTON TO-DAY.

Letters were put in as evidence purporting to show that the Electric Boat Company thought they had been "double-crossed" by Messrs. Vickers when the British Admiralty handed over the plans of the "K" type of submarine to the Japanese Government.

JAPANESE ADMIRAL MENTIONED

One of the members of the Nye Committee which is carrying out the investigation of the activities of American armaments companies and their relations with other big armaments firms abroad, produced a letter disclosing that the Mitsui Company arranged in 1912 to employ "Admiral T. Matsuo" to help the Electric Boat Company to obtain submarine orders from Japan.

Senator Clark then switched to another matter and accused Mr. Carse, the President of the Electric Boat Company, of violating neutrality in 1916 by selling certain war vessels to Italy. Mr. Carse denied the allegation. He said that the vessels supplied were merely motor yachts and as such were not subject to the neutrality law.

Another sensation occurred when Senator Clark made allegations against an American naval officer.

CHURCH UNION BY DECREE

"UNIFORMITY" IN GERMANY

DR. JAEGER'S ORDER

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1934. Received September 7, 8.10 a.m.)

Berlin, Sept. 6.

The nominal union of the evangelical churches in Germany was accomplished, by official decree to-day.

Dr. Jaeger, the juridical member of the Reichsbishop Mueller's Ecclesiastical Cabinet, was responsible for the order, which stated that the Churches of Bavaria and Wuertemberg have ceased to be independent and that their legal power passes into the hands of the German Evangelical Church.

The Bishops in Bavaria and Wuertemberg, says the decree, must obey the orders of Reichsbishop Mueller.

The Divine Service and the preaching of the Gospel remains untouched by the decree, the sole purpose of which is to achieve uniform structure in the German Evangelical Church. —Reuter Special.

HUGE HAUL OF HEROIN

SEIZURE ABOARD THE "TAIYUAN"

A huge seizure of heroin was made aboard the China Navigation Company's steamer Taiyuan yesterday, on her arrival from Canton, when no fewer than 4,500 ounces of the drug were found concealed in 64 cases of miscellaneous goods.

The packages in which the heroin was found were through cargo destined for Shanghai.

At the Central Magistracy this morning, Revenue Officer Grimmit applied to Mr. Hamilton for confiscation of the drug, but the application was adjourned for 24 hours.

Revenue Officer Ward gave evidence that he made the seizure, on instructions from the Superintendent of Imports and Exports.

Another heroin case came before the Court when a man named Wong Shui, aged 30, was charged with the possession of 7,080 Heroin pills at Room 406 of the Empress Hotel, Des Voeux Road Central. It was stated that the accused was a dealer in heroin pills.

Inspector Andrew informed the Court that the analyst's certificate in regard to the pills was not yet ready, and the case was accordingly adjourned.

There will be a dinner dance at Repulse Bay Hotel on Saturday and a tea dance on Sunday at 4.30 p.m.

LEAGUE SEAT RIVALRY

CHINA'S CLAIM TO RE-ELECTION

TURKEY'S BID

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1934. Received September 7, 8.15 a.m.)

Geneva, Sept. 6.

League circles are a trifle worried about the situation revolving round Turkey's claim to a seat on the League Council, which China is anxious to retain.

It is believed that a solution will be found, satisfactory to both, although Turkey has not withdrawn her claim but has been encouraged by Peral's withdrawal of her candidature.

China means to seek re-election on the grounds that "the existing tensions of the Far Eastern situation increase rather than lessen the necessity for China's presence."

It is understood that Turkey may ultimately withdraw her candidacy for China's seat, in the likely event of compensation being offered in the election of Towik Rashedi Bey as President of the Assembly. —United Press.

CHINA'S NEED FOR CONSENT

Where Re-Election Problem Lies

Geneva, Sept. 6.

The question of the re-election of China to the Council of the League is seriously concerning friends of China who would like to see her remain on the Council, owing to the strength of the candidature of Turkey, able to claim powerful support.

In the event of a straight fight between China and Turkey there is little doubt that China would easily get the majority of votes, but before China can put forward her candidature she must obtain a two-thirds majority vote in the Assembly, and it should not be very difficult for the Turkish opposition, if it is pressed, to secure one-third of the votes against China.

If China secures a vote of re-eligibility, she will certainly also get a majority of votes for her re-election, but if China is eliminated, Turkey's chances of election will be very real. —Reuter.

STOP PRESS

Mr. J. A. Fraser announced at the resumption of the nullah outrage murder trial this morning, that Mary Pine, who was taken suddenly ill and sent to hospital yesterday, is suffering from measles, and will be unable to give evidence. As her statement at the Magistracy was not taken on oath, it cannot be put before the Court.

It was indicated that the Crown would proceed without her evidence and that an attempt will be made to finish the case to-night or to-morrow.

WAR INEVITABLE? Only the Old Men Should Fight

Mr. Frank Roscoe, secretary of the Royal Society of Teachers, lecturing at the City of London vacation course, said he was astonished to hear Lord Dunsany (who spoke at the course previously) advise teachers to avoid talking to the children as if war would not come again.

"If war is inevitable," said Mr. Roscoe, "let us arrange that in the next war the minimum age for enlistment is 60. Let us appoint as chaplains some of the Bishops who were so fond of talking of war from time to time."

"While we over 60 advance on the foe, the young men can stay at home and make speeches of this kind: 'I have already lost a father-in-law and two uncles. I am prepared to sacrifice another uncle rather than see the hated enemy triumph.' These aged gentlemen would then totter into battle. The first issue of lumbago belts to the troops on the first cold winter's night in the trenches, when their grandmothers would be sending them hot-water bottles, would bring the armistice."

"The merit of that kind of war is that instead of killing off the flower of the generation, the old men would bear the brunt, and people like myself will not have to go through the rest of their lives thinking sadly of the promising lads they taught who were no more with them."

"A VERY WICKED ASSERTION."

Mr. J. Byge, of Denmark, speaking at the luncheon at the closing session of the course, said:—"A guest at our luncheon on Monday (Lord Dunsany) made a very wicked assertion when he said that a future war was inevitable. It may be inevitable, if we agree with his view of human nature, but I do not agree with him, and I am sure you do not."

They as teachers could do a great deal to change this attitude of mind, if they were to fight the politicians and die-hard who believed in it. He hoped they would take away from the course some resolve that they would be no party to that state of mind, and that they would teach their children and their fellow-countrymen that war was not inevitable, and that there must be no more war.

Mr. H. A. L. Fisher, who presided, confessed that his spiritual home was Milwaukee, U.S.A. "because," he said, "it has adopted fully the Education Act of 1918."

WHAT LORD DUNSANY SAID.

Lord Dunsany, in the course of his speech was reported to have said:—

"Do not tell your children that there is a reasonable hopeful chance that there won't be another war. Don't encourage that line of thought, because if you do you equip them with little gilded harps, and they will live in a fool's paradise which belongs to another planet, and that planet, so far as history or legend can prove, has never existed."

He believed that we should have peace for some time, because the nations did not want war. They realised that the present was not the time for war.

"Some years ago," he added, "the nations felt they wanted war, and I cannot help feeling that such a time may come again, and the only possible thing is to be prepared for it."

SUMMER HATS Smart Styles Made in Black Lace

REFRESHING SWEETS

Variety in Hats... "A lovely hat seen at a smart out-of-doors gathering recently was made of fine black lace."

SAGO SWEETS

QUITE a number of refreshing fruit sweets may be easily and quickly prepared from sago, or, better still, from the white variety known as seed pearl tapioca.

Lemon Sago

Wash a cupful sago, cook it in five cupfuls boiling water till clear, then add a cupful sugar, two tablespoonfuls golden syrup, the juice and grated rind of a lemon, and a tablespoonful butter. Pour into a mould, leave till cold, turn out, and serve with creamy custard sauce poured round.

Rubies Under Snow

Soak two tablespoonfuls sago in two teacupfuls water overnight. If possible, then cook till quite clear either on the range or in the oven. Now cool slightly, add about 8 tablespoonfuls raspberry jelly, and if the colour is not satisfactory stir in a drop or two of carmine colouring or cochineal. Pour into individual glass dishes and when quite cold garnish with whipped cream.

Apricot Sago

Wash a teacupful sago, add to it three breakfastcupfuls cold water, and simmer gently in the oven till thick and clear. Cook about a cupful dried apricots in a little water, with sugar to taste, and when the fruit is tender add it to the sago. If the sago is too thick add a little water, turn the preparation into a glass dish, and serve cold with cream.

NAKED MAN AT MIXED BATHING

SEQUEL IN POLICE COURT.

The screams of women bathers at Morley baths during mixed bathing drew attention to a naked man.

Next day, at Morley Court, William Cowling (45), labourer, of Morley, pleaded guilty to drunkenness and disorderly conduct and behaving in an indecent and offensive manner.

It was stated that when the women screamed it was thought that Cowling was in difficulties, and a man went to his aid. Then the women said he had nothing on.

After being taken to a cubicle, he tried to get out again, but he was forced to dress.

Cowling, who told a police officer he had tried to drown himself, told the Magistrate that he was sorry.

The presiding Magistrate said drunkenness was no excuse for such disgraceful conduct. Cowling must not be allowed in the baths again.

Fines of £5 for indecency, and £2 for drunkenness, or two months' imprisonment, were imposed.

TRIPLE EXECUTION Woman and Two Accomplices Electrocutd

There was no last-minute reprieve for Mrs. Anna Antonio and two accomplices who went to the electric chair in Sing Sing Prison on August 9th to pay the penalty for the murder of the woman's husband, Salvatore Antonio, who had been killed for the sake of his insurance money.

The trio had been more than a year in prison, and were to have died on June 28. At the last moment Vincent Sactta, one of the two young Italians who actually carried out the crime, made a statement absolving Mrs. Antonio, and this resulted in Governor Lehman ordering a temporary reprieve pending an investigation.

The execution was to have taken place the next night, but again at the last minute there came a reprieve until a motion for a new trial could be heard. The motion was refused by the County Court Judge, but on July 10 the Governor granted a third reprieve, this time until August 9th, in order that the application for a new trial could be placed before the Court of Appeals. The application was heard and refused.

ONLY TWENTY-EIGHT.

Since then Mrs. Antonio, who was only 28 and the mother of three children, had passed through a terrible ordeal. Unable to sleep and refusing to eat, she was in a hysterical state of mind.

At the end, however, she was remarkably calm. Shortly after eleven o'clock she was taken from the condemned cell to the shed barely a dozen yards away in which she was to meet her death. At twelve minutes past eleven she was strapped to the chair. She had not spoken a word. Four minutes later she was dead.

At 11.18 Sactta took her place, and was pronounced dead after six minutes. Sam Ferraci, the other accomplice, took the chair at 11.26, and died within four minutes.

From start to finish the electrocution of the three prisoners had occupied eighteen minutes.

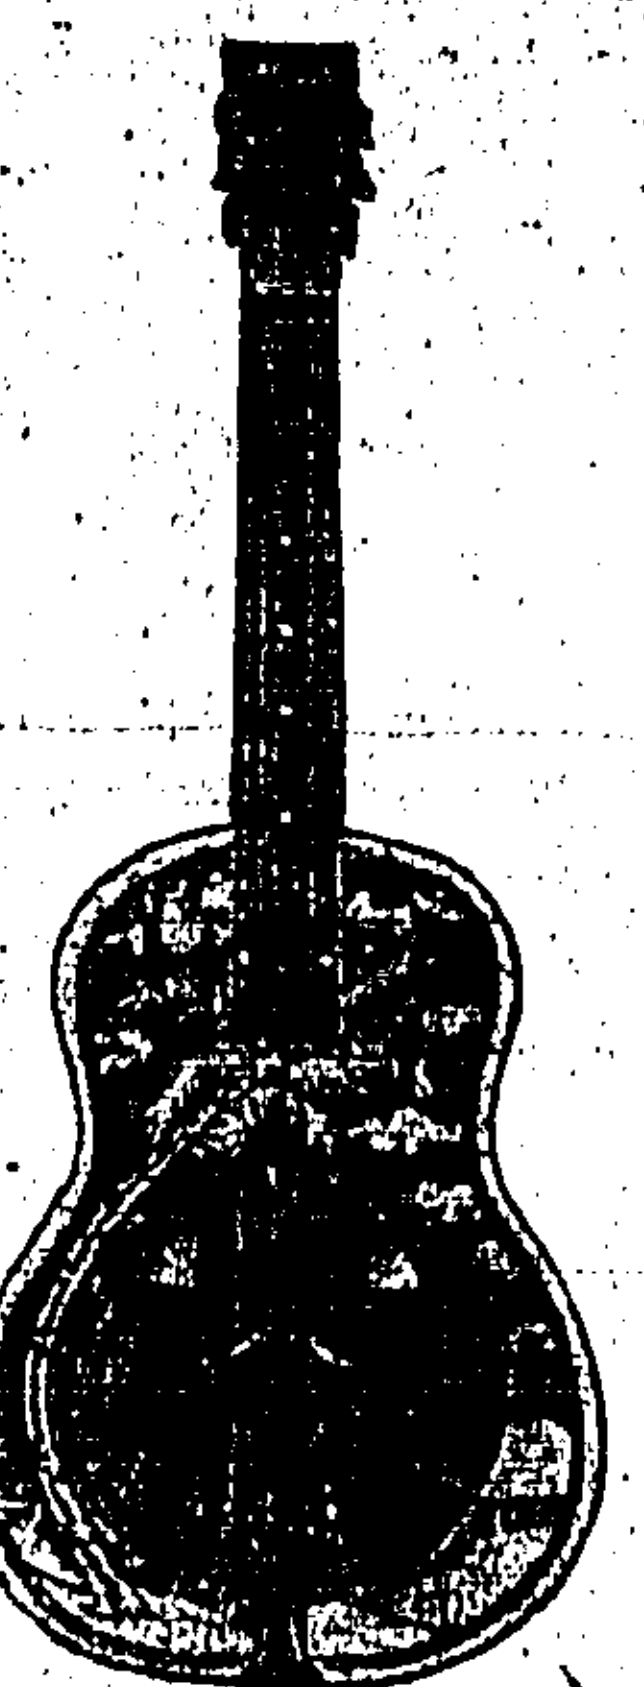

Mrs. Antonio is the first woman to be electrocuted since Mrs. Ruth Snyder paid the same penalty for a similar crime seven years ago.

1,632 PEDESTRIAN CROSSINGS

Extension of Scheme in London

Work is now in progress in many parts of the London district on the marking of pedestrian crossings in the approved herring-bone pattern, both at road junctions which are controlled either by traffic police or by automatic signals, and at other places which are not regarded as sufficiently important to justify such control.

In the City of London many crossings have already been marked. Even some of the great arterial roads in the suburban areas are to be treated in the same way. An idea of the extent of the scheme now being carried out by the various local authorities at the suggestion of the Minister of Transport may be gathered from the fact that from Westminster to Purley, by way of Croydon, there will be no fewer than 135 marked crossings, from Marble Arch to Uxbridge 201, and from Hyde Park Corner to the Bath Road, by way of Kensington High Street, Hammer Smith, and the Great West Road, 176. All the 13 important roads leading to and from London are to be dealt with in the same way, involving the provision of 1,632 pedestrian crossing places in all.

INSTRUMENTS (GUITARS, MANDOLINS AND UKULELES)

- Lead because they agree with the following five points—
1. Powerful, rich, dynamic tone.
 2. Perfect intonation.
 3. Exquisite finish.
 4. Unaffected by weather, water or temperature.
 5. Will not crack or warp with ordinary care.

They are ideal for the beginner. It is a great mistake to buy a cheap musical instrument of any kind for a beginner. NOT ONLY DO THE POOR TONES OF A POOR INSTRUMENT TEND TO LESSEN THE PUPIL'S MUSICAL PERCEPTION BUT THERE IS NO TIME WHEN INSPIRATION IS MORE NEEDED THAN WHILE LEARNING TO PLAY.

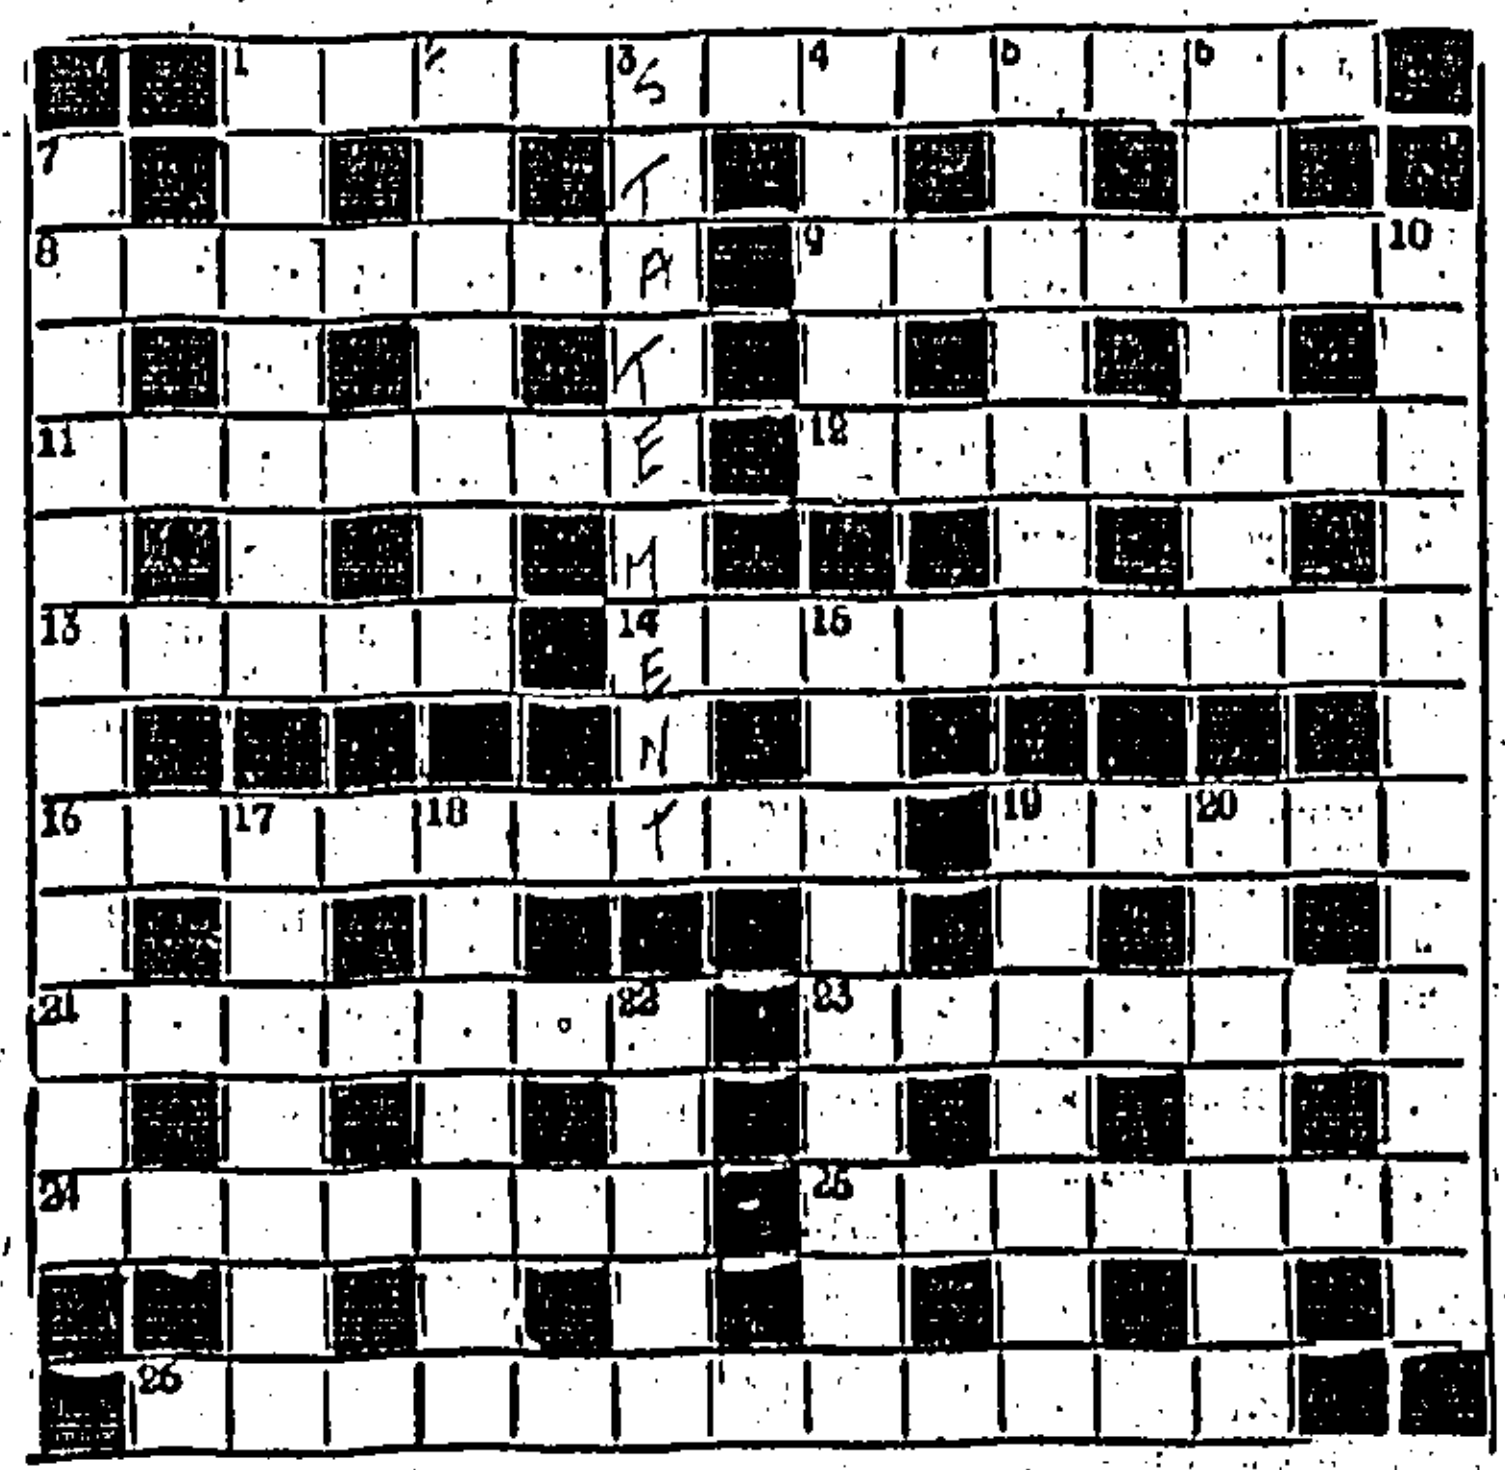

To inspire the highest efforts it is essential to provide an instrument worthy of admiration and care.

MOTOR PROBLEM SOLVED

When Driver Is "In Charge" of Car

Sir Rollo Graham-Campbell the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, ruled at Bow Street Police Court, London, that a motorist can be legally held to be in charge of a car, even though it is temporarily incapable of being mechanically propelled.

John Rankin (37), chauffeur, of Queensberry Mews, South Kensington, was charged on remand with being in charge of a motor car while under the influence of drink to such an extent as to be incapable of having proper control of it.

Rankin was arrested while sitting in the driver's seat of the car waiting for his employer, outside the Holborn Restaurant. The starting switch was locked, and as he had no ignition key, he could not have started the engine.

It was contended by his solicitor, Mr. C. B. V. Head, that to secure a conviction for this offence the car must be capable of being mechanically propelled at the time.

The case had been adjourned for further legal argument.

Mr. Head now said that the section of the Act applied to "all mechanically propelled vehicles, intended or adapted for use on the road." So far from being adapted for use, Rankin's employer had ensured that it could not be used by taking the engine key away with him.

A SIMILAR CONVICTION.

Sir Rollo said that there was no High Court decision on the point, but there was a conviction at Bow Street some time ago in somewhat similar circumstances.

Mr. W. L. Sanders, for the Police, urged that the intention of the Legislature was that no motor driver who was the worse for drink should go near his car. The Act did not of necessity imply that the car could be driven at the moment of arrest.

Mr. Head instanced the case of a car which had broken down, and the engine removed for repairs. No one, he said, could suggest in such a case that the driver could be convicted of being drunk while in charge of the vehicle.

Sir Rollo held that the offence had been proved, but, in view of the mitigating circumstances and of Rankin's excellent driving record, he dismissed the charge under the Probation of Offenders Act, on payment of 25s. costs.

This decision, he said, would save him from being automatically disqualified from driving.

SUICIDE IN CELL

Coroner on "Alarming Discrepancy"

The inquest on Edward Pileston Cawsey (27), otherwise Ian Gowan, civilian air pilot, of Thornton Heath, was resumed at Croydon recently.

Cawsey was found dead in the lavatory of a police cell at Croydon Town Hall, on July 31, after having been remanded on a charge of fraudulently converting £1,309.

The inquest had been adjourned because of contradictory evidence on how Cawsey hanged himself—whether from the clasp on the chain, or by detaching the chain and placing it over an adjacent beam.

The evidence of Dr. T. A. Dukes, police surgeon, was that he found part of the chain deeply embedded in the man's neck as he lay dead on the floor, and the doctor was of the opinion that the man hanged himself from the clasp.

Police Constable Bush, who discovered the body, said that the chain was then fastened over the beam. The hook, making a noose, had given way. The chain was not touched by anyone until after the doctor had gone.

Two police witnesses said the chain was over the beam.

The jury intimated that they had practically made up their mind on the point, but the Coroner deprecated premature expression of opinion and sent for Dr. Dukes.

Dr. Dukes, adhering to his previous evidence, said he handled the chain several times.

After two hours argument and experiments in Court with the chain, the doctor accepted the police theory that the man hanged himself from the beam.

Referring to the discrepancy between the evidence of the doctor and the police as to facts, the Coroner said it was rather alarming and very unfortunate, and he did not think they could discuss it any further.

The jury returning a verdict of "Suicide whilst of unsound mind," said they were of the same view as the police as to the manner in which Cawsey hanged himself.

DISPOSSESSED VICAR

COURT UPHOLDS BISHOP'S ACTION.

The decision of the Wellington (New Zealand) Magistrates, reserved since July 12, in the case brought by the Bishop of Waikeke against the Rev. George Bell, the dispossessed vicar of St. Andrew's, Cambridge, Waikeke, was made public recently.

The decision upholds the bishop's action in depriving the vicar of the living of St. Andrew's Parish, and orders the return of the keys of the church and certain chattels, including the accounts of the church.

The "war" between the vicar and the bishop started several months ago, when the bishop declared the living vacant, after the vicar had refused to accept disciplinary action. The Rev. Bell, however, refused to leave, and continued to claim to be vicar. The parishioners met on May 16 and unanimously approved the bishop's action. The vicar, however, remained in possession of the keys of the church, the sacred vessels and books, so that the bishop's officers had even to break open the doors of the church. Finally the bishop and churchwarden instituted proceedings to recover these articles, which Mr. Bell refused to surrender.

PLAYING FROM MEMORY

Pianist Who Could Not Stop

Nobody is ever too old to play the piano from memory, said Miss Lillian MacKinnon, the educationist, at the Oxford course in music teaching recently.

"Memory will last if it is exercised regularly, but it will deteriorate if it is unused," she added. "The mechanical memory of youth leaves with the growth of self-consciousness, but the stronger memory of the mature mind develops in its stead. If you can learn anything at all you can memories music."

Very few people know how to relax their minds. With practice one could learn to stop thinking altogether. The way to do it was to relax the muscles of the face, including the muscles of the eyes, and gradually all thought would drift away. One would have a feeling of delightful drowsiness, and with practice one would be able to fall asleep at will and at any time. This was a certain cure for insomnia.

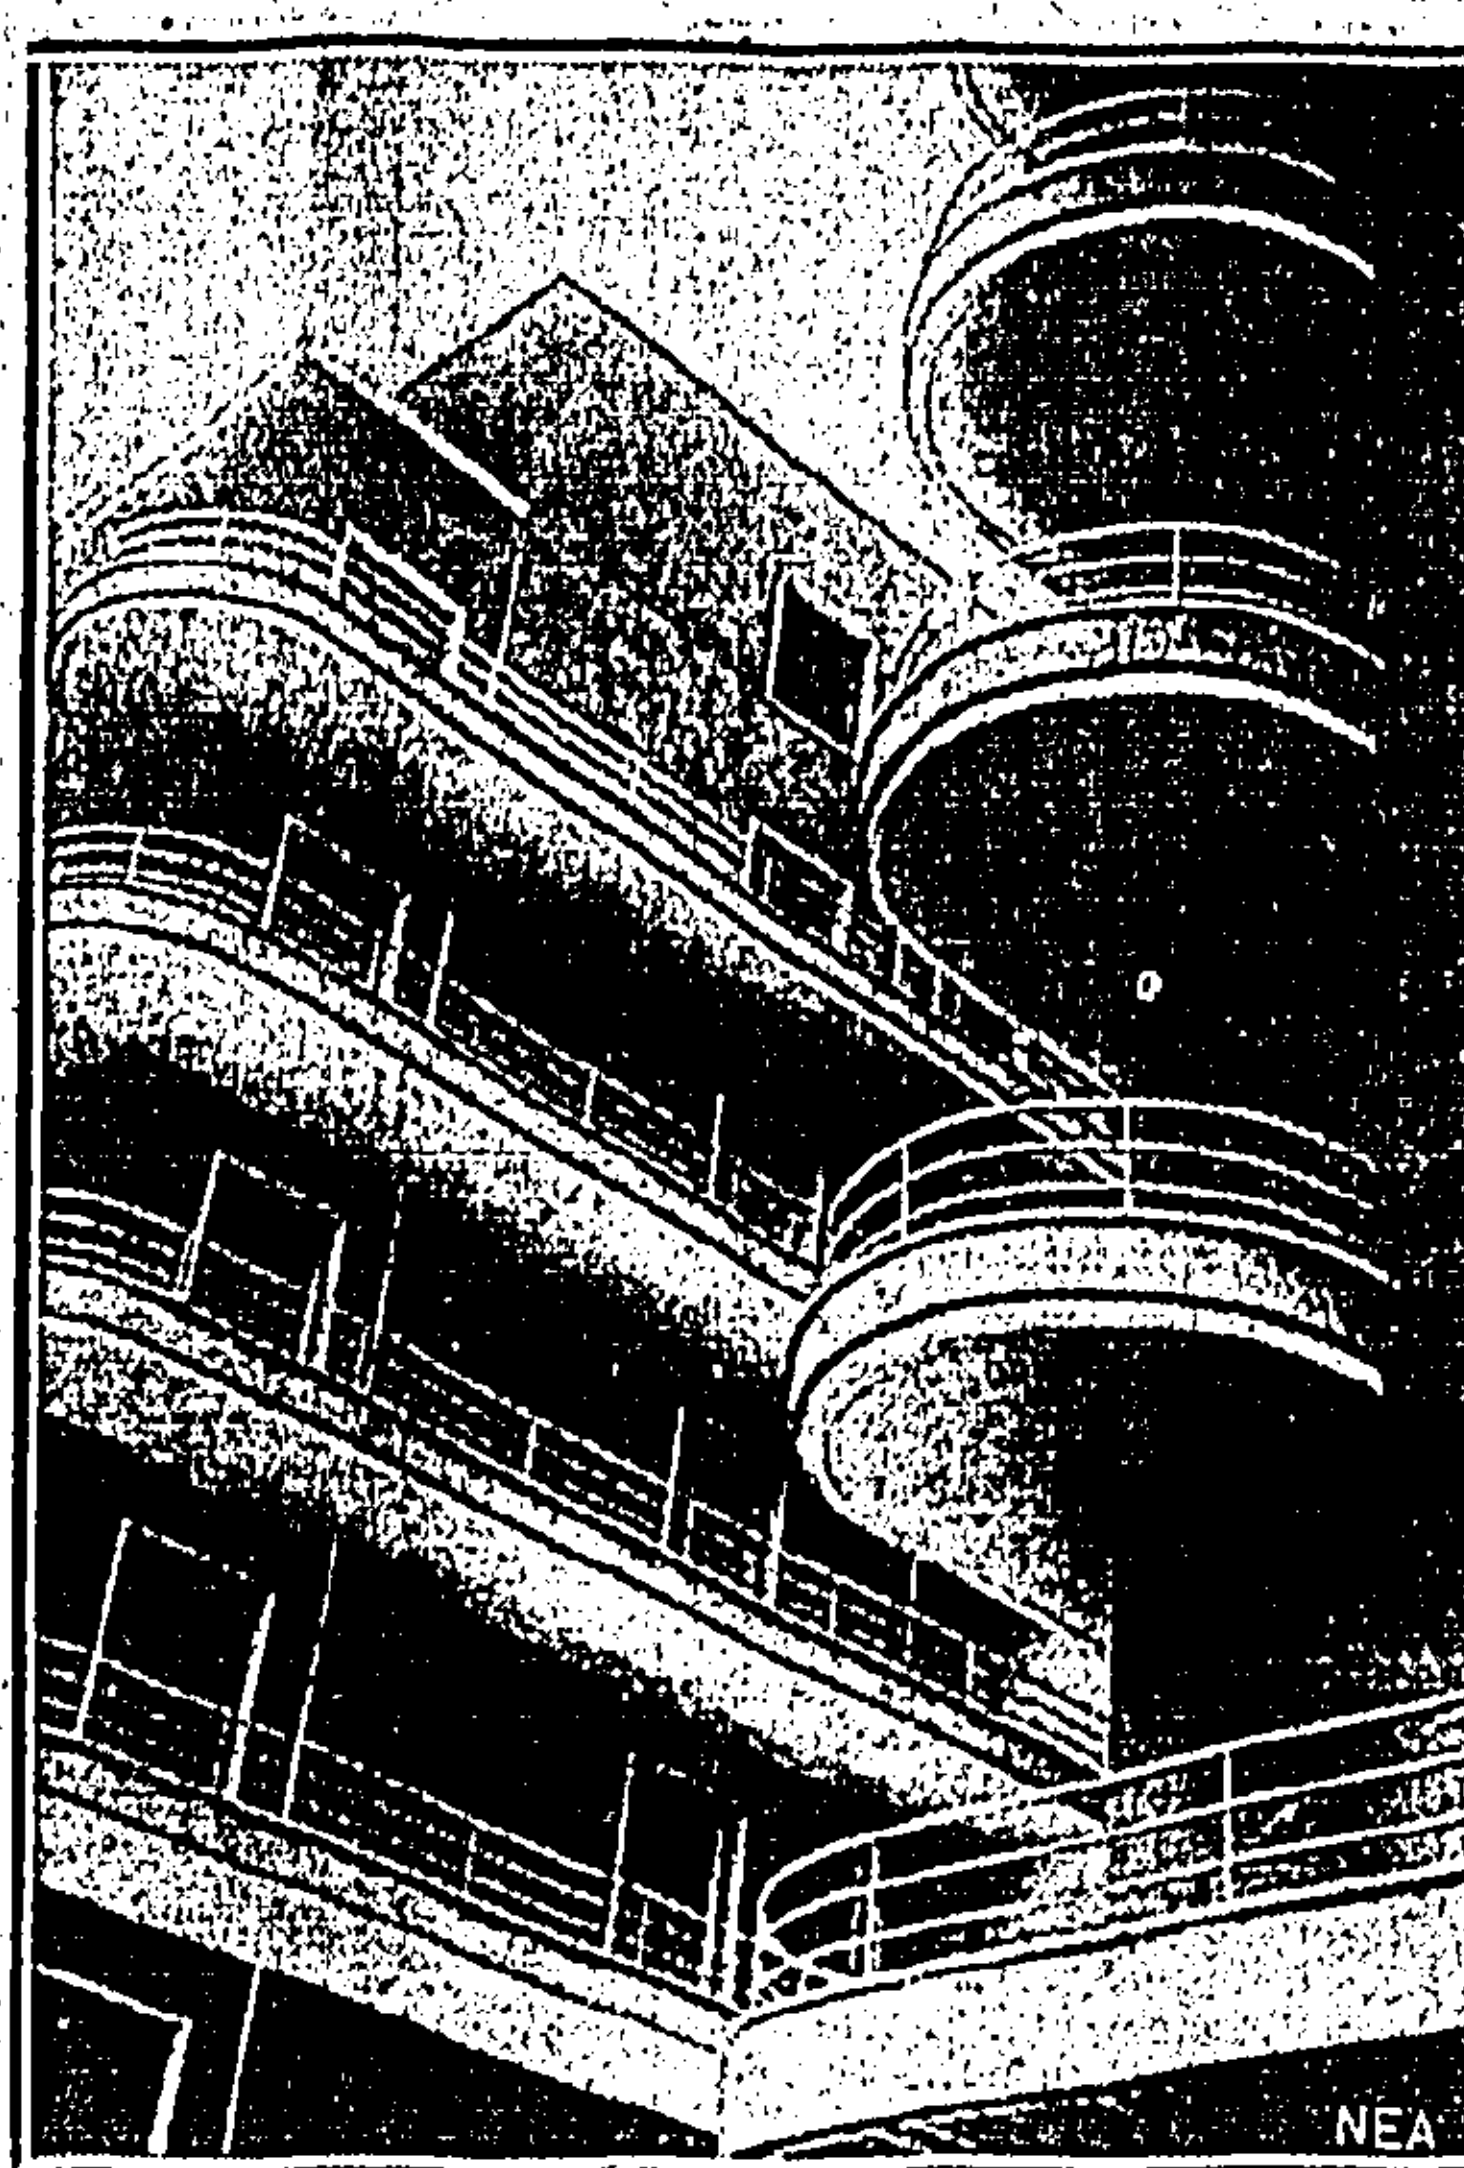

"Mind wandering may be a habit. It is a common fault of people who are given to worrying, people who are always thinking about things which are past or things which may or may not happen in the future, instead of thinking of what is actually happening."

Miss MacKinnon told a story to illustrate the danger in practising music for memory by playing the same piece over and over again without stopping.

"A well-known pianist," she said, "told me that on the morning of a concert he played one technical passage over and over again to get it perfect. At the concert, when he came to that passage, his mind reproduced it as he had practised it in the morning, and he found himself playing it again and again without stopping. He simply could not stop playing, and the perspiration streamed down his face with the sheer horror of what his fingers were doing. He told me it was one of the most painful experiences of his life."

NEW REGIMENT OF FOOT GUARDS?

Next year being the silver jubilee of the accession of His Majesty the King, advantage might be taken to suggest the creation of a regiment of foot guards to be known as "The Colonial Guards," in commemoration of the magnificent response given by our Dominions and Colonies in 1914. Each of the dominions of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa could provide a double company and officers to each battalion. I am sure (says the writer of a letter in a London paper) the idea of such a corps would be exceedingly popular, both at home and abroad, and would show the world that our company of nations stands shoulder to shoulder.

Tourists now will have something besides the marvels of ANCIENT Rome to describe. For new Rome offers this striking example of modern architecture—a multi-terraced apartment house just erected in the Italian capital.

PRISON IN DEFAULT OF PAYMENT

Changes in the Law Suggested

With a view to amending the whole law with regard to imprisonment in default of payment of fines and other sums of money, the departmental committee set up by the Home Office in June, 1933, presided over by Sir John Fischer Williams, stresses the desirability of the acceptance of the general principle that no one should go to prison for non-payment of money under an adjudication of summary jurisdiction unless and until the mind of the court has been specifically directed to the question of imprisonment.

"Perhaps the greatest defect of the existing system," says the committee, "is that in many cases commitment automatically follows on default, and the court has no opportunity of giving specific attention to the question whether the case is one for imprisonment, or whether further consideration ought to be granted to the defendant. The defect is most evident in the enforcement of fines and in rate cases, though it also is a contributory cause of unsatisfactory results in maintenance and affiliation cases."

"The difficulty created by the facts that many people fail adequately to represent their case

WIRELESS AND THE PRESS

"People Want to See News in Print"

Mr. R. D. Blumenfeld, the well-known journalist, speaking in London recently, said that in his opinion wireless would never replace the newspaper as a purveyor of news.

"It may tell you the news, it may give you the news correctly and adequately, but it will never convince you, because you do not believe what you hear," he said. "You want to see it in print."

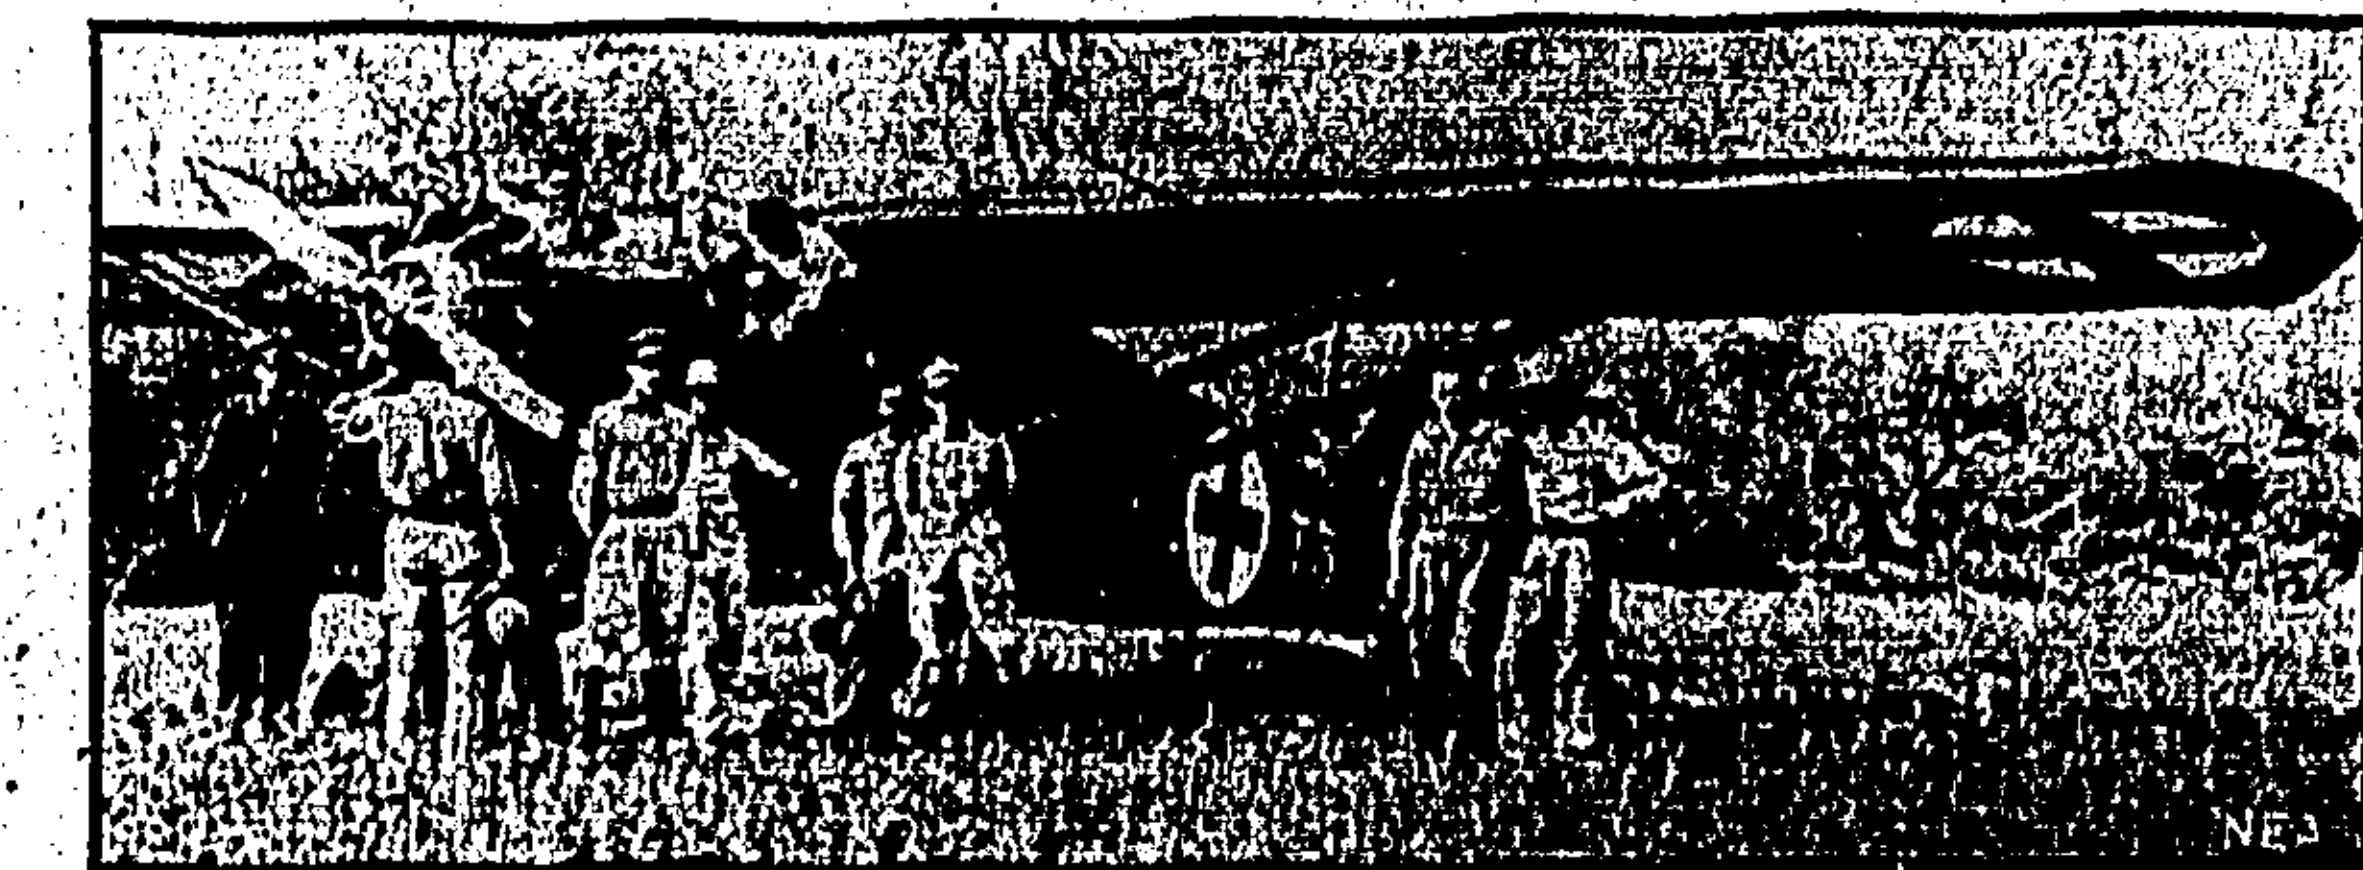

Whether television would make an alteration was another thing. Television was like an omelette—it was spread all over the place—and they would never be able to concentrate on it like they could the news in a newspaper.

Wireless and the daily newspapers must go hand in hand. There was nothing so comforting as to sit down and read a newspaper if it was properly produced.

to the court, and that consequently numerous commitment warrants are issued without specific consideration of the question whether the circumstances of a particular default justify immediate imprisonment is the main problem with which we have to deal, and to which the main recommendations in the reports are directed."

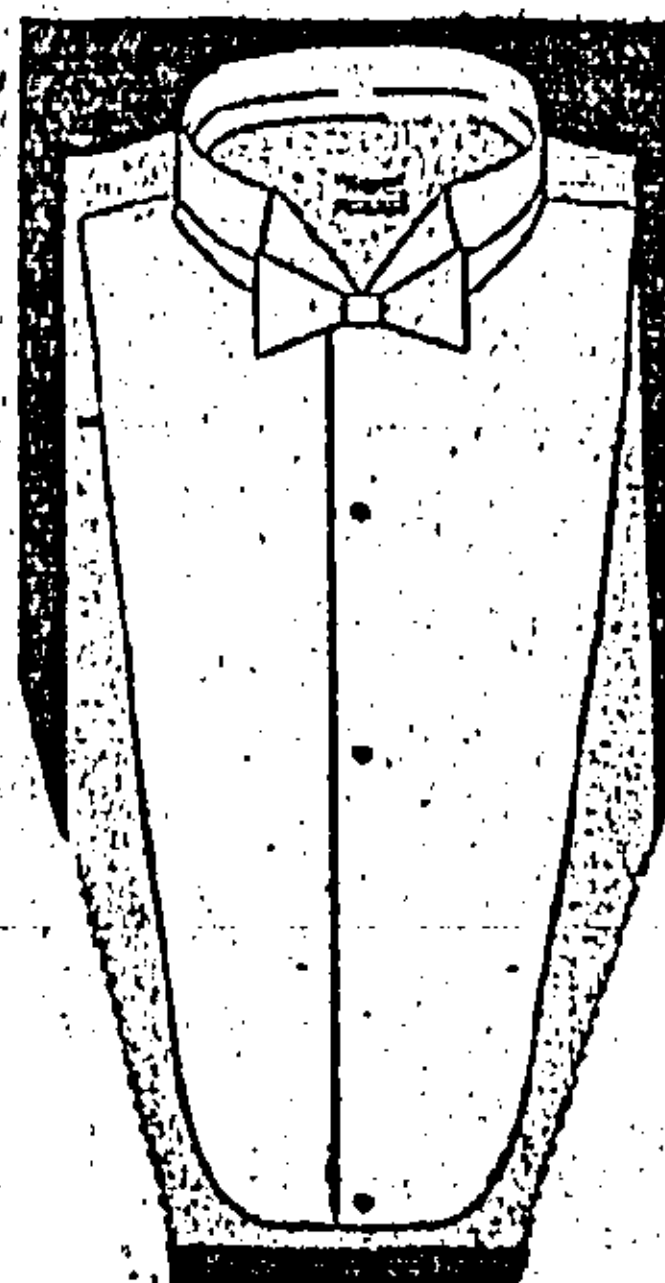

Taking no chances that their prisoners might escape and carry back information to the enemy, Paraguayan troops blindfold their captured Bolivian prisoners on the trip behind the lines. This was after a bitter battle in the Chaco war.

With a tremendous loss of life reported on both sides, Paraguayan troops are taking to the air to transport their wounded to hospitals. Here a typical Paraguayan "Flying ambulance" is taken to hospital.

WHAT WEIGHT IS YOUR SHIRT?

You have probably never thought of that, but it is a point well worth considering this weather.

Austin Reeds have just evolved a stiff-fronted shirt which is fifty per cent. lighter than the ordinary dress shirt.

It has a streamline front, two stud holes and square cuffs and is eminently suitable for mess wear and for the between season events which call for that little extra formality in dress wear.

KEY TO NAVAL LIMITATION

tion," his adviser added, "insist on getting an answer to it, and you will find that the whole question of naval parity as between Great Britain and the United States will resolve itself into the further question how big their equal contributions should be to the policing of the seas against any violator of the Kellogg Pact."

Whether Mr. Ramsay MacDonald ever put that question to President Hoover I do not know. My impression is that he left it unasked, because he himself had not grasped the underlying truth that the problem which confronts all peace-loving nations was then, as it is now, how to insure an overwhelming superiority of strength against any prospective war maker. If the governments of the United States, Great Britain and France, in the first instance, discuss and organize next year's Naval Conference in the light of this problem, carefully and frankly stated, there will be a chance of reaching such an agreement as may avert war and lead, in time, to a real reduction of armaments, naval and other. If not, then not.

In other words, let peace-loving nations renounce neutrality toward war makers as they have renounced war itself. Let them, until the overwhelming might of the forces of peace is seen to be beyond challenge, keep up or bring up their armed strengths to a point at which they shall be able to perform their police function. Then, in time, with the disappearance of the fear of war, taxpayers everywhere will insist on a reduction of armaments all round. But in no case should armaments be allowed to fall below the level required for the adequate policing of a warless world.

LIFE INSURANCE— an Impregnable Wall

THE world has witnessed some sad economic experiences in recent years. Financial safeguards which were thought strong and trustworthy have proven weak and flimsy.

You owe it to your dependents to build a substantial reserve against adversity; to protect them against future financial hazard. Millions of people live serenely behind the security that life insurance offers, that impregnable wall of defence against economic disaster.

You can create, at age 30, a ten thousand dollar estate, under our Guaranteed Maximum Protection Policy, for $158.50 yearly. In lieu of a lump sum payment, the proceeds will be paid in regular monthly instalments, if desired.

MENACE OF BRITISH FASCISM

Further clashes between British Fascists and their opponents seem inevitable at the large-scale rally which the Mosley Black Shirts are to hold at Hyde Park on Sunday. Mr. Citrine, the Secretary General of the Trade Union Congress, in his denunciation of the Fascist movement as the enemy of democracy, carries with him large numbers who are in no way associated with the Labour Party, but who see in the Mosley campaign an influence repugnant to British ideals. In particular, there is a widespread feeling that the Government should intervene and make the wearing of uniforms and the arming and drilling of Fascists illegal. At the same time, there are others who think that the childishness of Sir Oswald's appeal to the dramatic instinct makes any serious criticism of his programme unnecessary, the movement being regarded in these circles as little more than highly organised indulgence in dressing-up. It is true that the leader of the British Fascists declared a year ago that he is prepared to meet opposition, if necessary, with machine-guns and that his party is organised for a struggle of violence. His followers, however, are somewhat more discreet. The propaganda Department of the movement insists with the greatest display of moral indignation that the party aims at peace; is not, and never has been aggressively organised; and bears no resemblance to a private army. Such assertions, however, have as their constant accompaniment descriptions of military parades inspected by the leader, of the distribution of colours, of the organisation of a flying corps and defence force, and of the systematic instruction of members in ju-jitsu. The same disingenuousness marks the British Fascist attitude towards the idea of liberty. Members frequently profess the greatest reverence for freedom, but it is a freedom entirely at variance with their policies. Fascism seeks to suppress all political parties except its own, and, with them, free speech, to say nothing of the rights of workers, or Press criticism except in matters of detail. Whilst it seems utterly unlikely that the Fascist movement will flourish on British soil, at a time when violence is being glorified into heroism in many parts of the world, and when war is openly regarded as an end in itself, it is important that any movement which is based upon the forcible suppression of freedom should be exhibited for what it is.

NOTES OF THE DAY

NEW MORALITY.

Sir James Jeans crystallised the thoughts of many observers of current affairs in his brilliant Presidential address to the members of the British Association. The world needs a new morality and a new religion. It is to make the best use of the resources that modern science has placed at its disposal. That was the keynote and it will be widely echoed—as the opportunity of youth. Youth must not be browbeaten by the magnitude of the task. The way is there, the way to a continual increase in the comfort and dignity of life, and it can be found. At present, the world lacks not only the necessities of life, because of the breakdown in the means of distribution, but also the initiative and the self-discipline which is demanded for the proper use of leisure.

OPPORTUNITY OF YOUTH

The young are in a position to use their leisure in a way which not only will broaden their outlook but fundamentally enrich themselves and their community. The charge has sometimes been brought against youth that it is superficial and unthinking—that it is concerned with trivialities rather than with the deeper problems of life. In Sir James Jeans' picture, there is an opportunity to reverse this judgment, an opportunity to ponder the present condition of things in the world and seek out wise and constructive remedial measures. While in some countries a definite effort is being made to regiment not only the actions but the thinking of the young, the youth of democratic countries should be alive to the priceless privilege which is theirs of doing their own thinking. But such thinking must avoid the easy road of superficiality, and reaching down into the fundamental nature of things, find that which alone can satisfy. The founder of Christianity has said, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

RUSSIA AND LEAGUE

The entrance of Russia into the League of Nations in the next week or so is as certain as any political event can be. Her formal application for membership will come before the Assembly. There can be no real opposition. One or two countries have openly expressed dislike of the Soviet intervention in the councils of Europe, but their prejudices will be overruled. Poland probably will demand a permanent seat on the Council to counter-balance Russian influence. Questions are raised of minority treaties, but these can be overcome. From the viewpoint of the League, as well as of the central and eastern nations and of France, the step will be welcomed. The League has lost, temporarily at any rate, the support of a number of great powers. It is high time that its prestige should be enhanced by an important addition.

A COVER?

When the criticisms of the League by Russia are remembered, the diplomatic observer is entitled to ask whether that nation is influenced chiefly by a political purpose in putting forward its candidature. It believes it has enemies in Europe as well as in the Far East, and it is anxious to avail itself of the additional security that the League can offer. That in itself is a tribute to the League. If the material power of the League can scarcely be exercised against a rebellious country, it can marshal the public opinion of the world, and that is not a negligible factor. Yet it is impossible to conceal the danger of permitting the League to be used as a cover for fresh alignments which may resemble the old balance of power. There are mixed up with the application of Russia various schemes which look toward the conclusion of treaties of mutual assistance, involving sanctions.

THE ULTIMATE JUDGMENT

It is the function of the Security Committee, which has been set up by the Disarmament Conference, to analyse the implications of the proposed pacts, and inferentially the consequences of the new part which Russia is to play in European politics. They must be brought into consonance both in the text and in the intention with the League idea. It may be that it will be possible to work out some method which will safeguard not only existing legal rights, but future moral rights. If that can be done, then a great step forward will be taken toward collective organisation of peace. In whatever is done, the concurrence of Italy and Germany is especially necessary. The design should be to bring Germany back into the League with Russia, and to bring Germany into any European pact which is hereafter framed. On the satisfaction of these conditions depends the ultimate judgment of the world on the entrance of Russia into the League.

KEY TO NAVAL LIMITATION

By WICKHAM STEED

BEHIND the adjournment of the Disarmament Conference, and the uncertainty whether it can profitably reassemble, lies a puzzle over which thoughtful Britons are already racking their brains: What are the chances of success at next year's Naval Conference?

Nobody knows, and, what is more, nobody pretends to know. There is talk of a new British programme of cruiser building. After M. Barthou, the French Foreign Secretary, had come and gone, his colleague, M. Pietri, the Minister of Marine, stayed on in London to talk of the European aspects of naval disarmament or rearmament and, doubtless, to say that if Italy persists in building two super-battleships of 35,000 tons each, France cannot be satisfied with 26,000-ton vessels of the Dunkerque class. So things seem to be well on the road to another international wrangle.

If the preliminary talks upon next year's Conference are to be merely a resumption of the hopeless task of striking a balance between international fears and suspicions, the Conference itself is likely to become a weariness to the flesh and a worse weariness to taxpayers' pockets. I find it hard to get up any real interest in the matter at all. In my belief the problem of naval armaments ought to be stated and solved in terms of a peace policy. A really sound policy on the part of the United States, Great Britain and France would either settle the whole business in advance or, in the worst event, would make the issues so plain that a child could understand them. We should have to face realities and make up our minds.

What are the antecedents? In the latter half of 1916 there was serious trouble between Great Britain and the United States over "the freedom of the seas." The searching of American cargoes and ships for contraband of war strained relations between London and Washington almost to breaking point. Then, early in 1917, Germany went one better, or one worse, with her "unrestricted submarine campaign." On April 6, 1917, the United States declared war upon Germany, mainly for this reason. On Jan. 8, 1918, President Wilson delivered his "Fourteen Points" address; and, in his second "Point," laid down the doctrine that there should be absolute freedom of navigation on the seas, outside territorial waters, alike in peace and in war, except as the seas might be closed in whole or in part for the enforcement of international covenants by international action.

In the autumn of 1918 Germany asked for an armistice on the basis of the "Fourteen Points" and other Wilsonian pronouncements. Col. Edward M. House discussed this request with the British Prime Minister, Mr. Lloyd George, who flatly refused to accept "the freedom of the seas" as an armistice condition. Colonel House told him that, if Great Britain should be obdurate, the United States would build and maintain so powerful a navy that Great Britain would be unable to ignore it, such a navy indeed as the American people had long desired. Finally, the question was left open for discussion.

"It's the same thing every summer. We're the only people stuck here in the city."

cussion and decision at the Paris Peace Conference, and the armistice was concluded on thirteen of the fourteen Wilsonian Points, the second Point being left in abeyance.

While the League of Nations Covenant was being drafted at the Hotel Crillon in Paris between Feb. 3 and 18, 1919, the principle was soon accepted that, as between members of the League, in performance of their obligations under the Covenant, there should be no neutrality. This principle was clearly affirmed on the morning of Feb. 13 with reference to the eventual admission of neutral Switzerland to membership of the League. On Feb. 14, after President Wilson had read the Draft Covenant to the Peace Conference, he was asked by a number of American citizens to explain why the Covenant failed to mention "the freedom of the seas," for the sake of which the United States entered the war. His reply was simple. It was that, in future, there would be no freedom of the seas because there would be no neutrals. Any covenant breaker would find the other members of the League ranged against him, and the seas would be closed to him. But after the decision of the Washington Senate not to ratify the Peace Treaty, of which the League Covenant forms the first twenty-six Articles, the United States became prospectively neutral in regard to any disputes between members of the League and a covenant-breaker, and the old trouble over "the freedom of the seas" revived.

The next stage was reached at the Washington Conference of 1921-22. There "parity" became the watchword as between the British and American navies. Presently it became a catchword and a fetish. Later, Italy took it up and, in its name, helped to ruin the "Coolidge" Naval Conference at Geneva in the summer of 1927; and, together with France, reduced the London Naval Conference of January, 1930, to three-fifths of what it might have been. Now Japan seems to have taken it up also. Is it not high time that a correction is sought?

On Aug. 27, 1928, the Kellogg pact was signed in Paris. Early in September, 1929, shortly before he started on his visit to President Hoover at Washington and Raptan, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, then Prime Minister in the second British Labour Administration, inquired of a friend (who was supposed to know something of Mr. Hoover and of the United States) how best he could deal with a host whom he affectionately termed "the dear old Quaker." Unless I am misinformed, he was advised carefully to avoid, at the outset, all the vexed and complicated expressions of "parity" in statistical tables and naval "categories," and to put to Mr. Hoover one very simple, though searching, question: "In a world which, on the invitation of a President of the United States, has renounced war, what is the lawful function of a navy?"

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald was taken aback. He asked his adviser for the right answer, and was told that the only right answer is: "A police function." "Put that question," (Continued on Page 4).

The Very Idea! SHOP AH-OY.

Behind the Ham in Our Ham and Beef Joint

By Ed. Kelly, Cheeser.

HAVE we told you about the time when George and myself were in business together?

Only a small shop it was, and we sold ham, and beef, and frankfurts, and groceries and things. It was what you'd call a mixed business. At least it was when we'd finished with it.

The whole trouble was that George, though willing, had had no experience. He didn't know an egg from an aniseed ball. On the other hand, we knew all about it, but we couldn't keep our eye on him all the time.

He had no tact. A customer would ask for three-pennorth of cheese, and George would say, "Three-pennorth of cheese, Madam? Certainly, Madam! Do you want it for mice, or for home consumption? Because, if you want it for mice, I can tell you that they simply won't come at it. Don't blame 'em either. Why, we put half a pound of this cheese on a plate outside a mouse hole in this very shop, and the mice left in a body. Wouldn't you rather have a slice of bacon, or something?"

Now, that's not sales talk.

We were at the back of the shop one day blowing up some sausages when a customer came in for some eggs.

"Eggs? Certainly! Hen eggs or fowl eggs?"

"Mix 'em for the lady," we called out from the back of the shop. We heard various scuffling noises going on for a while, and when we came out there was George mixing the eggs up with a fork, and asking the lady if she'd brought a bottle.

In the early stages of the business, we'd admit that we didn't have much system. After we'd sold caustic soda for baking soda a couple of times it was beginning to cost us too much for wretches, so we mixed all the soda together and produced a compound caustic, baking, bicarbonate, washing soda which served all purposes.

One of the things which led to our bankruptcy was the football at Home. After we started betting as a sideline, the accounts became very involved.

For instance, take Mrs. Smith's account: 1 dozen eggs, $1.70; 1 pound of butter, $1.10 (crook dollar . . . total, 10 cents); $2.60 on Tottenham Hotspur, if win, all up Arsenal, 1½ lb cheese, 2 loaves of bread and $1.90 off last week's account; six empty lemonade bottles on Aston Villa, and two tins of salmon at $1.25, all up Manchester City.

TOTAL

Well, that's what tricked us. The total.

Another thing that helped towards the failure of the business was George's flat feet. He couldn't work the pedal under the counter that was attached to the scales.

It looks bad when you've got about five rashers of bacon on the scale, and the scale registers 145 lbs., which is George's weight. And another thing. We used to slide up and down behind the counter on the saw-dust when serving. George became so good at it that when sliding to meet a customer he always slid right past her. Same thing on the return journey. Result was that the customer had to wait until George was completely out of breath before he could serve her.

At the finish up we decided to get out of the shop. The work was getting too hard. We had to wait outside the shop for a customer, drag him in, thrust a pound of ham into his hand, and then wrestle him all over the floor for the money.

We put a large sign outside the shop, EVERYTHING REDUCED! This meant that the eggs were smaller and there were less of them to the dozen, and that the number of ounces in the pound was slightly altered. After that we sold out stock, plant, fittings, and goodwill.

We bought an orange with what we got for the goodwill.

FOOTPADS ON THE
TAIPO ROADWoman Held-Up at Revolver's Point

Held up at the revolver's point, Mrs. Tom Lai-she, aged 30, living at 29 Fuk Wah Street, and Tom Choy-ming, her 29-year-old nephew, were last night robbed by two men having the appearance of flakies on the hillside above the Basel Mission on the Taiipo Road. The couple had been admiring scenery from the top of the hill, and at twilight were descending the incline to reach Taiipo Road. Some 350 yards above the Basel Mission house, they saw two Chinese who made known their intentions by one of them producing a revolver with which he threatened the couple. His companion proceeded to strip the woman of her jewellery, this including a pair of jade ear-rings, three gold fingers-rings and a gold bangle. The total value of the jewellery was $145.

The robbers ran away in a westerly direction, towards Castle Peak, after telling the victims not to shout for help.

The victims were accompanied by two young children of Mrs. Tom Lai-she, who ran away at the outset of the robbery.

HARBOUR PIPE

CONTRACT LET TO HUME PIPE CO.

Unique features will be employed in the laying down of the second harbour pipe line, as a result of Government awarding the contract to the Hume Pipe Company.

It is understood that the contract was secured by this Company, which recently opened in Hongkong, in the face of keen competition from pipe-makers in Britain.

As opposed to the existing 12 inches diameter steel pipe, the new steel main which the Public Works Department intend to lay towards the end of the year, will be of 18 inches diameter and will be specially protected both internally and externally. The shell of the pipe will be made of steel 7/16 inch thick and when formed into pipes of approximately 20 feet in length, the latter will be tested to withstand an internal hydraulic pressure of 500 lbs. per square inch; this results in stressing the pipe walls to four tons per inch run.

The pipes will then be wrapped externally with a special marine coating evolved by the Hume Pipe Company, which coating has been found to be particularly resistant to marine borers and will thus adequately protect the steel shell. Internally, the steel shell will be protected from corrosion by a half inch thick concrete lining, spun in the pipes by means of the latest Hume patented process.

To facilitate the laying of this pipe along the bottom of the harbour, the pipes will be welded into lengths of 100 feet and in the process of laying, special flexible ball and socket joints will be fitted to allow for unevenness of the harbour bed and also expansion joints, to equalise stresses in the main which are set up by any longitudinal movement.

Local Manufacture.

The pipes, expansion joints and pipe specials, will be supplied by Messrs. Hume Pipe (Far East) Ltd., who have recently commenced operations in this Colony, but who have been established in Singapore for many years.

The local factory is situated near to Tsun Wan on the Castle Peak Road. Here the company has 7 1/2 acres of ground, of which about half is on the sea front and the balance on the inland side of the road, the two lots being joined by a haulage tunnel under the road.

At this factory, the Hume Company will be manufacturing steel pipes of all sizes, as well as the latest type of reinforced concrete pipes from four ins. to 10 feet diameter, steel and concrete poles, building blocks and all other types of precast concrete products.

The present manager, Mr. R. B. Lewis, will be returning to Singapore by the Corfu this week to take charge of Malaya. The General Manager of the Company, Mr. C. H. Unbehauen, will make his headquarters in Hongkong.

The ball and socket joints which are to be used on the contract are being supplied by Messrs. Blakeborough & Sons, Ltd., of Yorkshire, whose local agents, Messrs. Mulcock & Co., are also the China agents for Messrs. Hume Pipe (Far East) Ltd.

Ending the Famine.

The provision of a second pipe line across Hongkong harbour is necessary to augment the supply of water to the island from the Shing Mun Valley.

It may be remembered that the first pipe line was successfully laid in the winter of 1929-30. This pipe line has proved very satisfactory and has given excellent service; in fact it has been of vital importance in alleviating the water shortage experienced during the past few seasons.

In view of the vulnerability of a single pipe line, however, and also of the fact that further supplies of water from the Shing Mun Valley, due to the progress made with the construction of the Gorge Dam, will probably be available by the summer of next year, the first pipe line is now to be duplicated.

It is anticipated that the laying of the new pipe line will be commenced in November this year, and will be completed early next year.

Alleged Admission.

SENSATIONAL EVIDENCE IN DOUBLE-MURDER CASE

"I should die. I have killed two persons. They have taken my wife away from me and kept her. Although I should die, my spirit will be in the hands of Jesus. I have committed a great sin."

The above startling admission was alleged to have been made by Keung Chi-pan, a young Chinese, charged with the murder of two persons, a Chinese police constable who was guarding him outside the charge room of the Shamshuipo Police station, according to evidence tendered at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon.

Keung is charged with the murder of Yim Chun, Keung Wan-lan at 211, Lai-chikok Road, on July 21. Mr. W. J. Lockhart-Smith, Assistant Crown Solicitor, conducted the case for the Crown.

At yesterday's hearing, evidence was given by two Police constables of visiting 211, Lai-chikok Road, in the early hours of July 21. They saw a length of cord hanging down from the third floor and in the back cubicle found the bodies of a man and woman, apparently stabbed to death. Sergeant G. Davies appeared at the house soon afterwards with a man in a ricksha. He left this man in their charge and visited the third floor.

Found in Alley.

Evidence was then given by Sergeant Davies, who, whilst on patrol duty in the Shamshuipo district, in the early morning of July 21, found a man in an alleyway parallel to Lai-chikok Road and Talmah Street. The man, who was leaning against the left hand side of the alleyway, said he had been in a fire and

NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGEMARKET REGISTERS DECLINE

The following reports on the New York stock market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz: The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: Stocks were downward, due to the more than 14-point break in United States Smelting issues owing to the Company's earnings for the past eight months being estimated at $5 to $5.50 per share, which is about half the annual cost of $15 a share. Bonds were erratic, featured by a sharp recovery in United States Government issues, which was due to the fact that the Comptroller had ruled in favour of the National Banks' position that the statements may classify fully-guaranteed Government obligations, such as homeownor's loans, the Loan Corp. and the Federal Farm Mortgage Corp. as direct Government issues. The Curb Exchange was irregular. Wheat prices were higher, due to the strong cash wheat situation, in spite of extensive profit-taking.

S. C. & F. New York office cables: The stock market was under moderate pressure in the late trading, as metal shares slumped on the disappointing earnings report by the U.S. Smelting Corp. Further irregularity is indicated. The textile strike is the predominant news item. The market now about 47% of the industry, according to Press surveys. The new Federal Mediation Board is expected to hasten a settlement of the dispute. Other news is featureless.

The Alaska Juneau Railway earnings for the eight months ended August 31st amounted to $1,558,700, against $939,000 for the corresponding period of last year. Montgomery Ward's earnings for the six months ended July 31st totalled $4,153,600, against a loss of $3,470,000 during the corresponding period of last year. Daily crude oil output last week was 27,000 barrels below the Federal quota. Mr. Donald Richberg of the NIRA upholds the profit limitation. The NIRA will with Columbia is being sought. The "Iron Age" reports that steel output is unchanged at 19 per cent. Immediate prospects are uncertain. The Edison Electric Institute reports that electric production was off 6% during the week ended September 1st. The National Cash Register sales for the eight months ended August 31st totalled $11,025,000, against $8,491,000 during the corresponding period of last year. The Electric Automobile has been awarded all Chrysler Motor business. Woolworth's August sales were up 2.15%. Business done: 600,000.

New York & Chicago commodity reports received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz:—

Cotton: The effect of additional low private estimates of the crop was partly offset by news of a further spread in the strike and the belief held in some quarters that contemplated mediation will be ineffective at present. The Cotton Exchange will close at 11.50 o'clock on Saturday morning and the Government Bureau report will be published at 12 (noon). The appointment of the Strike Mediation Board and the prevailing small crop ideas are dominating factors, but the textile strike is apparently spreading.

Rubber: The market was very steady, but featureless.

Grain: The strength of cash wheat, which continues, was a bullish factor and some further advance is probable.

fallen down. He had a wound on the inside of his left ankle. Witness became suspicious and arrested the man, took him to Cedar Street and then applied first aid. He then put the man in a ricksha and on arrival at Lai-chikok Road (on route to the Police station) met a police constable, who took him to 211, Lai-chikok Road. After visiting the house, witness took the man to Shamshuipo Police Station and left him in charge of a constable, while the matter was reported in the charge room. The man was dressed in a pair of shorts and carried a single dollar bill out of his clothing when he was carried into the station. Witness later took the man in an ambulance to the Kowloon Hospital.

Mo Hok-kwan, police constable, said that he had taken charge of defendant when he arrived at the Shamshuipo police station. Witness had heard defendant say he had killed two people. This alleged admission was written in a book by witness.

At this point, the hearing was adjourned until this afternoon.

HITLER'S LABOUR CORPS PARADE

Berlin, Sept. 6.

The coming of labour conscription in Germany was foretold by Herr Hitler to-day when he delivered a brief address at the giant rally of labour volunteers in which 50,000 youths of military age performed soldierly evolutions with the humble spade.

"The time will come," Herr Hitler declared, "when no German will be able to grow in a community of German people without first passing through your community."

He emphasised that this was the first occasion upon which a Labour Corps had taken an independent part in a Party Congress. They were there too in order to break down the barriers of class and build up a single community.

Speeches were followed by a spade drill in which 50,000 spades, sedulously polished for hours beforehand, flashed in the sun, as the Labour Corps sloped, grounded and presented with military precision.

The grey-uniformed volunteers filled a 20-acre field dotted with 300 flags and surrounded by stands in which 200,000 spectators witnessed ceremony which concluded with a march past Der Fuehrer.—Reuter.

DROPPING OF VOCE CAUSES OUTBURST BY A. W. CARR

"Would Have Played If I Had Been Captain"

SIR S. JACKSON REPLIES

The sensational "resting" of Voce in the Australians second innings at Nottingham last month brought forth a commentary statement by A. W. Carr, and an interesting explanation of the M.C.C.'s position from Sir Stanley Jackson.

"If I had been captain of Notts to-day you can say that Voce would have played and would have bowled."—A. W. Carr to News Chronicle.

Nottingham, Aug. 15. Voce's withdrawal from the Notts team to-day took place in an extraordinary way.

He arrived on the ground expecting to take part in the match, but just before the game began he was called from the dressing-room into the office and told that the committee wished him to "rest."

The explanation given was that, with Larwood unable to bowl, it was felt that further strain on Voce's arm might deprive Notts of his services in the remaining matches, and as a decisive result with the Australians was unlikely it would be better not to run further risks.

VOCE'S COMMENT.

When he did not appear barrackers shouted: "Where is Voce?" and later in the day when Woodfull led his men out to field there were catcalls and jeering.

Voce watched the match from the pavilion and was obviously upset. He said: "I knew there would be trouble; perhaps I should not have played at all."

Later a rumour of the resignation of three members of the Notts committee spread quickly, but in an official statement Mr. H. A. Brown, secretary of the club, denied there was any truth in it.

In view of the possibility of any further demonstration at the end of the match, six police officers guarded the pavilion entrance as the players walked off the field, but, in contrast to what had gone before, the Australians were applauded.

CARR'S COMMENT.

Mr. A. W. Carr, the Notts captain, who watched the match to-day, said: "When I arrived on the ground I told Voce I considered there was still a chance of him playing in the fifth Test, and advised him accordingly. 'When he told me I was not playing to-day I was staggered, and assured by officials of the club that there has been no protest against his bowling, but it is very hard to believe this.'"

In a later interview to-night Mr. Carr said there was nothing wrong with Voce.

W. Wagner, hitherto unknown in swimming circles, broke the Shanghai 100 yards backstroke record when he won the championship event in 74.415 seconds.

"LEG THEORY" V. "BODYLINE" BOWLING

DANGERS OF FAST DELIVERIES NOT NEW TO CRICKET

A FEW CLASSICAL EXAMPLES

(By "Historicus")

The controversy upon the above matter, which was the subject of the Articles by "R. Abbie" and "Veritas" published in the Hongkong Telegraph last week, is not the first to arise in the history of Cricket regarding fast bowling, for reference to "Lord's and the M.C.C." by the late Lord Harris and the late Mr. F. S. Ashley-Cooper, published in 1920 shows that about 1792 when round-arm bowling was sought to be introduced by Tom Walker of Surrey, it was disallowed "owing to his tremendous pace," and that in or about 1818, Mr. Budd and Lambert (both of whom are referred to by "R. Abbie") "attained to a kind of 'round-arm delivery,' by which it is stated they 'rose decidedly superior to all the batsmen of the day,' but 'Mr. Ward could not play it, and headed a party against it, with the result that the new bowling was ignored.' It also appears that following the foregoing, Mr. John Willes of Kent introduced similar bowling at Lord's—only to find it barred by the M.C.C. It then seems that in 1827, William Lillywhite ('The Nonpareil') and James Broadbridge (both of Sussex) created a 'furore' by 'throwing' the law at the moment of delivery, the hand must be below the elbow, whereas Lillywhite and Broadbridge raised it above the shoulder. It is stated that the Sussex men were ably supported by Mr. G. T. Knight of Kent and the M.C.C., who suggested that the law should be altered to 'that the ball shall be bowled, if it be thrown or jerked, or if any part of the arm or hand be above the shoulder at the time of delivery, the umpire shall call 'No Ball.' Three matches between Sussex and England were played to test the merits of the two styles of bowling (old and new), these Sussex won the first (at Sheffield) by seven wickets, and the second (at Lord's) by three wickets, but the third (at Brighton) was won by England by 24 runs. Eventually (but not until 1835) the M.C.C. adopted Mr. Knight's suggestion.

BATSMEN INTRODUCE PADS AND GUARDS.

It was at this time (as "Lord's and the M.C.C." informs us) that Mr. Alfred Mynn (Kent) and Mr. Reginald (who like him had been hauled from Notts) "terrified batsmen by 'their pace,' so that Lord Verulam upon being asked who was the faster, replied 'I was hit by both, and I really cannot say which hurt the most,' and it is added that the terrible delivery of Mr. Mynn and Reginald 'being far from reliable so far as 'pitch was concerned, and certainly not so accurate as those of the fast 'underhand bowlers, for a period 'fractured almost as many legs as 'victims, so that about 1832-3, batsmen's feet were considerably 'improved,' which Lord Frederick Beauclerk considered 'so unfair for the 'bowler.'"

In his "Nottinghamshire Cricket & Cricketers," the late Mr. F. S. Ashley-Cooper refers to Reginald as being "for about ten years the most dreaded 'bowler in England,' and he adds: 'No one, not even Pilech, ever mastered him.'"

The North v. South match at Leicester on August 22, 23, 24 and 25, 1836 referred to by "R. Abbie" (which was won by the South by 218 runs) was the second of that year—the earlier one (played at Lord's on July 11 and 12, and being the first ever played between the North and South) having been won by the North by six wickets. Mr. Mynn was undefeated in each innings in that match, scoring 21 (not out) in the first innings and 125 (not out) in the second. A footnote to the Scores (in Frederick Lillywhite's "Cricket Scores and Biographies") points out that in his last four innings Mr. Mynn had made 283 runs besides being twice not out.

Another fast bowler, who played for Notts from approximately 1850 to 1860, was John Jackson ("The Notts Demon"). He was the hero of a famous cartoon in "Punch" (under date August 29, 1863) depicting the return of the "pride of the village" with arm in a sling, knees sagging and face swollen and plastered—the following colloquy appearing underneath the cartoon:

"Good match, old fellow?"
"Oh yes, awfully jolly."
"What did you do?"
"I had a better of Jackson: the first ball 'it me on the 'and; the second 'at me on the knee; the third was in my eye, and the fourth 'bowed me out."
"Jolly game."

EARLY INSTANCES OF "FASTLEG THEORY."

In the course of a lengthy Article which appeared in the issue of "The Observer" of January 22, 1933, Mr. H. S. Altham remarked (inter alia): "For the truth is that this method 'of attack in bowling was in England 'cricket, as long ago as 1800 George 'Hirst was bowling fast to a parade 'of short legs; eleven years later 'F. R. Foster, in winning the county 'championship for Warwickshire,

"inscribed a highly-coloured advertisement of his pace off the pitch on 'many a batsman's thigh and hip; 'and for the last two years Voce has 'been doing the same. No one has 'ever pretended that it was much fun 'to withstand this type of assault, 'but no one has for a moment ques- 'tioned its legitimacy. Indeed, 'those who watched the partnership 'between the Nawab and K. 'Dulcepsinghi in the Gentlemen v. 'Players match last year and saw the 'masterly way in which they played 'round and less elated than depressed at 'the prospect of the Australian tour 'ahead. So long as there has been 'fast overhand bowling in cricket, so 'long must there have been an 'element of danger in batting, much 'greater, of course, in the old days 'of rough wickets than it can be 'now. Perhaps surprisingly there 'has only been one fatal accident 'from this cause, when George 'Summers was killed by a blow on 'the head whilst batting at Lord's for 'Nottinghamshire in June, 1870, 'though Ernest Tyldesley and 'Hammer were probably lucky to 'escape the same fate when hit on 'the head by Gregory and Larwood 'respectively in the Test Matches of '1921 and 1922. Similarly a season 'or two after the war R. H. Twining 'received a terrible blow on the heart 'from the Notts bowler. There are, 'of course, countless instances of 'batsmen being badly hit, but 'carrying on bravely and in the 'end 'taming' the bowler. When 'Ernest Jones first bowled in this 'country it was on a very lively 'wicket at Sheffield Park, and W.G., 'who captained Lord Sheffield's 'team, was black and blue at the 'end of his innings, and Woolley 'suffered in the same way in his two 'great innings at Lord's against 'Gregory in 1921. In the latter year, 'though no sort of complaint was 'made against him, it is admitted that 'the Australian fast bowler did for a 'time intimidate a considerable 'number of English batsmen, until 'Lord Tennyson's courage at Leeds 'stemmed the tide. But the epic 'match for fast bowling was the 'Gentlemen v. Players game at 'Lord's in 1906, when Arthur Fielder 'took all ten wickets in the first 'innings, and Geoffrey and Knox 'and Beasley replied by accounting 'for eighteen out of the twenty 'Players. Knox's pace was terrific, 'the length ball often flying 'hand 'high, and several of the Players 'were clearly intimidated, but Hay- 'ward, after being hit, and yet at- 'tempting to play a grand innings, 'Hayes and Denton drove and cut the 'dangerous bowling with splendid 'elan, whilst Martyn provided per- 'haps the supreme 'turn' by standing 'up to both express bowlers. In that 'match the risk of physical injury 'was really considerable, and yet at 'the finish it was universally hailed 'as one of the greatest ever played."

WHEN BOOKMAKERS WERE WARNED OFF.

With reference to the "warning off" of the bookmakers and gambler (referred to by "R. Abbie") in the paragraphs which appear in "Lord's and the M.C.C." upon the subject are somewhat illuminating. The paragraphs in question read as follows:—"But it is impossible not to feel 'that some of the chief members at 'Lord's were themselves partly 'responsible for such a state of 'things. Lord Frederick Beauclerk, 'for instance, who, as already stated, 'made no secret that he reckoned to 'make 600 guineas a year out of the 'game, was himself guilty of sharp 'practice, both in cricket and running, 'open to what old John Bowyer and 'to Mr. Fred Gale: 'Bowyer told 'me . . . how, in a match, when a 'noble lord drew himself in the 'guinea lottery for runs, and was in 'with him (Bowyer) he would not 'run any runs hardly but his own 'the coach help him in order to get the 'lottery,' and said old Bowyer, 'Lord 'Ponsonby, who had drawn my name, 'promised me two guineas if I got 'most runs; but Lord . . . went back- 'wards and forwards to the scorers 'to count his notches and mine, and 'the end of it was that he got 64 'and I got only 60. Though,' said the old man, 'he did give me a 'guinea, Lord Ponsonby would have 'given me two, and I call that kind of 'thing which Lord . . . did 'cheating' 'and nothing more or less."

"Mr. Gale—the quotation is taken 'from his Game of Cricket, page 37 '—does not mention the 'noble' lord 'by name, but it was Beauclerk, 'whom reference was made, and the 'match—B's v. England—can be 'found in Scores and Biographies. 'Vol. 1, pages 403-4. Those who read 'days, truly, when the chief member 'of the M.C.C. could behave openly in 'such fashion, so is it to be wondered 'at that the paid players should at 'times not be strong enough not to 'retaliate!"

The Scores in the match (England v. the B's) above referred to are set out (as stated) on pages 403 and 404 of Vol. 1 of Frederick Lillywhite's "Cricket Scores and Biographies," and the runs credited there to John Bowyer and Lord Beauclerk are 60 and 64 respectively.

An excellent illustration of "bodyline" bowling is seen here, showing Voce, the Notts fast bowler, bowling to a packed leg side in the match between Notts and the Australians. Woodfull is receiving the bowling.

RACING SEASON RE-STARTS: MACAO MEETING ON SUNDAY

VERY ATTRACTIVE PROGRAMME PREPARED

SIX EVENTS OFFER PUNTERS SOME VARIED SELECTIONS

RACING TRIUMPH AND DELIGHTFUL CHANCE APPEAL

(By "Captain Foster")

The fourth extra race meeting of the Macao Jockey Club will be held at the Areia Preta, Macao, on Sunday, and the large and favourite steamer Taishan has been specially put on the berth to cater for the racing public.

Although the entries for the six events are on the small side, due to the fact that a number of ponies are not forward enough in condition to run, good racing and close finishes are expected in nearly all of the races, and fortunate backers should have an extremely profitable and enjoyable outing at the Portuguese Colony.

The first race is the Mounted Troop Handicap (Unofficial) of six furlongs, and six ponies will be saddled for the event. The veteran Sergeant Major "Bobby" Charles on African Eve is my pick, but Mouche with Captain Alex Potts up, and Pat under the guidance of Trooper Browning will make him gallop all the way. White Stars (Trooper Barrow) may cause an upset by running into a place.

FIVE CAPABLE PONIES.

The Tap Sine Handicap of Six furlongs is confined to griffins of this year that have not won more than $700 in Stakes. The five ponies which will face the Starter are Banquet Hall (Ip), Fair View (Liang), Gold Currency (Botelho), Great Hall (Pan), and Limelight (Deltz). Every one of these ponies is capable of catching the judge's eye and I therefore cannot suggest the likely winner with any degree of confidence.

Limelight has been doing his training at Macao and I cannot say very much about him beyond the fact that Mr. Norman Deltz will be his pilot. This combination in itself is a sufficient guarantee that the pony will be extremely dangerous and, for this reason, one should not leave him out of one's calculations.

I am also very partial to the chances of Fair View. The pony is said to be fit and I was impressed with his style last Tuesday morning, consequently it will not surprise me to see her returned the winner. Gold Currency has pace and can also score, so can Banquet Hall but I gather this pony has not quite pleased his connections in recent gallops.

Great Hall has often disappointed me at Happy Valley. The pony can travel but apparently he is somewhat moody, and will not exert himself under pressure. The change in the course may have a beneficial effect on him, and all I can say is that, if found in the humour, he is capable of shewing a clean pair of heels to the rest of the field.

MONG HA HANDICAP.

The Mong Ha Handicap (Second Section), Unofficial of six furlongs is confined to D & E Classes, and to be ridden by Licensed Riders. I expect to see the following seven: Black Velvet, Bold Commander, Brilliant Hall, Chow Fan, Duro, Dragoon, Hay Tor, and The Carp. Apart from a very handsome dividend which must accrue from such an open field I shall be very interested in watching the two different styles in actual race riding. The Russian "boys" riding

Cricket Scorers' Mistake

GIVE EBELING "NO-BALL"

London, Sept. 6.

That first class cricket scorers are not infallible was illustrated to-day when it was discovered that the scorers in the match between the Minor Counties and Australians had incorrectly recorded a no-ball against Ebeling and had made the Minor Counties total 183 instead of 182.

Ebeling read of the supposed no-ball in the morning papers to-day and pointed out the mistake to the scorers, with the result the figures were altered and the counties credited with a first innings score of 182.

The match ended to-day with the Minor Counties struggling to avoid an innings defeat. The Australians increased their overnight score of 140 for 2 to 370 for 8 before declaring. Darling lost his wicket after scoring 59 and Barnett contributed 80. Woodfull played another un-finished innings having 73 to his credit.

The Minor Counties were always struggling hard to avoid defeat, and thanks largely to a gallant innings by Fisher, who scored 50 not out, this was accomplished.

At the close of play the Counties had scored 137 for the loss of six wickets, and were still 51 in arrears.—Reuter.

GRIMMITT WINS

Enters Lawn Bowls Finals Phase

A large number of fans of the bowling green saw A. Grimmer enter the finals of the Colony Singles Championship yesterday at the expense of V. Petherick who was beaten on the Craggover Cricket Club turf by 21 shots to eight.

Play was not always of championship standard, though some early leads reached great heights, and Grimmer would be the first to concede that his good bowling was rewarded with all the luck that was going.

Grimmitt is now due to contest the final with D. Rummah, this match being fixed for next Wednesday at the Club de Recreio.

The Mong Ha Handicap (Unofficial) of six furlongs to be ridden by Ladies. I am sorry that the field will be a small one but, notwithstanding this, I feel that a well contested race will result. The line up will be: Miss Scott Harston on City of Shanghai, Miss Betty Fair on Harbour View, Miss Beryl Fair on Sea View, and Miss Dowbiggish (I think) on Fl Fa. I think the issue will be between City of Shanghai and Fl Fa, and condition will prove the deciding factor. Fl Fa is well and going strong but, as City of Shanghai is being trained at Macao, I am somewhat in the dark as to his condition. I understand, however, that the Stable connections are satisfied as to his well-being. Sea View, in my opinion, is to be preferred to Harbour View. What, over the result, it is always a pleasure to see our keen "fair thruster" in action.

FRED PERRY REACHES THE LAST SIXTEEN

IN U. S. TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

Sensational Defeat Of George Lott

AMERICAN COLLEGE PLAYERS LOSE

Forest Hills, Sept. 6.

Fred Perry advanced to the last sixteen in the United States national singles tennis championship to-day, but the most important feature was the sensational elimination of George M. Lott, American Davis Cup player by E. W. Feibleman of New York.

Lott, beaten in the third round after a five set match, was leading in both the first and third sets. His conqueror, Feibleman, is a prominent New York club player, and has appeared in a number of tournaments this year with varied success. His record, however, did not suggest him being capable of beating such a powerful opponent as Lott. Lott took the initiative from the start, and swept through the first set winning it after eight games.

Feibleman retaliated with the second set to one, but found his opponent fighting it and was made to concede the third set at the ninth game. Feibleman went all out to retrieve a dangerous situation and leveled up in the fourth set at 6-4, and then remained wonderfully steady under the pressure, lasting better in the final set which he snatched at the tenth game.

Several leading players in America's young school of exponents fell by the wayside in third round encounters. Jack Tidball was a victim of Frank Shields, who polished off the collegian in straight sets, while Gene Mako lost to Wilmer Allison after four hurricane sets.

Frankie Parker, however, advanced to the fourth round, easily outwitting R. Stanford in three sets.

PERRY'S PRACTICE. Perry had an enjoyable practice in eliminating Tidball, New York representative, and demonstrated that he is still in magnificent striking form.

Herculean Lester Stoefer ousted H. L. Bowman (New York) in straight sets, although the second and third were hotly contested and were taken to twelve and ten games respectively.

Sydney Wood did not have things all his own way against F. Bowden, the New Yorker, and although a winner in three sets, had to play very hard for all his points.

Bowden made a big effort to snatch the third set which went to 22 games before decision.

WILDE OUSTED. Britain lost one of her two representatives when F. H. D. Wilde took the count against J. Van Ryn. For two sets Wilde played splendid tennis and Van Ryn was forced to the advantage game in both. The two played a first set of fourteen games while the second went to ten. After this Wilde faded away and conceded the third set at 6-2.

So far the following leading players have reached the last sixteen section:—Perry, Van Ryn, Shields, Frank Sutter, Stoefer, Wood, Allison and Frank Parker.

RESULTS. Results of to-day's round encounters as enabled by Reuter, follow.

F. J. Perry (Britain) beat Talbot (U.S.) 6-3, 6-1, 6-4.
E. W. Feibleman (U.S.) beat G. M. Lott (U.S.) 2-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

J. Van Ryn (U.S.) beat F. H. D. Wilde (Britain) 8-6, 6-4, 6-2.
F. K. Shields (U.S.) beat J. Tidball (U.S.) 6-3, 8-6, 6-3.

F. Sutter (U.S.) beat Garnett (U.S.) 8-6, 6-2, 6-1.
L. Stoefer (U.S.) beat H. L. Bowman (U.S.) 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

S. B. Wood (U.S.) beat F. Bowden (U.S.) 6-4, 6-3, 12-10.
W. Allison (U.S.) beat Gene Mako (U.S.) 6-3, 2-6, 6-1, 6-2.

F. Parker (U.S.) beat R. Stanford (U.S.) 6-2, 6-1, 6-2.

WILLIE SMITH TO "COME BACK"

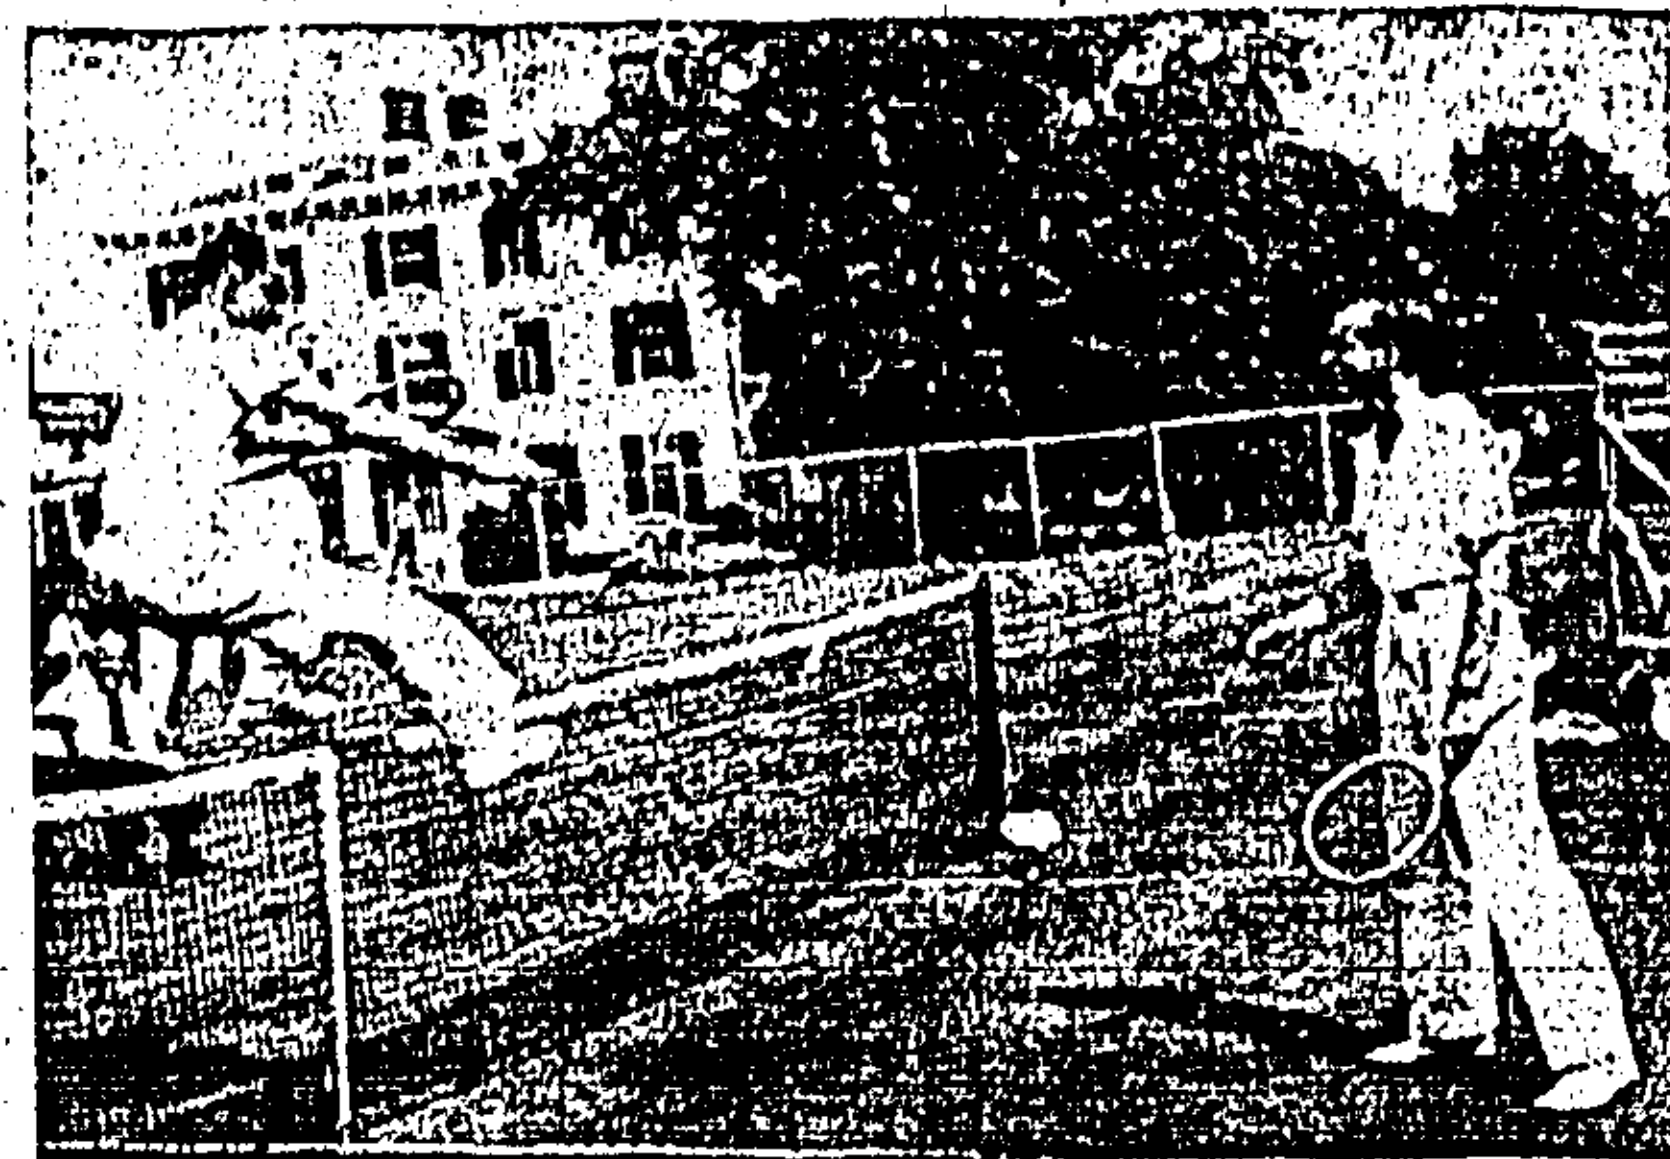

An Early Battle Of The Sidneys

Willie Smith, former world's champion Billiards player, has decided to "come back."

After his tour in the Far East, which was a conspicuous success, he made up his mind that it was too early to pass "off stage." Early in the approaching season he will meet Tom Newman in a match, or rather series of matches, on level terms. They will treat each session's play as a separate match of 1,000 up and the innovation should be popular with the public.

Another item of news is that "the two Sidneys," Lee and Smith, will be in opposition early in the season. I think it is probable that Sidney Smith will concede Lee 7,000 points start in a fortnight's match and he will have to "gallop" to give such a start and win, although, of course, he is much the more experienced player.

Perhaps the most interesting news was that divulged by Mr. W. T. Rainbow, managing director of Burroughes and Watts. He said: "There is going to be a big push in billiards in the 1934-35 season. All the interests concerned are going to get together and put one of the world's most popular games on the map."

Both were beaten yesterday in the U.S. national singles tennis championship. This picture shows Gene Mako leaping the net to congratulate Jack Tidball on his victory in an American invitation tournament held recently.

DROPPING OF VOCE CAUSES OUTBURST

A. W. CARR INDULGES IN SOME FRANK COMMENT

"What is behind it?" he was asked. "I do not know. The usual trouble, I suppose," he replied. "Do you mean politics?" "I should think so, but I do not know any more than you do. I simply know that he was certified unfit—at least that is what they said, but he is playing to-morrow, so he cannot be very bad."

SIR S. JACKSON'S COMMENTS

"PURELY LOCAL MATTER."

London, Aug. 16. Sir Stanley Jackson, chairman of the English Test selectors, returned to London in the early hours of this morning from Kilmarnock, where he has been shooting, determined if possible to clear up the trouble which has arisen in the cricket world since he has been away.

"Why these things always happen when one goes off to have a few days' change I don't know," he said to a reporter last night. "But it is obvious my place is in London at the moment. I am going back to consult the other selectors."

DENIALS.

"I have only just been reading about the incident at Nottingham and a suggestion put forward by the Notts captain, Mr. A. W. Carr, that the Selection Committee have had instructions in connection with the test theory issue."

"I wish you to make it clear that this is not an official statement, but."

Firstly, it is quite untrue that the Committee were instructed by anyone not to select Voce.

Secondly, it is not correct that there has been any disagreement among the Selection Committee.

"I do not know of any reason why Voce should not play, but I am not going to say that he will be selected. I do not know. The final selection has not been made."

"But if Voce has got shin trouble, as I understand, that does not sound very hopeful, does it?"

A GREAT PITY.

"It seems to me a great pity he did not play on the third day of the Notts v. Australians match. The incident at Nottingham is a very unfortunate affair, and I am sorry, but it must have been purely local matter."

"There is nothing so far as I am aware, behind this Voce business, and all the rumours and suggestions about Voce and the committee are groundless."

"Voce is being treated exactly as the others on his cricketing merits. No orders have been given about him."

VOCE IS "FED UP"

"I thought," Sir Stanley added rather wearily, "that all this bowling controversy was over and done with. It does seem hopeless."

"To-morrow I shall be having consultations with the other selectors, and I shall discuss the position with them informally."

"Voce, seen by a reporter in the pavilion at Southampton yesterday, said he did not play against Hampshire because his right heel was badly bruised and there had been a recurrence of the shin trouble."

"I am fed up with the whole business," he added. "I wish we could forget all about leg theory."

WYATT'S COMMENT.

Mr. Wyatt, England's Test captain, said yesterday: "I have not yet been summoned to any further meeting of selectors, nor do I know whether any further meeting will take place."

"All I know is that there is to be a Test match on Saturday and I shall be there."

Asked whether Voce would be considered, Mr. Wyatt said: "I know nothing about Voce except that I believe he plays for Nottingham."

Belgian Golf Championship

HENRY COTTON'S FINE PLAY

Waterloo (Brussels), Aug. 13. Despite bad weather, Henry Cotton, after a fine round of 67, led the field at the end of the first day's play in the Belgian Open Golf Championship, which was begun at the Waterloo Club this morning.

The record for the course was 70, made by Cotton in 1933. Cotton, in the afternoon, had a round of 71 to give him an aggregate of 138. One stroke worse is Percy Alliss, with rounds of 68 and 71 for an aggregate of 139, while joint third place is held by A. Padgham and Mark Seymour, who had rounds of 69 and 73, and 68 and 74 respectively for aggregates of 142.

Brows, the South African and French Champion, disappointed. He started well but fell away to return 74, and in the afternoon he returned 76 and is thus twelve strokes behind Cotton.

Cotton got into one bunker after another for the first hole of the afternoon round and took a five, one over par. He escaped trouble at the next hole and then took a firm grip on himself in the best Cotton manner to return a par score of 71.

W. J. Cox, a former assistant to Cotton, did 67 in the morning, but so bad were the conditions in the afternoon that he took 82. T. E. Tweed, with a 68 in the morning, returned a second round card of 80.

Alliss, who was paired with Cotton, returned 71 in the afternoon, composed of 39 and 32, three below par of the homeward half.

GERMAN AMATEUR TITLE.

Bad Ems, August 13. The German Amateur Golf championship, for which thirty-four players entered, was begun here to-day, but only one match was played. In this Roy Archibald, of Royal St. George's, beat the German player, Rob M. Reincke, by 4 and 2.

Archibald played steady golf and was five up at the turn.

Paul Azbill, of Sunningdale, was forced to scratch owing to injuries received in an accident while he was in France.—Reuter's Special.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

ARMED MEN HOLD UP TWO CHINESE

A young Chinese couple, who were walking on the hillside approximately 350 yards above the Basel Mission on the Taiipo Road last evening, were held up by two robbers and relieved of a small quantity of jewellery.

According to a report made to the Police, Mrs. Tom Lee-cho, aged 30, and Tam Chai-ming, aged 23, unemployed, both of 23 Fook Wah Street, second floor, were on the hillside at 7.15 p.m. when they were stopped by two men, one of whom produced a revolver.

The victims were relieved of their jewellery, the woman losing a pair of gold and jade ear-rings, three gold finger rings and one gold bracelet, while the man was robbed of his sleeve links. The total value of the haul was stated to be $145.

HONGKONG LOSES

INTERPORT BOWLS MATCH

A PATCHY GAME

Shanghai, Sept. 6. Hongkong won the Interport Lawn Bowls contest against Hongkong by securing their second victory to-day on the Lawn Bowls Club Green in the Race Course, by the narrow margin of 18 shots to 17.

The weather was bright and sunny when the match commenced before a large crowd of spectators. Hongkong selected the same team as in the first match which they lost yesterday by 22 shots to 15.

Hongkong again won the toss and A. E. Conates rolled a short head. H. Beer drew a shot but A. A. Malcolm robbed him of the count and Shanghai won the first head. They also won the next two and led by six shots to nil.

The fourth head Hongkong scored three but Shanghai won the fifth, making the score 7-3. By the end of the seventh head Hongkong had evened the score with two twos. When the tenth head had been played the score was still tied at 9-9 and on the fifteenth each side had scored 13 shots.

At the conclusion of the eighteenth Shanghai led by two shots (10-14), but Hongkong, however, took the next two heads, scoring a single and a two to lead by 17-10, with one head to go.

The last head saw some bad bowling by Hongkong and Shanghai were given the game when the home side scored two to win by 18-17.

The game was patchy throughout, none of the bowlers except Conates played well. Beer and U. M. Omar were right off their form, also Bana who was particularly weak.

The teams and scores were:

Shanghai Hongkong.

F. O. Madar A. E. Conates

J. Munro R. Bana

T. G. Main H. Beer

A. A. Malcolm 18 U. M. Omar 17

—Reuter.

THE LAST HEAD.

Our Own Correspondent adds that on the 21st head, which was a short head, Shanghai were laying two when Omar tried to save a hopeless position with an attempted glance which failed. Omar was steady, Conates and Beer being the best and most reliable while Bana was weak. Shanghai placed their shots in winning positions and always made matters awkward for Hongkong.

HANKOW BEAT SHANGHAI.

Shanghai, Sept. 6. Hankow won the Interport contest against Shanghai, winning the second match by 19 shots to 18.—Reuter.

A MID-WEEK MATCH.

The Philippine Club, for the first time, fielded a full team on Wednesday when they engaged the Club de Recreo. They were beaten by 47 shots to 29.—Scores:

Machado, F. Xavier, P. Yvanovich and Julio Ribeiro (Club de Recreo) beat Roy, A. Delgado, H. W. Randall and A. S. Gomes 17-6.

J. M. S. Rozario, F. X. Soares, H. Rozario and C. H. Basto (Club de Recreo) beat Leonardo, W. J. Howard, Gonzales and W. V. Field 14-13.

H. A. Botelho, J. G. Ozorio, C. E. Marques and F. V. Ribeiro (Club de Recreo) beat Alberto, Fernando, M. J. Medina and V. N. Astenza 16-10.

RIVER THREATENS.

LINHO DISTRICT IN GRAVE DANGER

Kweihua, Sept. 6. The Yellow River is overflowing at several points in Suiyuen. Hugo volumes of water are rushing into Linho District, sweeping many villages.

The inhabitants of the walled city of Linho shut all the gates in order to prevent the flood waters from entering. It is feared, however, that the wall cannot stand very long against the pressure of the flood, as part of it is only built of clay.—Central News Agency.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Columbia has produced "King of the Wild Horses," which is coming to the Alhambra Theatre on Sunday, as one of the spectacular films of the year. It was filmed in its entirety on location amid the gorgeous scenery of the Navajo Indian reservation in the heart of Arizona. Besides Rex the hero horse; Lady, the beautiful white mare, and Marquis, the villain horse, two thousand wild horses appear in the film. More than a thousand Navajo Indians, the only tribe which has retained its primitive ways, also appear. George Seltz, who directed "The Vanishing American," supervised "King of the Wild Horses."

"Night of Terror"

The much-chilled spines of cinema fans will be subjected to more cold waves, it is predicted, with the showing of "Night of Terror," the Columbia murder-mystery which will be showing at the Central Theatre to-day. Willard Mack, famous stage impresario, in framing the original plot for the picture, left nothing to be desired in the way of thrill and excitement. There are several murders, a maniac at large, a gruesome face whose dreaded appearance means certain death, a sinister Hindu servant, and a man buried alive, all of whom are involved in a drama that is said to set a new peak in cinema shocks. Bela Lugosi, whose name is synonymous with his famous characterization of the internationally known "Dracula," a role he created on the stage and screen, appears as the Hindu servant, a part that permits him to exhibit all the menacing and mysterious qualities at this command. Sally Blane furnishes not only her blonde loveliness but a delightful romance with Wallace Ford who is cast as a breezy young reporter. An excellent supporting cast includes Tully Marshall, famous veteran of the screen, Gertrude Michael, who is prominently cast in Chevalier's "A Bedtime Story," and Bryant Washburn, well-known leading man of Hollywood's silent era, who makes a successful return to the screen in this mystery drama.

"Man's Castle"

Out of the singular and tawdriness of a shantytown director Frank Borzage has woven a love story that is certainly the greatest achievement in a career that embraces many screen triumphs. The picture "Man's Castle" already hailed as the "Seventh Heaven" of talking pictures is now showing at the Queen's Theatre. "Man's Castle" is the story of a man who couldn't hear train whistles without wanting to hop a freight—and of a girl who loved him so strongly she told him he was free to go. Spencer Tracy as the boy and Loretta Young as the girl have never been cast in roles so perfectly suited to their individual talents. They perform admirably and contribute to the finest portrayal of their respective careers. As for Borzage's direction, it suffices to say that he surpasses in poignancy, sincerity and beauty his direction of "Seventh Heaven," "Bad Girl," and "Farewell to Arms." The supporting cast is superb to the smallest bit player. It includes Marjorie Rambeau, Walter Connolly, Glenda Farrell, Arthur Hohl and Dickie Moore. Jo Swerling adapted the story to screen form from Lawrence Hazard's original story and turned in an excellent script.

"Miss Fane's Baby is Stolen"

When the motion picture cameras whirled at the Paramount studios on a scene in "Miss Fane's Baby is Stolen," co-starring Dorothea Wieck and Alice Brady, now at the King's Theatre, they focussed on five players who have been stars in their own right. The script called for Miss Wieck, playing the role of a glamorous Hollywood actress, to have stars for her friends. The result was these five appeared in the scene with the continental actress—Jean Acker, former wife of the late Rudolph Valentino; Ruth Clifford, star of silent films; Edmund Burns, leading man for Gloria Swanson; and Constance Talmadge; Arnold Gray, who started his screen career in 1918, and played leads for many years, appearing with Leatrice Joy in the silent days and continuing his career into the sound era in several recent vehicles; Jay Belasco, who played leads and directed comedies from 1916 to 1926.

"Little Miss Marker"

With Adolphe Menjou, Dorothy Dell, Charles Bickford and Little Shirley Temple playing the principal roles, B. P. Schulberg's Paramount film, "Little Miss Marker," comes on Saturday to the King's Theatre. The film was directed by Alexander

LONDON'S FAITH IN CHINA SECURITY.

GERMAN CRITICISM TOO SWEEPING

London, Sept. 6. Following the warning issued by the German financial authority, Herr Franz Urbig, that Chinese State loans must be regarded as generally in distress, prominent London dealers expressed a belief that such assertions must be modified.

Herr Urbig, President of the German Asiatic Bank, was addressing shareholders when he said that the greatest control must be observed in any new dealings with the Chinese Government.

The London dealers, specialising in Chinese loans, consider such assertions as rather sweeping. They point out that Chinese Customs loans are among the most stable in the world. They admitted there were occasional small set-backs for example, during the recent Communist irruption at Foochow. These were merely precautionary cessations of dealings to avoid panic. They illustrated the London Stock Exchange's beneficial control and had no real importance.

On the other hand, the railway loans constituted a black spot, especially the Lunghai and Tainpu loans, on which default persists despite promised arrangements and reports of recent good traffic receipts.

This will inevitably constitute a barrier if China wishes to borrow in London on such securities in future.

Nevertheless, taking the long view, dealers believe that China is making a strong effort to get her house in order and speeches such as that by Herr Urbig certainly do not help her case.—Reuter.

Nanking's Response.

Nanking, Sept. 6. The strength of the reorganization and other Chinese loans were cited by a spokesman of the Ministry of Finance to-day in rebuttal to the criticism voiced by Herr Urbig, President of the German Asiatic Bank, when he spoke of the need of care in future dealings with China.

The spokesman declared that under present conditions there were few countries whose loans sold at such prices as China's. The Senior Loan, the 4½ per cent. issue of 1898, which fetched 101 on Sept. 5, was a striking comparison with the Dawes Loan to Germany at 48½ on the same date.

There had been a substantial improvement in China's foreign and domestic bonds in recent years, which contrasted favourably with the records of most other countries, including that of which Herr Urbig was a citizen, said the spokesman.—Reuter.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Solution to Previous Contract Problem.

When contract started, we soon realized that four-card suit bidding was to play an important part in this new game. The old auction ideas had always been to bid the highest ranking suit when holding two suits of equal length. However, one of the theories given to bridge players in general by that great master player, P. Hal Sims, is his method of handling four-card suit bidding.

10 6	9 5 4 2	4 7 1
8 3	7 2	3 2
6 5	4 3	1 2
5 4	3 2	1 2
4 3	2 1	1 2
3 2	1 2	1 2
2 1	1 2	1 2
1 2	1 2	1 2

Take to-day's hand, for example.
South has enough primary tricks to make an original bid, but he must say to himself, "If I bid a spade and my partner bids two hearts or two diamonds, shall I dare to bid three clubs on a four-card suit?" Certainly not. You can see that the bidding is getting into the danger zone.

Therefore, when you hold a four-card minor and a four-card major, you should open the bidding with the four-card minor.
Then, if your partner makes a one-over-one force, you can show the other major and you have thus shown both of your four-card suits at a low stage in the bidding.

In addition, you have immediately told your partner that your major suit is only four cards in length.

The reason for bidding a four-card suit is to try to fill in the holes, so that your partner may be able to play the hand at no trump.
Another thing—your partner does not like to support a four-card suit with fewer than four cards of that suit.

If you bid the spades first, and then the clubs, he has the right to assume that you have at least five spades. But when you bid clubs first and then spades, he is warned that the spade suit is only four cards in length unless, of course, re-bidding might show a six-five distribution.

One other point in to-day's hand. If you have shown both suits, and your partner elects to bid and rebid his own suit, refusing to support either one, you should drop out of the picture.

Today's Contract Problem

South is playing the contract at seven spades. West opens the six of clubs. Can the contract be made?

MURDER IN TRINIDAD

NIGEL BRUCE HEATHER VICTOR JORY

From the novel by John W. Vandenberg

A MEAN SWINDLE

SAID HE COULD ARRANGE PRISONER'S RELEASE

Li Yau-tsun, aged 10 years, unemployed, who was discharged from Victoria Gaol on August 30, and is under two years' Police supervision, was sentenced to six months' hard labour by Mr. Q. A. A. Macdonald at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon, on a charge of obtaining $50 from a woman, Chu Yuet-ming, by pretending he was in a position to secure the release of her husband. So Mun, who is serving a term of imprisonment.

Detective-Inspector J. Murphy, who conducted the prosecution, described the defendant as a nuisance to the public and to the Police.

"He is one of the cleverest criminals in Hongkong and has never been known to plead guilty. He came out of gaol on August 30 and swindled the woman on the next day. The reason he went to the Police on receipt of a telephone message was because he is under Police supervision," said the Inspector.

Li Yau-tsun pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Outlining the case for the Crown, Inspector Murphy stated that the complainant resided at No. 978 Canton Road, second floor. On the morning of August 31, the defendant went to her flat and told her that on payment of $50 her husband would be released from Victoria Gaol, where he was serving a term of six months for a breach of the Opium Ordinance. The defendant induced the woman to come across to Hongkong. They did not come over together but arranged to meet near the Central Police Station. The defendant took her into the room outside the General Office in the prison. He told her that if she handed the money to him, he would in turn hand it over to the Superintendent of Prisons, and her husband would be immediately released. She gave him the money and he went into the General Office. The woman thought he had given the money to the proper authority. When the defendant got into the General Office he handed in a story book to the clerk as an excuse, and told him that the book was intended for another prisoner in the gaol.

A Long Wait

He came out and told the woman that he had given the money to the Superintendent and that her husband would be released in about half an hour. She waited outside for an hour and then went to the Central Police Station and reported what had happened. Police action led to the arrest of the defendant in Mongkok. When he made his first appearance before the magistrate he was remanded in police custody and was kept in the cells at Central Police Station. While visiting the cells on Saturday afternoon, Sergeant Flatery saw the defendant dictating a letter to another prisoner. The letter was written to the defendant's mother and was to the effect that as he had been remanded he would like her to consult with Chu Yuet-ming and to tell Chu Yuet-ming not to press the case against him; and when questioned by the Magistrate, he was to say she did not recognise him. He further instructed his mother not to give back the $50 until after the case was settled and the defendant would go back to the country.

Complainant in Tears

Complainant was crying as she gave her evidence. She stated that when the defendant met her outside the Central Police Station he told her that her husband had had a fight in gaol and had damaged his jaw bangle; also that the prison was overcrowded, and that the prison authorities had given instructions for the release of prisoners on payment of fines.

Warder Hodge deposed that, on August 31, So Mun had completed three months and 15 or 16 days of his six months' term. He had been fined $800, and payment of $308.09 would have released him on August 31.

Further evidence was taken, after which the defendant elected to enter the witness box.

"My Wife Will Die."

"I was convicted to serve three months, and my wife threatened to poison herself with opium," he pleaded. "When I returned home, my mother promised to send me to the country, I will see my wife, and owing to this business I failed to go back. If your Worship convicts me this time, my wife will certainly die. I hope your Worship will allow me to go out on a surety, and I promised not to commit further offences."

If I do, then I will serve a heavier sentence even if I am sent to the Supreme Court. I was married in the tenth moon and since then I have served three months in gaol. My brother has promised me work at his shop and if your Worship binds me over, I will go there and work."

His Worship decided to convict.

Inspector Murphy produced a long string of convictions, dating back to 1930.

His Worship: You have a previous conviction for false pretences, amongst many other previous convictions.

Inspector Murphy: The defendant had three dollars when arrested. He told the Police he either spent or gambled the money he got from the woman. I think it is a very mean kind of theft.

If I do, then I will serve a heavier sentence even if I am sent to the Supreme Court. I was married in the tenth moon and since then I have served three months in gaol. My brother has promised me work at his shop and if your Worship binds me over, I will go there and work."

CHINA'S CLAIM

RIGHTS TO SEAT IN LEAGUE COUNCIL

Geneva, Sept. 6.

China has decided to stand for re-election to the League of Nations Council, declared Mr. Quo Tai-chi when interviewed here to-day.

China has a natural and inevitable claim to remain on the Council as a representative of Asia, in which she is by far the biggest country.

China, he continued, has become the prime defender of the League Covenant in the Far East, where existing tension between nations increased rather than lessened the necessity of China's presence at the Council table.

Besides, said Mr. Quo, there were the questions of the League's technical collaboration with China to be considered; and China had, too, unique juridical and moral grounds for undiminished representation in the League because the fundamental issues of the Sino-Japanese dispute, on which the League had formally pronounced judgment, still awaited final settlement.—Reuter.

British Delegates.

London, Sept. 6.

Mr. Anthony Eden, the Lord Privy Seal, who will be the principal British delegate at the opening of the League of Nations' Council meeting to-morrow, left London for Geneva this morning.

Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, will take charge of the British Delegation on his arrival at Geneva on Monday.—British Wireless.

De Valera Leaves.

London, Sept. 6.

Mr. De Valera, President of the Executive Council of the Irish Free State, arrived in London last night en route for Geneva to attend the opening of the League of Nations' Assembly. He was met on arrival by a representative of the Dominions Secretary, and of the Irish Free State High Commissioner in London.

Mr. De Valera proceeded this morning on his journey.—British Wireless.

WAR INEVITABLE?

Only the Old Men Should Fight

Mr. Frank Roscoe, secretary of the Royal Society of Teachers, lecturing at the City of London vacation course, said he was astonished to hear Lord Dunsany (who spoke at the course previously) advise teachers to avoid talking to the children as if war would not come again.

"If war is inevitable," said Mr. Roscoe, "let us arrange that in the next war the minimum age for enlistment is 50. Let us appoint as chaplains some of the Bishops who were so fond of talking of war from time to time."

"While we over 50 advance on the foe, the young men can stay at home and make speeches of this kind: 'I have already lost a father-in-law and two uncles. I am prepared to sacrifice another uncle rather than see the hated enemy triumph.' These aged gentlemen would then totter into battle. The first issue of lumbago belts to the troops on the first cold winter's night in the trenches, when their grandmothers would be sending them hot-water bottles, would bring the armistice."

"The merit of that kind of war is that instead of killing off the flower of the generation, the old men would bear the brunt, and people like myself will not have to go through the rest of their lives thinking sadly of the promising lads they taught who were no more with them."

"A VERY WICKED ASSERTION."

Mr. J. Byge, of Denmark, speaking at the luncheon at the closing session of the course, said:—"A guest at our luncheon on Monday (Lord Dunsany) made a very wicked assertion when he said that a future war was inevitable. It may be inevitable, if we agree with his view of human nature, but I do not agree with him, and I am sure you do not."

They as teachers could do a great deal to change this attitude of mind, if they were to fight the politicians and die-hard who believed in it. He hoped they would take away from the course some resolve that they would be no party to that state of mind, and that they would teach their children and their fellow-countrymen that war was not inevitable, and that there must be no more war.

Mr. H. A. L. Fisher, who presided, confessed that his spiritual home was Milwaukee, U.S.A., "because," he said, "it has adopted fully the Education Act of 1918."

WHAT LORD DUNSANY SAID.

Lord Dunsany, in the course of his speech was reported to have said:—

"Do not tell your children that there is a reasonably hopeful chance that there won't be another war. Don't encourage that line of thought, because if you do you equip them with little gilded harps, and they will live in a fool's paradise which belongs to another planet, and that planet, so far as history or legend can prove, has never existed."

He believed that we should have peace for some time, because the nations did not want war. They realised that the present was not the time for war.

"Some years ago," he added, "the nations felt they wanted war, and I cannot help feeling that such a time may come again, and the only possible thing is to be prepared for it."

REFRESHING SWEETS

Variety in Hats. "A lovely hat seen at a smart out-of-doors gathering recently was made of fine black lace."

SAGO SWEETS

Quite a number of refreshing fruit sweets may be easily and quickly prepared from sago, or, better still, from the white variety known as seed pearl tapioca.

Lemon Sago

Wash a cupful sago, cook it in five cupfuls boiling water till clear, then add a cupful sugar, two tablespoonfuls golden syrup, the juice and grated rind of a lemon, and a tablespoonful butter. Pour into a mould, leave till cold, turn out, and serve with creamy custard sauce poured round.

Rubies Under Snow

Soak two tablespoonfuls sago in two tencupfuls water overnight, if possible, then cook till quite clear either on the range or in the oven. Now cool slightly, add about 8 tablespoonfuls raspberry jelly, and if the colour is not satisfactory stir in a drop of two of carmine colouring or cochineal. Pour into individual glass dishes and when quite cold garnish with whipped cream.

Apricot Sago

Wash a tencupful sago, add to it three breakfastcupfuls cold water, and simmer gently in the oven till thick and clear. Cook about a cupful dried apricots in a little water, with sugar to taste, and when the fruit is tender add it to the sago. If the sago is too thick add a little water. Turn the preparation into a glass dish, and serve cold with cream.

NAKED MAN AT MIXED BATHING

SEQUEL IN POLICE COURT.

The screams of women bathers at Morley baths during mixed bathing drew attention to a naked man.

Next day, at Morley Court, William Cowling (45), labourer, of Morley, pleaded guilty to drunkenness and disorderly conduct and behaving in an indecent and offensive manner.

It was stated that when the women screamed it was thought that Cowling was in difficulties, and a man went to his aid. Then the women said he had nothing on.

After being taken to a cubicle, he tried to get out again, but he was forced to dress.

Cowling, who told a police officer he had tried to drown himself, told the Magistrate that he was sorry.

The presiding Magistrate said drunkenness was no excuse for such disgraceful conduct. Cowling must not be allowed in the baths again.

Fines of 25 for indecency, and 22 for drunkenness, or two months' imprisonment, were imposed.

TRIPLE EXECUTION

Woman and Two Accomplices Electrocuted

There was no last-minute reprieve for Mrs. Anna Antonio and two accomplices who went to the electric chair in Sing Sing Prison on August 9th to pay the penalty for the murder of the woman's husband, Salvatore Antonio, who had been killed for the sake of his insurance money.

The trio had been more than a year in prison, and were to have died on June 28. At the last moment Vincent Saelta, one of the two young Italians who actually carried out the crime, made a statement absolving Mrs. Antonio, and this resulted in Governor Lehman ordering a temporary reprieve pending an investigation.

The execution was to have taken place the next night, but again at the last minute there came a reprieve until a motion for a new trial could be heard. The motion was refused by the County Court Judge, but on July 10 the Governor granted a third reprieve, this time until August 9th, in order that the application for a new trial could be placed before the Court of Appeals. The application was heard and refused.

ONLY TWENTY-EIGHT.

Since then Mrs. Antonio, who was only 28 and the mother of three children, had passed through a terrible ordeal. Unable to sleep and refusing to eat, she was in a hysterical state of mind.

At the end, however, she was remarkably calm. Shortly after eleven o'clock she was taken from the condemned cell to the shed barely a dozen yards away in which she was to meet her death. At twelve minutes past eleven she was strapped to the chair. She had not spoken a word. Four minutes later she was dead.

At 11.18 Saelta took her place, and was pronounced dead after six minutes. Sam Ferraci, the other accomplice, took the chair at 11.26, and died within four minutes.

From start to finish the electrocution of the three prisoners had occupied eighteen minutes.

Mrs. Antonio is the first woman to be electrocuted since Mrs. Ruth Snyder paid the same penalty for a similar crime seven years ago.

1,632 PEDESTRIAN CROSSINGS

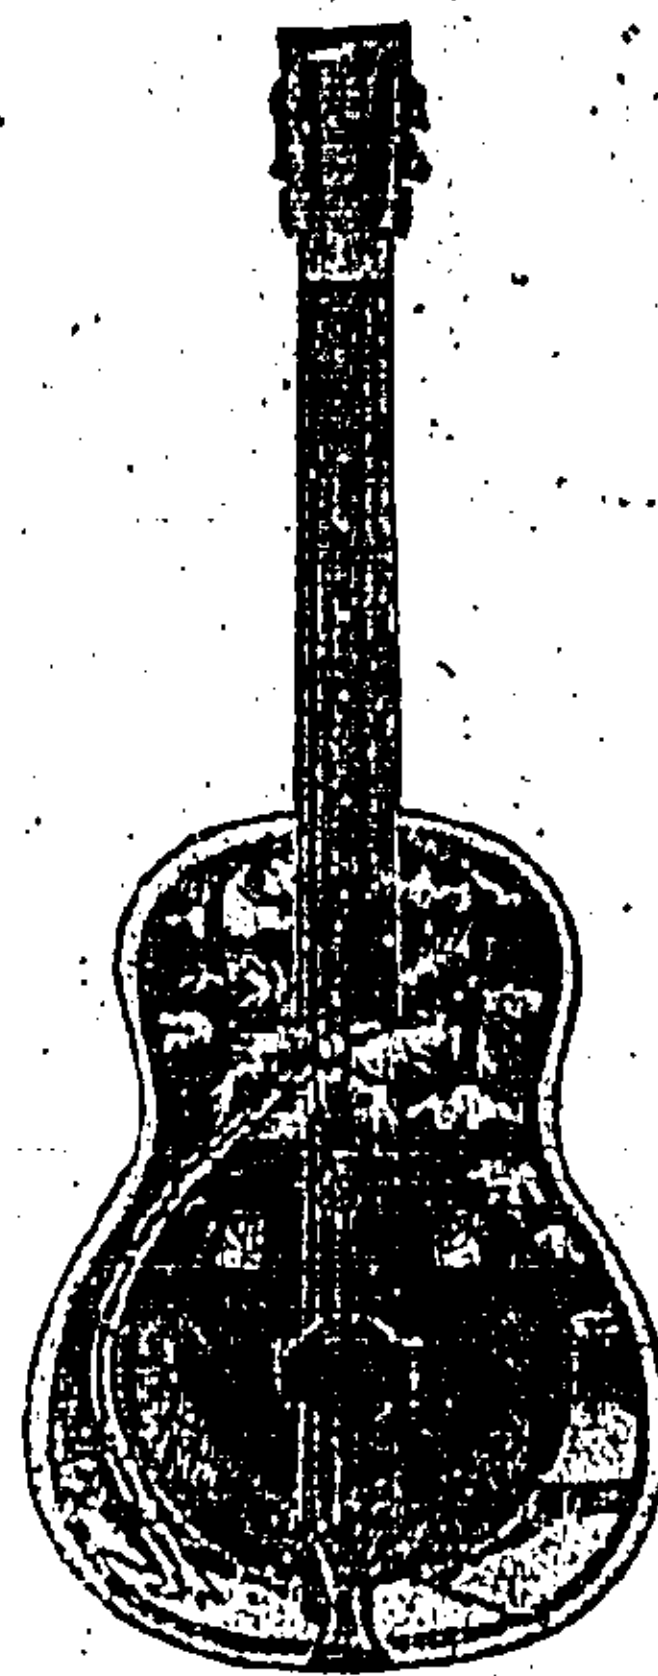

Extension of Scheme in London

Work is now in progress in many parts of the London district on the marking of pedestrian crossings in the approved herringbone pattern, both at road junctions which are controlled either by traffic police or by automatic signals, and at other places which are not regarded as sufficiently important to justify such control.

In the City of London many crossings have already been marked. Even some of the great arterial roads in the suburban areas are to be treated in the same way. An idea of the extent of the scheme now being carried out by the various local authorities at the suggestion of the Minister of Transport may be gathered from the fact that from Westminster to Purley, by way of Croydon, there will be no fewer than 135 marked crossings, from Marble Arch to Edgware 86, from Marble Arch to Uxbridge 201, and from Hyde Park Corner to the Bath Road, by way of Kensington High Street, Hammersmith, and the Great West Road, 176. All the 13 important roads leading to and from London are to be dealt with in the same way, involving the provision of 1,632 pedestrian crossing places in all.

INSTRUMENTS

(GUITARS, MANDOLINS AND UKULELES)

Lead because they agree with the following five points—

1. Powerful, rich, dynamic tone.
2. Perfect intonation.
3. Exquisite finish.
4. Unaffected by weather, water or temperature.
5. Will not crack or warp with ordinary care.

They are ideal for the beginner. It is a great mistake to buy a cheap musical instrument of any kind for a beginner. NOT ONLY DO THE POOR TONES OF A POOR INSTRUMENT TEND TO LESSEN THE PUPIL'S MUSICAL PERCEPTION BUT THERE IS NO TIME WHEN INSPIRATION IS MORE NEEDED THAN WHILE LEARNING TO PLAY.

To inspire the highest efforts it is essential to provide an instrument worthy of admiration and care.

MOTOR PROBLEM SOLVED

When Driver Is "In Charge" of Car

Sir Rollo Graham-Campbell the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, ruled at Bow Street Police Court, London, that a motorist can be legally held to be in charge of a car, even though it is temporarily incapable of being mechanically propelled.

John Rankin (37), chauffeur, of Queensberry, Mews, South Kensington, was charged on remand with being in charge of a motor car while under the influence of drink to such an extent as to be incapable of having proper control of it.

Rankin was arrested while sitting in the driver's seat of the car waiting for his employer, outside the Holborn Restaurant. The starting switch was locked, and as he had no ignition key, he could not have started the engine.

It was contended by his solicitor, Mr. C. B. V. Head, that to secure a conviction for this offence the car must be capable of being mechanically propelled at the time.

The case had been adjourned for further legal argument.

Mr. Head now said that the section of the Act applied to "all mechanically propelled vehicles, intended or adapted for use on the road." So far from being adapted for use, Rankin's employer had ensured that it could not be used by taking the engine key away from him.

A SIMILAR CONVICTION.

Sir Rollo said that there was no High Court decision on the point, but there was a conviction at Bournemouth some time ago in somewhat similar circumstances.

Mr. W. L. Sanders, for the Police, urged that the intention of the Legislature was that no motor driver who was the worse for drink should go near his car. The Act did not of necessity imply that the car could be driven at the moment of arrest.

Mr. Head instanced the case of a car which had broken down, and the engine removed for repairs. No one, he said, could suggest in such a case that the driver could be convicted of being drunk while in charge of the vehicle.

Sir Rollo held that the offence had been proved, but, in view of the mitigating circumstances and of Rankin's excellent driving record, he dismissed the charge under the Probation of Offenders Act, on payment of £5, 5s. costs.

This decision, he said, would save him from being automatically disqualified from driving.

"HIS MOSLEM BROTHERS"

MARSHAL LYAUTEY'S EPITAPH.

The burial place chosen by Marshal Lyautoy is on the outskirts of Rabat, next to the twelfth-century Tower of Hassan, among the ruins of a former village. His epitaph, chosen by the Marshal himself, is to read: "To the memory of Marshal Lyautoy, who was born a Christian, and lived a Christian, but wished to lie in Arab ground beside his Moslem brothers."

"Telegraph" Readers' Views Sought

The Telegraph is anxious to ascertain the views of its readers concerning the continuation or otherwise of serial stories which have been a feature of this journal for some years past.

Our last serial, "Stay Out of My Life," concluded on Thursday last, and enquiries have since reached us as to whether we intend resuming this feature. If there is a demand for serials, we shall be only too happy to comply therewith, but for our guidance we would appreciate expressions of opinion on the matter from our readers.

Those interested are requested to fill in the form given below and return it to the Editor as early as possible.

SUICIDE IN CELL

Coroner on "Alarming Discrepancy"

The inquest on Edward Puleston Cawsey (27), otherwise Ian Gowan, civilian air pilot, of Thornton Heath, was resumed at Croydon recently.

Cawsey was found dead in the lavatory of a police cell at Croydon Town Hall, on July 31, after having been remanded on a charge of fraudulently converting £1,300. The inquest had been adjourned because of contradictory evidence on how Cawsey hanged himself—whether from the cistern by the chain, or by detaching the chain and placing it over an adjacent beam.

The evidence of Dr. T. A. Dukes, police surgeon, was that he found part of the chain deeply embedded in the man's neck as he lay dead on the floor, and the doctor was of the opinion that the man hanged himself from the cistern.

Police Constable Bush, who discovered the body, said that the chain was then fastened over the beam. The hook, making a noose, had given way. The chain was not touched by anyone until after the doctor had gone.

Two police witnesses said the chain was over the beam.

The jury intimated that they had practically made up their mind on the point, but the Coroner deprecated premature expression of opinion and sent for Dr. Dukes.

Dr. Dukes, adhering to his previous evidence, said he handled the chain several times.

After two hours argument and experiments in Court with the chain, the doctor accepted the police theory that the man hanged himself from the beam.

Referring to the discrepancy between the evidence of the doctor and the police as to facts, the Coroner said it was rather alarming and very unfortunate, and he did not think they could discuss it any further.

The jury returning a verdict of "Suicide whilst of unsound mind," said they were of the same view as the police as to the manner in which Cawsey hanged himself.

DISPOSSESSED VICAR

COURT UPHOLDS BISHOP'S ACTION.

The decision of the Wellington (New Zealand) Magistrates, reserved since July 12, in the case brought by the Bishop of Waiuku against the Rev. George Bell, the dispossessed vicar of St. Andrew's, Cambridge, Waiuku, was made public recently.

The decision upholds the bishop's action in depriving the vicar of the living of St. Andrew's Parish, and orders the return of the keys of the church and certain chattels, including the accounts of the church.

The "war" between the vicar and the bishop started several months ago, when the bishop declared the living vacant, after the vicar had refused to accept disciplinary action. The Rev. Bell, however, refused to leave, and continued to claim to be vicar. The parishioners met on May 16 and unanimously approved the bishop's action. The vicar, however, remained in possession of the keys of the church, the sacred vessels and books, so that the bishop's officers had even to break open the doors of the church. Finally, the bishop and churchwarden instituted proceedings to recover these articles, which Mr. Bell refused to surrender.

PLAYING FROM MEMORY

Pianist Who Could Not Stop

Nobody is ever too old to play the piano from memory, said Miss Lilias MacKinnon, the educationalist, at the Oxford course in music teaching recently.

"Memory will last if it is exercised regularly, but it will deteriorate if it is unused," she added. "The mechanical memory of youth leaves with the growth of self-consciousness, but the stronger memory of the mature mind develops in its stead. If you can learn anything at all you can memorise music."

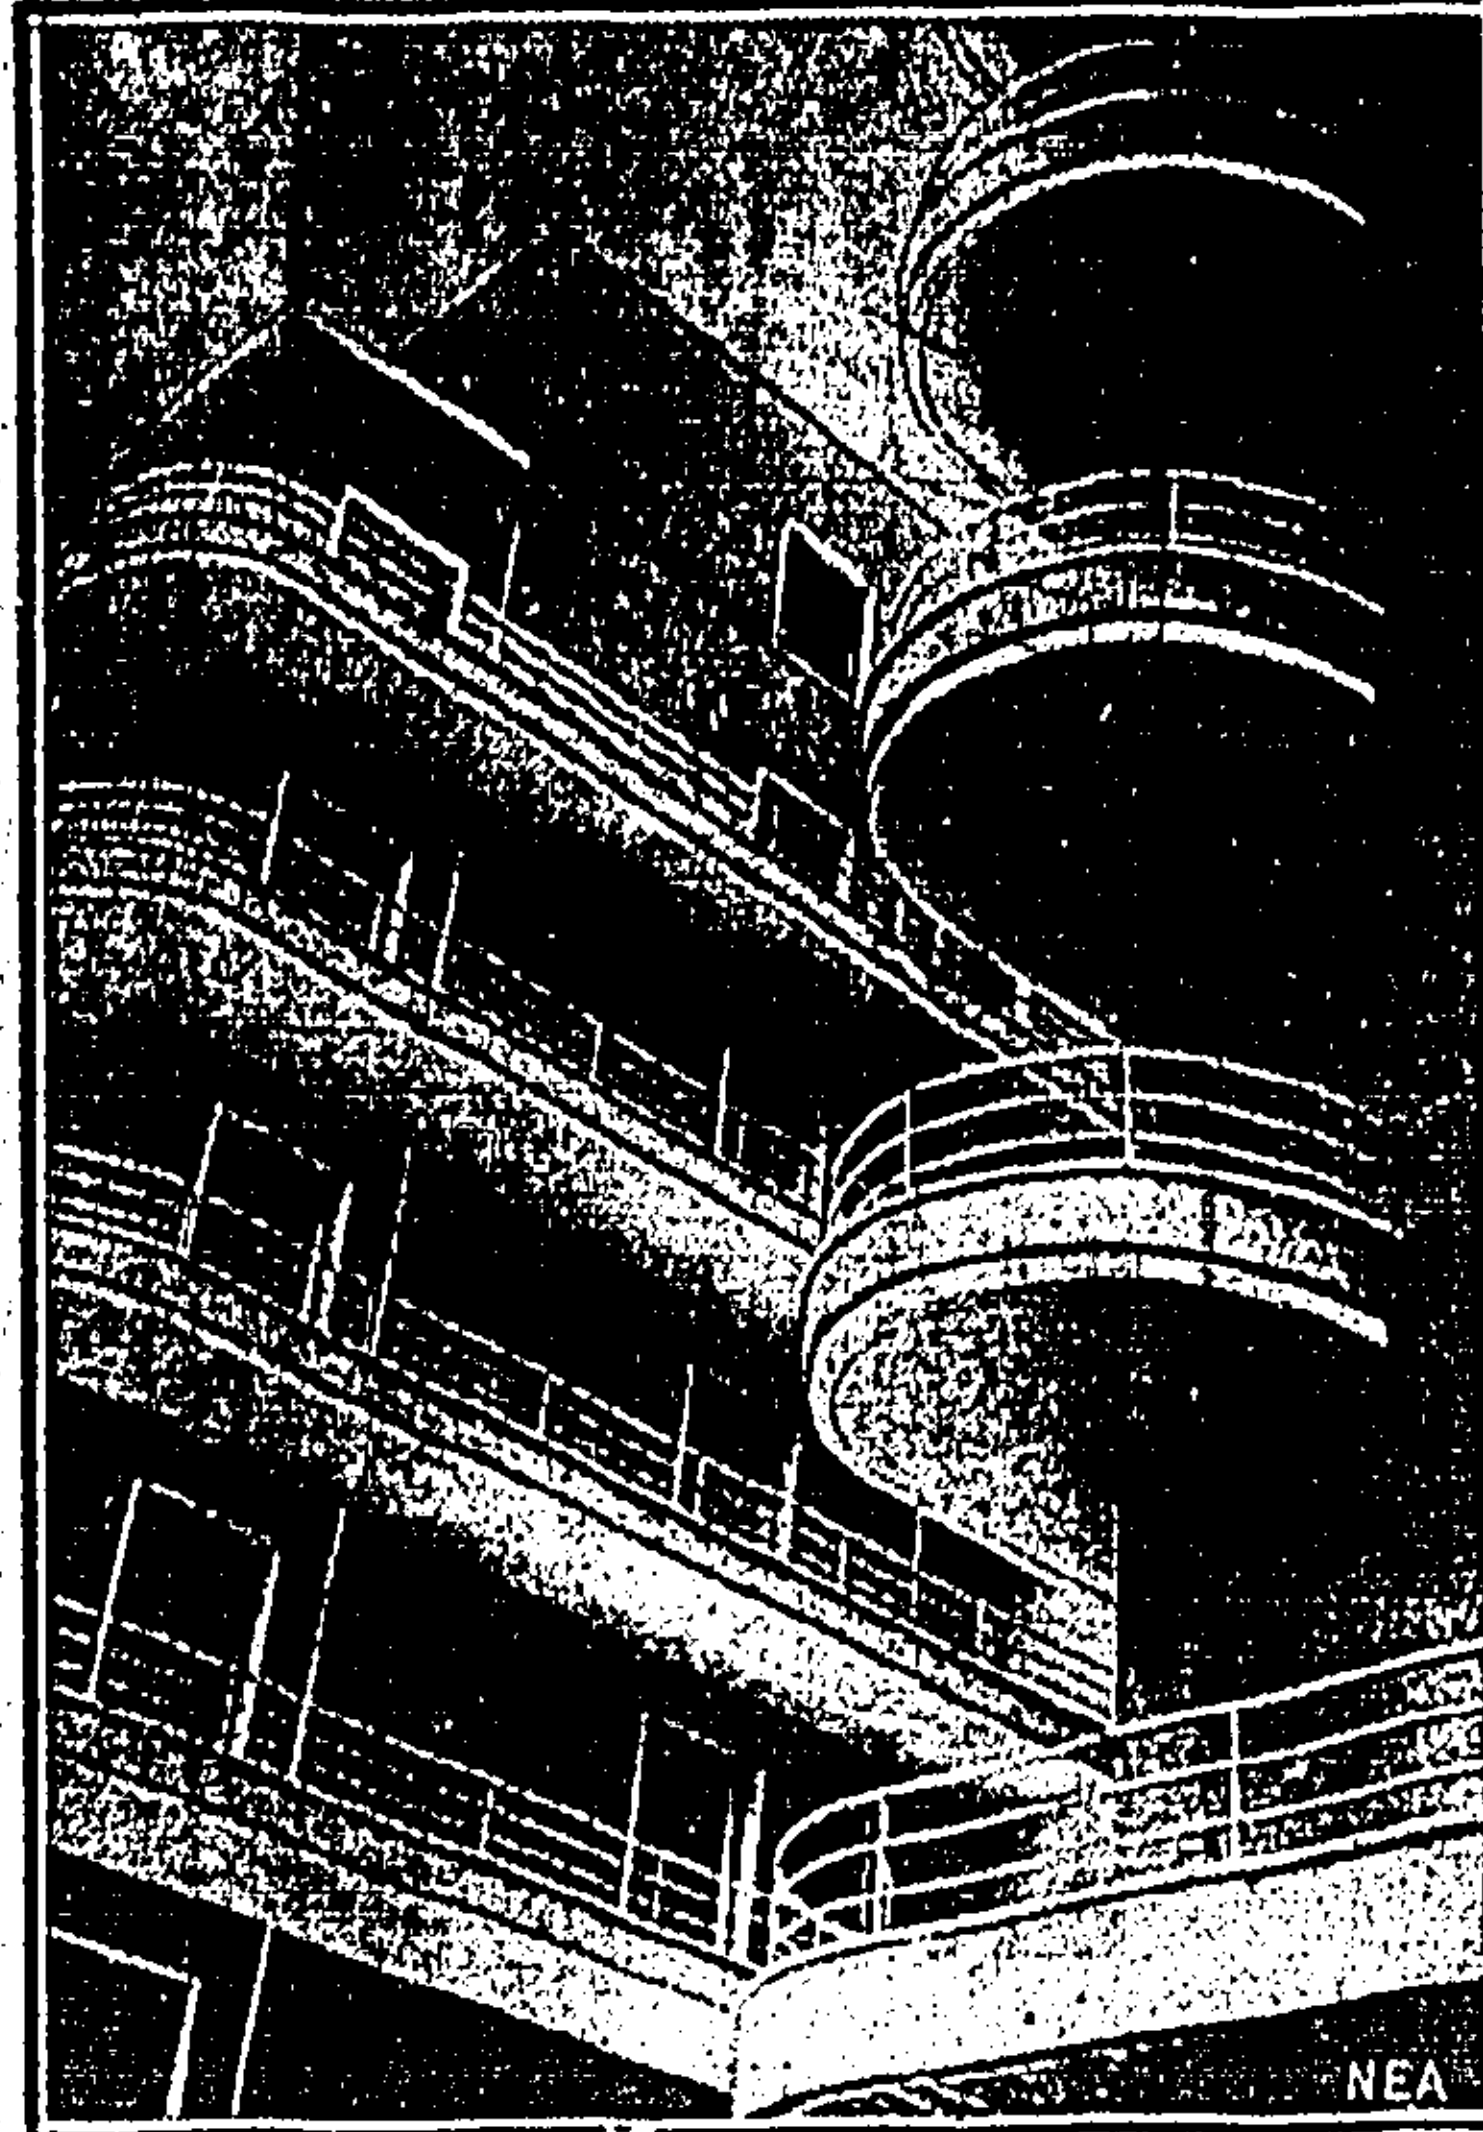

Very few people knew how to relax their minds. With practice one could learn to stop thinking altogether. The way to do it was to relax the muscles of the face, including the muscles of the eyes, and gradually all thought would drift away. One would have a feeling of delightful drowsiness, and with practice one would be able to fall asleep at will and at any time. This was a certain cure for insomnia.

"Mind wandering may be a habit. It is a common fault of people who are given to worrying. People who are always thinking about things which are past or things which may or may not happen in the future, instead of thinking of what is actually happening." Miss MacKinnon told a story to illustrate the danger in practising music for memory by playing the same piece over and over again without stopping.

"A well-known pianist," she said, "told me that on the morning of a concert he played one technical passage over and over again to get it perfect. At the concert, when he came to that passage, his mind reproduced it as he had practised it in the morning, and he found himself playing it again and again without stopping. He simply could not stop playing, and the perspiration streamed down his face with the sheer horror of what his fingers were doing. He told me it was one of the most painful experiences of his life."

NEW REGIMENT OF FOOT GUARDS?

Next year being the silver jubilee of the accession of His Majesty the King, advantage might be taken to suggest the creation of a regiment of foot guards to be known as "The Colonial Guards," in commemoration of the magnificent response given by our Dominions and Colonies in 1914. Each of the dominions of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa could provide a double company and officers to each battalion. I am sure (says the writer of a letter in a London paper) the idea of such a corps would be exceedingly popular, both at home and abroad, and would show the world that our company of nations stands shoulder to shoulder.

Tourists now will have something besides the marvels of ANCIENT Rome to describe. For now Rome offers this striking example of modern architecture—a multi-terraced apartment house just erected in the Italian capital.

PRISON IN DEFAULT OF PAYMENT

Changes in the Law Suggested

With a view to amending the whole law with regard to imprisonment in default of payment of fines and other sums of money, the departmental committee set up by the Home Office in June, 1933, presided over by Sir John Fisher Williams, stresses the desirability of the acceptance of the general principle that no one should go to prison for non-payment of money under an adjudication of summary jurisdiction unless and until the mind of the court has been specifically directed to the question of imprisonment.

"Perhaps, the greatest defect of the existing system," says the committee, "is that in many cases commitment automatically follows on default, and the court has no opportunity of giving specific attention to the question whether the case is one for imprisonment, or whether further consideration ought to be granted to the defaulter. The defect is most evident in the enforcement of fines and in rate cases, though it also is a contributory cause of unsatisfactory results in maintenance and affiliation cases."

"The difficulty created by the facts that many people fail adequately to represent their case

WIRELESS AND THE PRESS

"People Want to See News in Print"

Mr. R. D. Blumenfeld, the well-known journalist, speaking in London recently, said that in his opinion wireless would never replace the newspaper as a purveyor of news.

"It may tell you the news, it may give you the news correctly and adequately, but it will never convince you, because you do not believe what you hear," he said. "You want to see it in print."

Whether television would make an alteration was another thing. Television was like an omniscient—it was spread all over the place—and they would never be able to concentrate on it like they could the news in a newspaper.

Wireless and the daily newspapers must go hand in hand. There was nothing so comforting as to sit down and read a newspaper if it was properly produced.

to the court, and that consequently numerous commitment warrants are issued without specific consideration of the question whether the circumstances of a particular defaulter justify immediate imprisonment, with which we have to deal, and to which the main recommendations in the reports are directed."

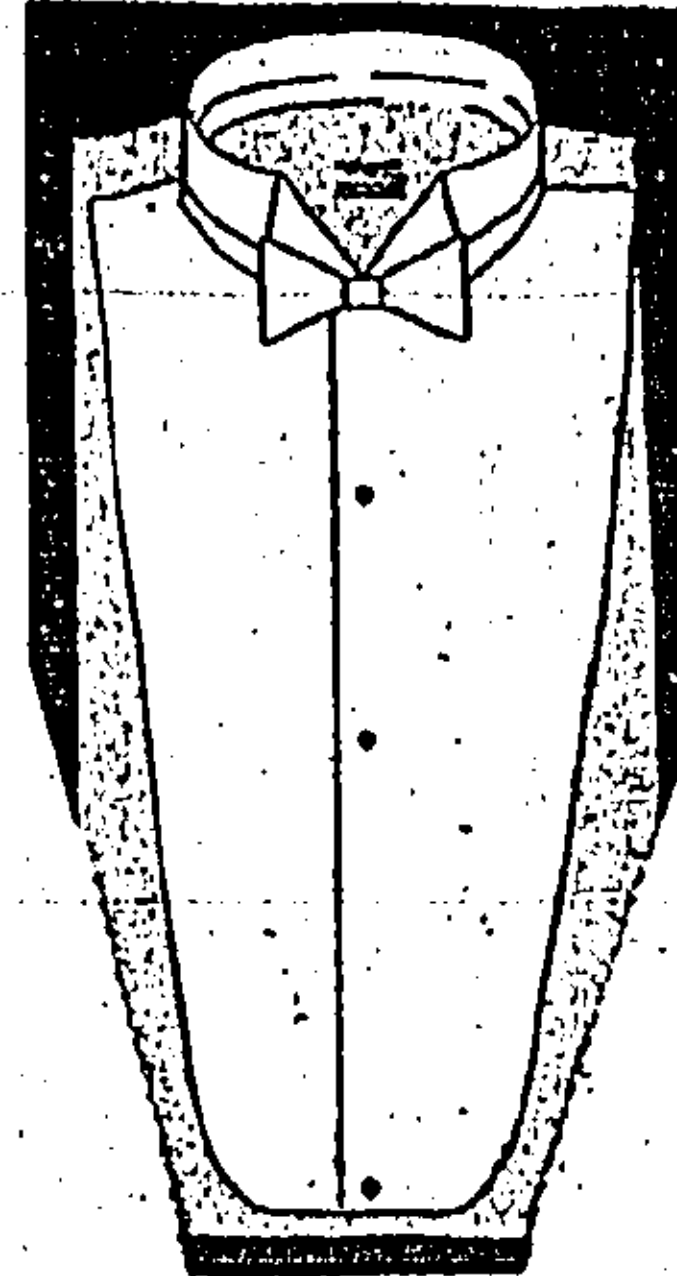

Taking no chances that their prisoners might escape and carry back information to the enemy, Paraguayan troops blindfold their captured Bolivian footmen on the trip behind the lines. This was after a bitter battle in the Chaco war.

With a tremendous loss of life reported on both sides in the bitter Chaco War between Paraguay and Bolivia, a Paraguayan flying ambulance is shown preparing for a mission to hospital. Here a typical Paraguayan flying ambulance is shown preparing for a mission.

WHAT WEIGHT IS YOUR SHIRT?

You have probably never thought of that, but it is a point well worth considering this weather.

Austin Reeds have just evolved a stiff-fronted shirt which is fifty per cent. lighter than the ordinary dress shirt.

It has a streamline front, two stud holes and square cuffs and is eminently suitable for mess wear and for the between season events which call for that little extra formality in dress wear.

THE world has witnessed some sad economic experiences in recent years. Financial safeguards which were thought strong and trustworthy have proven weak and flimsy.

You owe it to your dependents to build a substantial reserve against adversity; to protect them against future financial hazard. Millions of people live serenely behind the security that life insurance offers, that impregnable wall of defence against economic disaster.

You can create, at age 30, a ten thousand dollar estate, under our Guaranteed Maximum Protection Policy, for $158.50 yearly. In lieu of a lump sum payment, the proceeds will be paid in regular monthly instalments, if desired.

MENACE OF BRITISH FASCISM

Further clashes between British Fascists and their opponents seem inevitable at the large-scale rally which the Mosley Black Shirts are to hold at Hyde Park on Sunday. Mr. Citrine, the Secretary General of the Trade Union Congress, in his denunciation of the Fascist movement as the enemy of democracy, carries with him large numbers who are in no way associated with the Labour Party, but who see in the Mosley campaign an influence repugnant to British ideals. In particular, there is a widespread feeling that the Government should intervene and make the wearing of uniforms and the arming and drilling of Fascists illegal. At the same time, there are others who think that the childishness of Sir Oswald's appeal to the dramatic instinct makes any serious criticism of his programme unnecessary, the movement being regarded in these circles as little more than highly organised indulgence in dressing-up. It is true that the leader of the British Fascists declared a year ago that he is prepared to meet opposition, if necessary, with machine-guns and that his party is organised for a struggle of violence. His followers, however, are somewhat more discreet. The Propaganda Department of the movement insists with the greatest display of moral indignation that the party aims at peace; is not, and never has been aggressively organised; and bears no resemblance to a private army. Such assertions, however, have as their constant accompaniment descriptions of military parades inspected by the leader, of the distribution of colours, of the organisation of a flying corps and defence force, and of the systematic instruction of members in jujitsu. The same disingenuousness marks the British Fascist attitude towards the idea of liberty. Members frequently profess the greatest reverence for freedom, but it is a freedom entirely at variance with their policies. Fascism seeks to suppress all political parties except its own, and, with them, free speech, to say nothing of the rights of workers, or Press criticism except in matters of detail. Whilst it seems utterly unlikely that the Fascist movement will flourish on British soil, at a time when violence is being glorified into heroism in many parts of the world, and when war is openly regarded as an end in itself, it is important that any movement which is based upon the forcible suppression of freedom should be exhibited for what it is.

NOTES OF THE DAY

NEW MORALITY

Sir James Jeans crystallised the thoughts of many observers of current affairs in his brilliant Presidential address to the members of the British Association. The world needs a new morality and a new religion if it is to make the best use of the resources that modern science has placed at its disposal. That was the keynote and it will be widely echoed—as the opportunity of youth. Youth must not be browbeaten by the magnitude of the task. The way is there, the way to a continual increase in the comfort and dignity of life, and it can be found. At present, the world lacks not only in the necessities of life, because of the breakdown in the means of distribution, but also initiative and the self-discipline which is demanded for the proper use of leisure.

OPPORTUNITY OF YOUTH

The young are in a position to use their leisure in a way which not only will broaden their outlook but fundamentally enrich themselves and their community. The charge has sometimes been brought against youth that it is superficial and unthinking—that it is concerned with trivialities rather than with the deeper problems of life. In Sir James Jeans' picture, there is an opportunity to reverse this judgment, an opportunity to ponder the present condition of chaos in the world and seek out wise and constructive remedial measures. While in some countries a definite effort is being made to regiment not only the actions but the thinking of the young, the youth of democratic countries should be alive to the priceless privilege which is theirs of doing their own thinking. But such thinking must avoid the easy road of superficiality, and reaching down into the fundamental nature of things, find that which alone can satisfy. The founder of Christianity has said, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

RUSSIA AND LEAGUE

The entrance of Russia into the League of Nations in the next week or so is as certain as any political event can be. Her formal application for membership will come before the Assembly. There can be no real opposition. One or two countries have openly expressed dislike of the Soviet intervention in the councils of Europe, but their prejudices will be overruled. Poland probably will demand a permanent seat on the Council to counter-balance Russian influence. Questions are raised of minority treaties, but these can be overcome. From the viewpoint of the League, as well as of the central and eastern nations and of France, the step will be welcomed. The League has lost, temporarily at any rate, the support of a number of great powers. It is high time that its prestige should be enhanced by an important addition.

A COVER?

When the criticisms of the League by Russia are remembered, the diplomatic observer is entitled to ask whether that nation is influenced chiefly by a political purpose in putting forward its candidature. It believes it has enemies in Europe as well as in the Far East, and it is anxious to avail itself of the additional security that the League can offer. That in itself is a tribute to the League. If the material power of the League can scarcely be exercised against a rebellious country, it can marshal the public opinion of the world, and that is not a negligible factor. Yet it is impossible to conceal the danger of permitting the League to be used as a cover for fresh alignments which may resemble the old balance of power. There are mixed up with the application of Russia various schemes which look toward the conclusion of treaties of mutual assistance, involving sanctions.

THE ULTIMATE JUDGMENT

It is the function of the Security Committee, which has been set up by the Disarmament Conference, to analyse the implications of the proposed pacts, and inferentially the consequences of the new part which Russia is to play in European politics. They must be brought into consonance both in the text and in the intention with the League idea. It may be that it will be possible to work out some method which will safeguard not only existing legal rights, but future moral rights. If that can be done, then a great step forward will be taken toward collective organisation of peace. In what ever is done, the concurrence of Italy and Germany is especially necessary. The design should be to bring Germany back into the League with Russia, and to bring Germany into any European pact which is hereafter framed. On the satisfaction of these conditions depends the ultimate judgment of the world on the entrance of Russia into the League.

KEY TO NAVAL LIMITATION

By WICKHAM STEED

BEHIND the adjournment of the Disarmament Conference, and the uncertainty whether it can profitably reassemble, lies a puzzle over which thoughtful Britons are already racking their brains: What are the chances of success at next year's Naval Conference? Nobody knows and, what is more, nobody pretends to know. There is talk of a new British programme of cruiser building. After M. Barthou, the French Foreign Secretary, had come and gone, his colleague, M. Pletel, the Minister of Marine, stayed on in London to talk of the European aspects of naval disarmament or rearrangement and, doubtless, to say that if Italy persists in building two super-battleships of 35,000 tons each, France cannot be satisfied with 26,000-ton vessels of the Dunkerque class. So things seem to be well on the road to another international wrangle.

If the preliminary talks upon next year's Conference are to be merely a resumption of the hopeless task of striking a balance between international fears and suspicions, the Conference itself is likely to become a weariness to the flesh and a worse weariness to taxpayers' pockets. I find it hard to get up any real interest in the matter at all. In my belief the problem of naval armaments ought to be stated and solved in terms of a peace policy. A really sound policy on the part of the United States, Great Britain and France would either settle the whole business in advance or, in the worst event, would make the issues so plain that a child could understand them. We should have to face realities and make up our minds.

What are the antecedents? In the latter half of 1916 there was serious trouble between Great Britain and the United States over "the freedom of the seas." The searching of American cargoes and ships for contraband of war strained relations between London and Washington almost to breaking point. Then, early in 1917, Germany went one better, or one worse, with her "unrestricted submarine campaign." On April 6, 1917, the United States declared war upon Germany, mainly for this reason. On Jan. 8, 1918, President Wilson delivered his "Fourteen Points" address; and, in his second "Point," laid down the doctrine that there should be absolute freedom of navigation on the seas, outside territorial waters, alike in peace and in war, except as the seas might be closed in whole or in part for the enforcement of international covenants by international action.

In the autumn of 1918 Germany asked for an armistice on the basis of the "Fourteen Points" and other Wilsonian pronouncements. Col. Edward M. House discussed this matter with the British Prime Minister, Mr. Lloyd George, who flatly refused to accept "the freedom of the seas" as an armistice condition. Colonel House told him that, if Great Britain should be obliged, the United States would build and maintain so powerful a navy that Great Britain would be unable to ignore it, such a navy indeed as the American people had long desired. Finally, the question was left open for discussion.

"It's the same thing every summer. We're the only people stuck here in the city."

While the League of Nations Covenant was being drafted at the Hotel Crillon in Paris between Feb. 3 and 18, 1919, the principle was soon accepted that, as between members of the League, in performance of their obligations under the Covenant, there should be no neutrality. This principle was clearly affirmed on the morning of Feb. 13 with reference to the eventual admission of neutral Switzerland to membership of the League. On Feb. 14, after President Wilson had read the Draft Covenant to the Peace Conference, he was asked by a member of American citizenship to explain why the Covenant failed to mention "the freedom of the seas," for the sake of which the United States entered the war. His reply was simple. It was that, in future, there would be no freedom of the seas because there would be no neutrals. Any covenant breaker would find the other members of the League ranged against him, and the seas would be closed to him. But after the decision of the Washington Senate not to ratify the Peace Treaty, of which the League Covenant forms the first twenty-six Articles, the United States became prospective neutrals in regard to any League and a covenant-breaker, and the old trouble over "the freedom of the seas" revived.

The next stage was reached at the Washington Conference of 1921-22. There "parity" became the watchword as between the British and American navies. Presently it became a catchword and a fetish. Later, Italy took it up and, in its name, helped to ruin the "Coolidge" Naval Conference at Geneva in the summer of 1927; and, together with France, reduced the London Naval Conference of January, 1930, to three-fifths of what it might have been. Now Japan seems to have taken it up also. Is it not high time that a correction is sought?

On Aug. 27, 1923, the Kellogg pact was signed in Paris. Early in September, 1923, shortly before he started on his visit to President Hoover at Washington and Raydan, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, then Prime Minister in the second British Labour Administration, inquired of a friend (who was supposed to know something of Mr. Hoover and of the United States) how best he could deal with a host whom he affectionately termed "the dear old Quaker." Unless I am misinformed, he was advised carefully to avoid, at the outset, all the vexed and complicated expressions of "parity" in statistical tables and naval "categories," and to put to Mr. Hoover one very simple, though searching, question: "In a world which, on the invitation of a President of the United States, has renounced war, what is the lawful function of a navy?"

The Very Idea! SHOP AHoy

Behind the Ham in Our Ham and Beef Joint

By Ed. Kelly, Cheeser.

HAVE we told you about the time when George and myself were in business together?

Only a small shop it was, and we sold ham, and beef, and frankfurts, and groceries and things. It was what you'd call a mixed business. At least it was when we'd finished with it.

The whole trouble was that George, though willing, had had no experience. He didn't know an egg from an unspiced ball. On the other hand, we knew all about it, but we couldn't keep our eye on him all the time.

He had no tact. A customer would ask for three-pennorth of cheese, and George would say, "Three-pennorth of cheese, Madam! Certainly, Madam! Do you want it for mice, or for home consumption? Because if you want it for mice I can tell you that they simply won't come at it. Don't blame 'em either. Why, we put half a pound of this cheese on a plate outside a mouse hole in this very shop, and the mice left in a body. Wouldn't you rather have a slice of bacon, or something?"

Now, that's not sales talk.

We were at the back of the shop one day blowing up some sausages when a customer came in for some eggs.

"Eggs? Certainly! Hen eggs or fowl eggs?"

"Mix 'em for the lady," we called out from the back of the shop. We heard various scuffling noises going on for a while, and when we came out there was George mixing the eggs up with a fork, and asking the lady if she'd brought a bottle.

In the early stages of the business, we'd admit that we didn't have much system. After we'd sold caustic soda for baking soda a couple of times it was beginning to cost us too much for wrentha, so we mixed all the soda together and produced a compound caustic, baking, bicarbonate, washing soda which served all purposes.

One of the things which led to our bankruptcy was the football at Home. After we started betting as a sideline, the accounts became very involved.

For instance, take Mrs. Smith's account: 1 dozen eggs, $1.70; 1 pound of butter, $1.10 (crook dollar . . . total, 10 cents); $2.50 on Tottenham Hotspur, if win, all up Arsenal, 1½ lb cheese, 2 loaves of bread and $1.00 off last week's account; six empty lemonade bottles on Aston Villa, and two tins of salmon at $1.25, all up Manchester City.

TOTAL

Well, that's what tricked us. The total.

Another thing that helped towards the failure of the business was George's flat foot. He couldn't work the pedal under the counter that was attached to the scales.

It looks bad when you've got about five rashers of bacon on the scale, and the scale registers 145 lbs., which is George's weight. And another thing. We used to slide up and down behind the counter on the saw-dust when serving. George became so good at it that when sliding to meet a customer he always slid right past her. Same thing on the return journey. Result was that the customer had to wait until George was completely out of breath before he could serve her.

At the finish up we decided to get out of the shop. The work was getting too hard. We had to wait outside the shop for a customer, drag him in, thrust a pound of ham into his hand, and then wrestle him all over the floor for the money.

We put a large sign outside the shop, EVERYTHING REDUCED! This meant that the eggs were smaller and there were less of them to the dozen, and that the number of ounces in the pound was slightly altered. After that was sold out stock, plant, fittings, and goodwill.

We bought an orange with what we got for the goodwill.

JAPAN GIVEN SUBMARINE PLANS

The British "K" type of submarine, the designs for which were presented to Japan by the British Government during the war, according to evidence at the armaments enquiry in Washington. CHURCH UNION BY DECREE

"UNIFORMITY" IN GERMANY

DR. JÄGER'S ORDER

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright. Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1881. Received September 7, 4.10 a.m.)

Berlin, Sept. 6. The nominal union of the evangelical churches in Germany was accomplished, by official decree to-day.

Dr. Jaeger, the juridical member of the Reichsbishop Mueller's Ecclesiastical Cabinet, was responsible for the order, which stated that the Churches of Bavaria and Württemberg have ceased to be independent and that their legal power passes into the hands of the German Evangelical Church.

The Bishops in Bavaria and Württemberg, says the decree, must obey the orders of Reichsbishop Mueller.

The Divine Service and the preaching of the Gospel remains untouched by the decree, the sole purpose of which is to achieve uniform structure in the German Evangelical Church.—Reuter Special.

FALSE PRETENCES

ATTEMPT TO DEFAUD MERCHANT

Luk Hing, unemployed, was sentenced to three months' hard labour by Mr. E. W. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, on a charge of having attempted to obtain $30 by false pretences from Mak Kung-sheung, a merchant, residing at No. 429 Lockhart Road.

Detective Sergeant Fitches said the complainant's son, Shu Tsang, was in school at Canton. Complainant received a letter with the envelope in the handwriting of his son, but the letter itself was not in his son's handwriting. The letter said complainant should pay $30 to a man who would call for the money. Complainant reported the matter to the police, and defendant was arrested when he called for the money.

BRITAIN'S ACTION DURING WAR

FRESH REVELATIONS IN THE ARMS RACKET INVESTIGATION

REAR-ADMIRAL DENIES ACCUSATIONS

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright. Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1881. Received, Sept. 7, 8.55 a.m.)

WASHINGTON, SEPT. 6.

THE EMPLOYMENT OF HIGH NAVAL OFFICERS BY ARMAMENTS FIRMS TO ASSIST THEM IN PUSHING SALES OF WARSHIPS WAS AMONG FURTHER SENSATIONAL ALLEGATIONS IN THE EXPOSE OF THE INTERNATIONAL "ARMS RACKET" IN WASHINGTON TO-DAY.

Letters were put in as evidence purporting to show that the Electric Boat Company thought they had been "double-crossed" by Messrs. Vickers when the British Admiralty handed over the plans of the "K" type of submarine to the Japanese Government.

JAPANESE ADMIRAL MENTIONED

One of the members of the Nye Committee which is carrying out the investigation of the activities of American armaments companies, and their relations with other big armaments firms abroad, produced a letter disclosing that the Mitsui Company arranged in 1912 to employ "Admiral T. Matsuo" to help the Electric Boat Company to obtain submarine orders from Japan.

NEUTRALITY VIOLATION?

Senator Clark then switched to another matter and accused Mr. Carse, the President of the Electric Boat Company, of violating neutrality in 1916 by selling certain war vessels to Italy.

Mr. Carse denied the allegation. He said that the vessels supplied were merely motor yachts and as such were not subject to the neutrality law.

Another sensation occurred when Senator Clark made allegations against an American naval officer.

ADMIRAL'S DENIAL.

Rear-Admiral Clark H. Woodward characterised as lies charges by Senator Clark that he acted as the go-between in transactions incidental to Peru's purchase of Electric Boat Company's submarines while he was acting as Chief of Staff of the Peruvian Navy from 1923 to 1928 under Congressional authority.—United Press.

THE "K" SUBMARINES.

Washington, Sept. 6. Evidence that the British Government gave Japan the designs for the "K" type of submarine was given before the Senate Committee of Enquiry into the armaments industry.

Letters written by Mr. Carse, the President of the Electric Boat Company, to Mr. Spears, the Vice-President of the firm, were read in this connection.

CARSE'S COMMENT.

In one of them, Carse said: "It seems as though Vickers have double-crossed us in Japan, in not having the contract executed by Mitsubishi which I sent them in 1916 and which provided for a royalty of ten per cent of the gross price."

"I know that they have given you the explanation that the British Government had given the plans of the 'K' boats to Japan and that therefore Mitsubishi did not think it necessary to proceed with our contract."—Reuter.

MORE TRAFFIC OFFENDERS

LOCAL JOCKEY AMONG THE ACCUSED

Admitting a summons for driving at an excessive speed in the Whitfield controlled area on the morning of August 30, B. A. Proulx, the well-known jockey, was fined $25 by Mr. W. M. Thomson, at the Central Magistracy this morning.

Defendant, who was driving private car No. 2382, was alleged to have done 35 miles an hour.

Mr. J. W. Franks, Superintendent of Prisons, appeared as complainant in a summons against Tsui Kong, driver of taxicab No. 754, for disobeying a signal.

Mr. Franks stated that about 6 p. m. on August 20 he was driving towards the Hongkong Club by the temporary Bank building, and was given the signal to stop. He stopped, and almost immediately the signal turned in his favour. He then went on, and as he did so taxicab No. 754 came out of Des Voeux Road Central, and ignoring the signal, continued on. Witness slowed down immediately, otherwise there might have been a collision.

Mr. Thomson imposed a fine of $20.

OTHER CASES.

Summoned before Mr. E. W. Hamilton, Parkson Chun, driver of private car No. 1234, was fined $15 for dangerous driving in Whitfield.

The defendant was not present in Court, being away in Canton, but a representative admitted the offence.

Sergeant Kelly said the summons was taken out on a complaint by Mr. B. W. Simmons, of the Hongkong Telephone Company. On August 23, Mr. Simmons was driving his car from west to east through Whitfield. He was following a tramcar and immediately behind him was defendant's car. Defendant suddenly shot out and tried to overtake his car and the tramcar. Another car was, however, coming in the opposite direction, and defendant had to swing back again, nearly causing an accident. It was a very bad piece of driving.

Mr. Hamilton imposed a fine of $15.

Li Man, driver of public car No. 284, was fined $20 for dangerous driving in Stubbs Road. Inspector Alexander said defendant passed two lorries and a car on the bend near Shui Fai Terrace.

Mak Pak, driver of private car No. 2383, was fined $10 for driving at 25 miles an hour in the Whitfield controlled area.

T. K. Leong, driver of private car No. 2833, was fined $10 for not having the two front tyres of his car in a good and serviceable condition.

KOWLOON CASES.

"I had slowed down a bit, I did not realise that I was still going at 30 miles an hour," pleaded C. A. Blum, of 100 Hankow Road, when he appeared before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on summons for not having a licence at 3.25 p.m. on August 2 and for going at more than 20 miles an hour in the Nathan Road controlled area.

With regard to the charge of not having a licence whilst driving car No. 2590, defendant said he had returned to the Colony on August 1, and did not have time to take out one. He went and got one on August 4.

Defendant was fined $10 for speeding, and cautioned for not having a licence.

Miss Jorge, of No. 7 King's Terrace, was ordered by Mr. Wynne-Jones to pay $20 compensation to a coolie whom she had knocked down in Chatham Road. The coolie was employed by the P. W. D. on a daily basis and had been kept out of work for approximately a month as the result of injuries received when Miss Jorge's car knocked him down.

CYCLE THEFT

STOLEN MACHINE DISMANTLED

Confessing that he had stolen the bicycle and had taken it to bits, Lau Sheung, 21, unemployed, was sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when he was charged with theft.

It was stated that defendant went to the Kam Hing Bicycle Shop on September 2 and hired a bicycle. He did not return it and at the end of two days, Lai Ting-shoi, the master of the shop, went to the police to report the matter. On information received, the police arrested defendant outside No. 133 Reclamation Street. He took them to No. 10 Cheng Lok Street, where all the parts were recovered except the frame and the wheels.

When questioned by the police, defendant admitted that he had stolen the bicycle and had taken it to King's Park where he dismantled it. The frame and the wheels were too unwieldy to be taken away, and so he hid them. The other parts he took home. Taking the police to where he had hidden the frame and the wheels, defendant found that they had been stolen by somebody. Defendant, it was stated, had a clear record.

tion," his adviser added, "insist on getting an answer to it, and you will find that the whole question of naval parity as between Great Britain and the United States will resolve itself into the further question how big their equal contributions should be to the policing of the seas against any violator of the Kellogg Pact."

Whether Mr. Ramsay MacDonald over put that question to President Hoover I do not know. My impression is that he left it unasked, because he himself had not grasped the underlying truth that the problem which confronts all peace-loving nations was then, as it is now, how to insure an overwhelming superiority of strength against any prospective war-maker. If the governments of the United States, Great Britain and France, in the first instance, discuss and organize next year's Naval Conference in the light of this problem, carefully and frankly stated, there will be a chance of reaching such an agreement as may avert war and lead, in time, to a real reduction of armaments all round. But in no case should armaments be allowed to fall below the level required for the adequate policing of the world.

In other words, let peace-loving nations renounce neutrality toward war makers as they have renounced war itself. Let them, until the overwhelming might of the forces of peace is seen to be beyond challenge, keep up or bring up their armed strength to a point at which they shall be able to perform their police function. Then, in time, with the disappearance of the fear of war, taxpayers everywhere will insist on a reduction of armaments all round. But in no case should armaments be allowed to fall below the level required for the adequate policing of the world.

DROPPING OF VOCE CAUSES OUTBURST BY A. W. CARR

"Would Have Played If I Had Been Captain"

SIR S. JACKSON REPLIES

The sensational "resting" of Voce in the Australian second innings at Nottingham last month brought forth a condemnatory statement by A. W. Carr, and an interesting explanation of the M.C.C.'s position from Sir Stanley Jackson.

"If I had been captain of Notts to-day you can say that Voce would have played and would have bowled."—A. W. Carr to Notts Chronicle.

Nottingham, Aug. 15. Voce's withdrawal from the Notts team to-day took place in an extraordinary way. He arrived on the ground expecting to take part in the match, but just before the game began he was called from the dressing-room into the office and told that the committee wished him to "rest."

The explanation given was that, with Larwood unable to bowl, it was felt that further strain on Voce's sore arm might deprive Notts of his services in the remaining matches, and as a decisive result with the Australians was unlikely it would be better not to run further risks.

VOCE'S COMMENT.

When he did not appear barrackers shouted: "Where is Voce?" and later in the day when Woodfull led his men out to field there were catcalls and booing.

Voce watched the match from the pavilion and was obviously upset. He said: "I knew there would be trouble; perhaps I should not have played at all."

Later a rumour of the resignation of three members of the Notts committee spread quickly, but in an official statement Mr. H. A. Brown, secretary of the club, denied there was any truth in it.

In view of the possibility of any further demonstration at the end of the match, six police officers guarded the pavilion entrance as the players walked off the field, but, in contrast to what had gone before, the Australians were applauded.

CARR'S COMMENT.

Mr. A. W. Carr, the Notts captain, who watched the match to-day, said: "When I arrived on the ground I told Voce I considered there was still a chance of his playing in the fifth Test, and advised him accordingly."

"When he told me he was not playing to-day I was staggered. I am assured by officials of the club that there has been no protest against his bowling, but it is very hard to believe this."

In a later interview to-night Mr. Carr said there was nothing wrong with Voce.

"LEG THEORY" V. "BODYLINE" BOWLING

DANGERS OF FAST DELIVERIES NOT NEW TO CRICKET

A FEW CLASSICAL EXAMPLES

(By "Historicus")

The controversy upon the above matter, which was the subject of the Articles by "R. Abbot" and "Veritas" published in the Hongkong Telegraph last week, is not the first to arise in the history of cricket regarding fast bowling, for reference to "Lord's" and the M.C.C. by the late Lord Harris and the late Mr. F. S. Ashley-Cooper published in 1920 shows that about 1792 when round-armed bowling was sought to be introduced by Tom Walker of Surrey, it was disallowed "owing to his tremendous pace," and that in or about 1816, Mr. Budd and Lambert (both of whom are referred to by "R. Abbot") "attained to a kind of round-armed delivery," by which it is stated they "rose above the superior to all the batsmen of the day," but "Mr. Ward could not play it," and headed a party against it, "with the result that the new bowling was ignored." It also appears that following the foregoing, Mr. John William of Kent introduced a similar bowling at Lord's only to find it barred by the M.C.C. It then seems that in 1827, William Lillywhite (the Nonpareil) and James Broadbridge (both of Sussex) created a "furore" by their round-armed bowling, which was called "The March of Intellect system" and by their adversaries "Throwing"—the law at that time being that at the moment of delivery, the hand must be below the elbow, whereas Lillywhite and Broadbridge raised it above the shoulder. It is stated that the Sussex men were ably supported by Mr. G. T. Knight of Kent and the M.C.C., who suggested that the law should be altered to "that the ball shall be bowled. If it be thrown or jerked, or if any part of the hand or arm be above the shoulder at the time of delivery, the umpire shall call 'No Ball'." Three matches between Sussex and England were played to test the merits of the two styles of bowling (old and new). Of these Sussex won the first (at Sheffield) by seven wickets, and also the second (at Lord's) by three wickets, but the third (at Brighton) was won by England by 24 runs. Eventually (but not until 1836) the M.C.C. adopted Mr. Knight's suggestion.

BATSMEN INTRODUCE PADS AND GUARDS.

It was at this time (as "Lord's" and the M.C.C. inform us) that Mr. Alfred Mynn (of Kent) and Samuel Redgate, (who like Larwood hailed from Notts) "terrified batsmen by their pace," so that Lord Verulam upon being asked who was the faster, replied by saying "I was hit by a ball," "really caused me to say which hurt the most," and it is added that the terrific deliveries of Mr. Mynn and Redgate "being far from reliable so far as a pitch was concerned, and certainly not so accurate as those of the fast round-armed bowlers of a period, fractured almost as many legs as wickets," so that about 1832-3, batsmen's pads and guards were introduced, which Lord Frederick Beauclerk considered "so unfair for the bowler."

In his "Nottinghamshire Cricket & Cricketers," the late Mr. F. S. Ashley-Cooper refers to Redgate as being "for about ten years the most dreaded bowler in England," and he adds: "No one, not even Pileh, ever mastered him."

The North v. South match at Leicester on August 22, 23, 24 and 25, 1836 referred to by "R. Abbot" (which was won by the South by 218 runs) was the second of that year, the earlier one (played at Lord's on July 11 and 12, and being the first ever played between the North and South) having been won by the North by six wickets. Mr. Mynn was undefeated in the first innings in that match, scoring 21 (not out) in the first innings and 125 (not out) in the second. A footnote to the Scores (in Frederick Lillywhite's "Cricket Scores and Biographies") points out that in his last four innings Mr. Mynn had made 283 runs besides being twice not out.

Another fast bowler, who played for Notts from approximately 1850 to 1860, was John Jackson, "the Notts Demon." He was the hero of a famous cartoon in "Punch" (under date August 29, 1863) depicting the return of the "pride of the village" with arm in a sling, knees sagging and face swollen and plastered—the following colloquy appearing underneath the cartoon:

"Good match, old fellow?"
"Oh yes, awfully jolly."
"What did you do?"
"I 'ad a horer of Jackson: the first ball 'me on the 'and the second 'ad me 'on the knee: the third was in my eye, and the fourth bowled me out. 'Jolly game."

EARLY INSTANCES OF "FAST LEG THEORY."

In the course of a lengthy Article which appeared in the issue of "The Observer" of January 22, 1933, Mr. H. S. Altham remarked (inter alia): "For the truth is that this method of attack is nothing new in English cricket; as long ago as 1000 George III was bowling fast to a parade of short legs; eleven years later 'F. R. Foster, in winning the county championship for Warwickshire, 'inscribed a highly-coloured advertisement of his pace off the pitch on many a batsman's thigh and hip; and for the last two years Voce has been doing the same. No one has ever protested that it was much fun to withstand this type of assault, but no one has for a moment questioned its legitimacy. Indeed, those who watched the partnership between the Nawab and K. S. Dalespin in the Gentlemen v. Players match last year and saw the mastery with which they played 'both Larwood and Voce, left the ground less elated than depressed at the prospect of the Australian tour ahead. So long as there has been that overhead bowling in cricket, so long must there have been an element of danger in batting, much greater, of course, in the old days of rough wickets than it can be now. Perhaps surprisingly there has only been one fatal accident 'from this cause, when George 'Sumner was killed by a blow on the head whilst batting at Lord's for 'Nottinghamshire in June, 1870, 'though Ernest Tyldesley and 'Cameron were probably lucky to 'escape the same fate when hit on the head by Gregory and Larwood 'respectively in the Test Matches of '1921 and 1923. Similarly a season 'or two after the war R. H. Twining 'received a terrible blow on the heart 'from the Notts bowler. There are, 'of course, countless instances of 'batmen being painfully hit, but 'carrying on bravely and in the 'end 'finishing' the bowler. When 'Ernest Jones first bowled in this 'country it was on a very lively 'wicket at Sheffield Park, and W. G., 'who captained Lord Sheffield's 'eleven, was black and blue at the 'end of his innings and Woolley 'suffered in the same way in his two 'great innings at Lord's against 'Gregory in 1921. In the latter year, 'though no sort of complaint was 'made against him, it is admitted that 'the Australian fast bowler for a 'time intimidated a considerable 'number of English batsmen, until 'Lord Tennyson's courage at Leeds 'stemmed the tide. But the epic 'match for fast bowling was the 'Gentlemen v. Players game at 'Lord's in 1909, when Arthur 'Hobbs 'took all ten wickets in the first 'innings of the Gentlemen and Knox 'and Brierley replied by accounting 'for eighteen out of the twenty 'Players. Knox's pace was terrific, 'the length ball often flying 'tend 'and several of the batsmen 'were clearly intimidated, but Hay- 'ward, after being hit a dreadful blow, 'returned to play a grand innings. 'Haynes and Denton drove and cut the 'dangerous bowling with splendid 'dash, whilst Martin provided 'perfectly brilliant support by 'up to both express bowlers. In 'the finish it was universally hailed 'as one of the greatest ever played."

WHEN BOOKMAKERS WERE WARNED OFF.

With reference to the "warning off" of the bookmakers and Lambert (referred to by "R. Abbot") two paragraphs which appear in "Lord's" and the M.C.C.'s upon the subject are somewhat illuminating. The paragraphs in question read as follows: "But it is impossible not to feel 'that some of the chief members at 'Lord's were themselves partly 'responsible for such a state of 'things, Lord Frederick Beauclerk, 'for instance, was as always strict, 'made no secret that he reckoned to 'make 600 guineas a year out of the 'game, was himself guilty of sharp 'practice, both in cricket and running. 'Listen to what old John Bowyer told 'to Mr. Fred Gale: 'Bowyer told 'me how in a match, when a 'guinea lottery for runs, and was in 'with him (Bowyer) he would not 'run any runs hardly but his own if 'he could help it, in order to get the 'lottery; and, said old Bowyer, 'Lord 'Ponsonby, who had drawn my name, 'promised me two guineas if I got 'most runs; but Lord... went back 'wards and forwards to the scorers 'to count his notches and mine, and 'the end of it was that he got 64 'and I got only 80. Though," said 'the old man, he did give me a 'guinea. Lord Ponsonby would have 'given me two, and I call that kind of 'thing which Lord... did 'cheating' and nothing more or less."

"Mr. Gale—the quotation is taken 'from his Game of Cricket, page 37 '—does not mention the 'noble' lord 'by name, but it was Beauclerk to 'whom reference was made, and the 'match—B's v. England—can be 'found in Scores and Biographies, 'Vol. 1, pages 493-4. Those were sad 'days, truly, when the chief member 'of the M.C.C. could behave openly in 'such fashion, so it is to be wondered 'at that the paid players should at 'times not be strong enough not to 'retaliate."

The Scores in the match (England v. the B's) above referred to are set out (as stated) on pages 493 and 494 of the Scores and Biographies. "Cricket Scores & Biographies" and the runs credited there to John Bowyer and Lord Beauclerk are 60 and 84 respectively.

An excellent illustration of "bodyline" bowling is seen here, showing Voce, the Notts fast bowler, bowling to a packed leg side in the match between Notts and the Australians. Woodfull is receiving the bowling.

RACING SEASON RE-STARTS: MACAO MEETING ON SUNDAY

VERY ATTRACTIVE PROGRAMME PREPARED

SIX EVENTS OFFER PUNTERS SOME VARIED SELECTIONS

RACING TRIUMPH AND DELIGHTFUL CHANCE APPEAL

(By "Captain Foster")

The fourth extra race meeting of the Macao Jockey Club will be held at the Arca Preta, Macao, on Sunday, and the large and favourite steamer Taishan has been specially put on the berth to cater for the racing public.

Although the entries for the six events are on the small side, due to the fact that a number of ponies are not forward enough in condition to run, good racing and close finishes are expected in nearly all of the races, and fortunate backers should have an extremely profitable and enjoyable outing at the Portuguese Colony.

The first race is the Mounted Troop Handicap (Unofficial) of six furlongs, and six ponies will be saddled for the event. The veteran Sergeant Major "Bobby" Charles on African Eve is my pick, but Mouche with Captain Alex Potts up, and Pat under the guidance of Trooper Browning will make him gallop all the way.

White Stars (Trooper Barrow) may cause an upset by running into a place.

FIVE CAPABLE PONIES.

The Tap Sinc Handicap of six furlongs is confined to griffins of this year that have not won more than $700 in Stakes. The five ponies which will face the Starter are Banquet Hall (1p), Fair View (Liang), Gold Currency (Bodino), Great Hall (Pan), and Limelight (Delt). Every one of these ponies is capable of catching the judge's eye and I therefore cannot suggest the likely winner with any degree of confidence.

Limelight has been doing his training at Macao and I cannot say very much about him beyond the fact that Mr. Norman Delt will be his pilot. This combination in itself is a sufficient guarantee that the pony will be extremely dangerous, and for this reason, one should not leave him out of one's calculations.

I am also very partial to the chances of Fair View. The pony is said to be fit and I was impressed with his style last Tuesday morning, consequently it will not surprise me to see him returned the winner. Gold Currency has pace and can also score, so can Banquet Hall but I gather this pony has not quite pleased his connections in recent gallops.

Great Hall has often disappointed me at Happy Valley. The pony can travel but apparently he is somewhat moody, and will not exert himself under pressure. The change in the course may have a beneficial effect on him, and all I can say is that, if found in the humour, he is capable of shewing a clean pair of heels to the rest of the field.

MONG HA HANDICAP.

The Mong Ha Handicap (Second Section), Unofficial of six furlongs is confined to D & E Classes, and to be ridden by Licensed Riders. I expect to see the following seven: Black Velvet, Bold Commander, Britannia Hall, Chow Fan, Dark Devil, Hay Tor, and The Carp.

Apart from a very handsome dividend which must accrue from such an open field I shall be very interested in watching the two different styles in actual race riding. The Russian "boys" riding

Cricket Scorers' Mistake

GIVE EBELING "NO-BALL"

London, Sept. 6. That first class cricket scorers are not infallible was illustrated to-day when it was discovered that the scorers in the match between the Minor Counties and Australians had incorrectly recorded a no-ball against Ebeling and had made the Minor Counties total 183 instead of 182.

During the course of the supposed no-ball in the morning papers to-day and pointed out the mistake to the scorers, with the result the figures were altered and the counties credited with a first innings score of 182.

The match ended to-day with the Minor Counties struggling to avoid an innings defeat.

The Australians increased their overnight score of 140 for 2 to 370 for 8 before declaring. Darling lost his wicket after scoring 59 and Barnett contributed 80. Woodfull played another unfinished innings having 73 to his credit.

The Minor Counties were always struggling hard to avoid defeat, and thanks largely to a gallant innings by Fisher, who scored 50 not out, this was accomplished.

At the close of play the Counties had scored 137 for the loss of six wickets, and were still 51 in arrears.—Reuter.

GRIMMITT WINS

Enters Lawn Bowls Finals Phase

A large number of fans of the bowling green saw A. Grimmer enter the finals of the Colony Singles Championship yesterday at the expense of V. Petherick who was beaten on the Craigengower Cricket Club turf by 21 shots to eight.

Play was not always of championship standard, though some early heads reached great heights, and Grimmer proved to be the first to concede that his good bowling was rewarded with all the luck that was going.

Grimmitt is now due to contest the final with D. Rumahn, this match being fixed for next Wednesday at the Club de Recreo.

The Mong Ha Handicap (Unofficial) of six furlongs to be ridden by Ladies: I am sorry that the field will be a small one but, notwithstanding this, I feel that a well contested race will result. The line up will be: Miss Scott Harrison on City of Shanghai, Miss Betty Fair on Harbour View, Miss Beryl Fair on Sea View, and Miss Dowling (I think) on Fi Fa. I think the issue will be between City of Shanghai and Fi Fa, and condition will prove the deciding factor. Fi Fa is well and going strong but, as City of Shanghai is being trained at Macao, I am somewhat in the dark as to his condition. I understand, however, that the Stable connections are satisfied as to his well-being. Sea View, in my opinion, is to be preferred to Harbour View. Whatever the result, it is always a pleasure to see our keen "fair thruster" in action.

FRED PERRY REACHES THE LAST SIXTEEN

IN U. S. TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

Sensational Defeat Of George Lott

AMERICAN COLLEGE PLAYERS LOSE

Forest Hills, Sept. 6.

Fred Perry advanced to the last sixteen in the United States national singles tennis championship to-day, but the most important feature was the sensational elimination of George M. Lott, American Davis Cup player by E. W. Feibleman of New York.

Lott, beaten in the third round after a five set match, was leading in both the first and third sets. His conqueror, Feibleman, is a prominent New York club player, and has appeared in a number of tournaments this year with varied success. His record, however, did not suggest him being capable of beating such a powerful opponent as Lott. Lott took the initiative from the start, and swept through the first set winning it after eight games.

Feibleman retaliated with the second set to one, but found his opponent fighting it and was made to concede the third set at the ninth game. Feibleman went all out to retrieve a dangerous situation and levelled up in the fourth set at 6-4, and then remained wonderfully steady under the pressure, lasting better in the final set which he snatched at the tenth game.

Several leading players in America's young school of exponents fell by the wayside in third round encounters.

Jack Tidball was a victim of Frank Shields, who polished off the collegian in straight sets, while Gene Mako lost to Wilmer Allison after four hurricane sets.

Frankie Parker, however, advanced to the fourth round, sensibly outwitting R. Stanford in three sets.

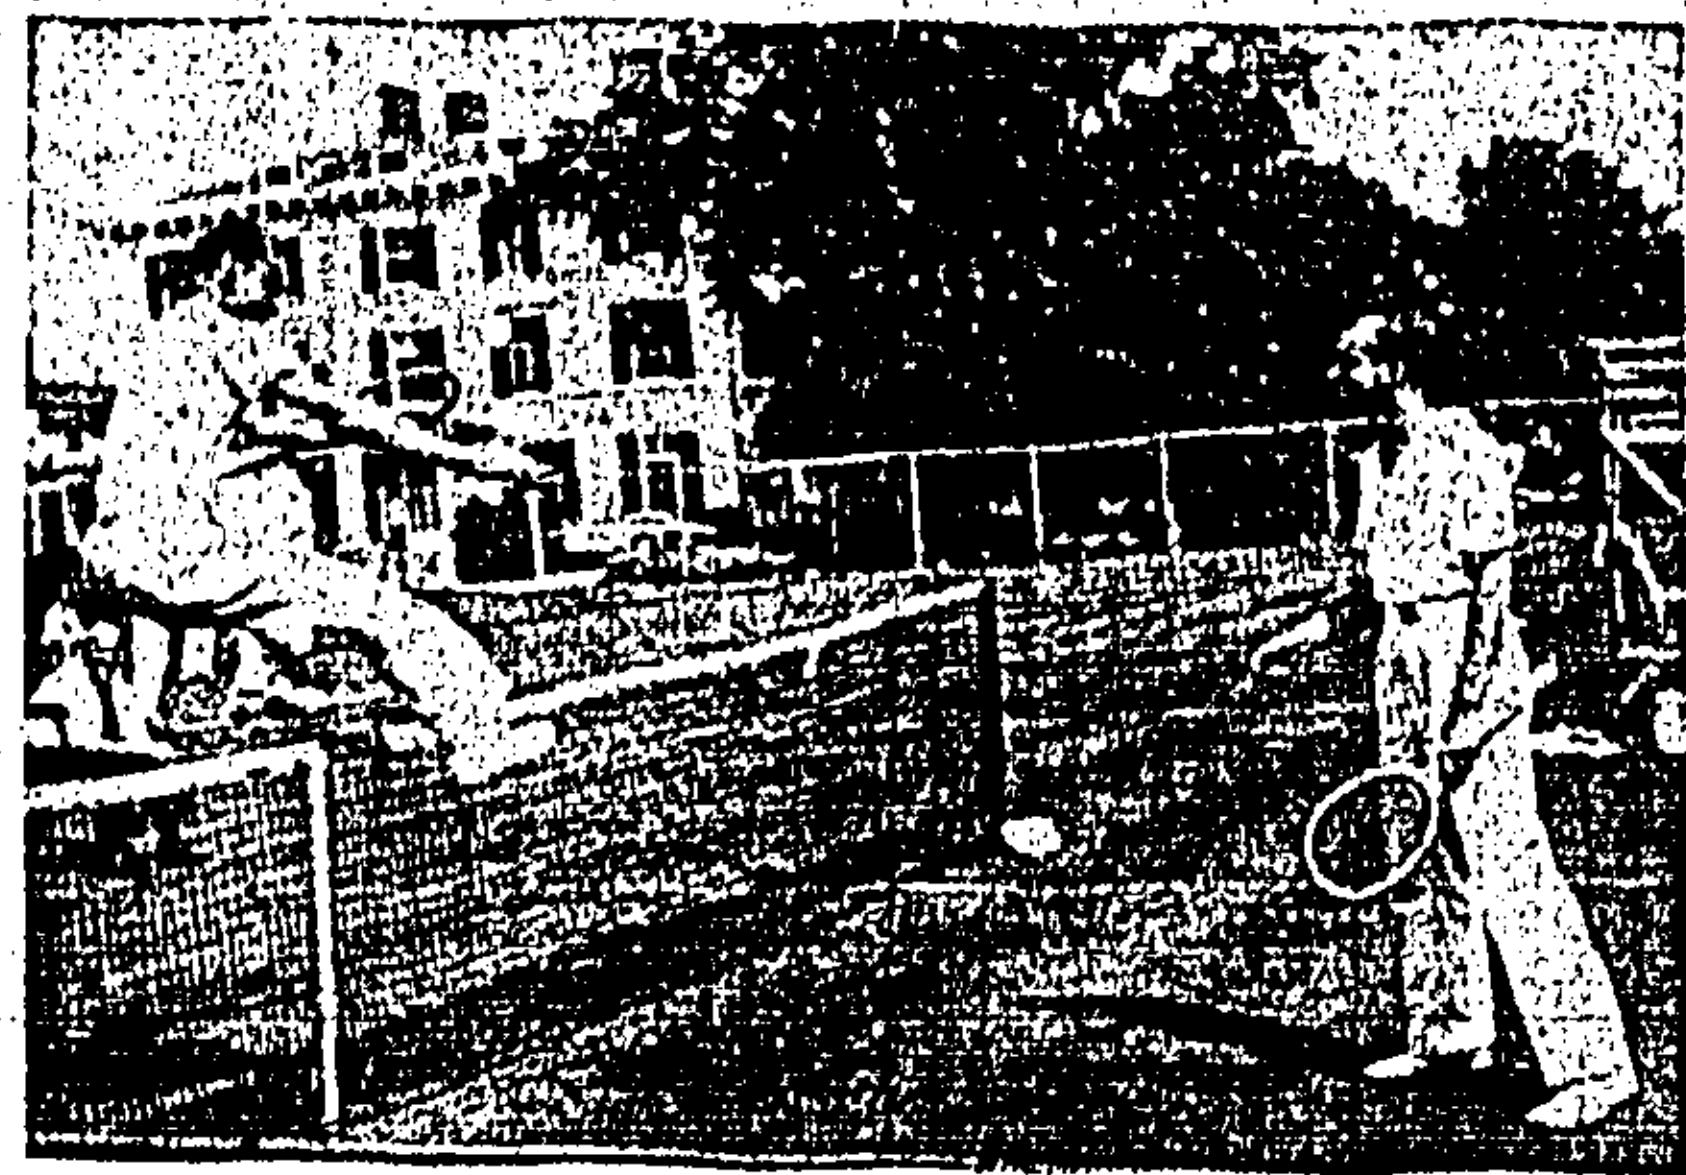

PERRY'S PRACTICE.
Perry had an enjoyable practice in eliminating Talbot, New York representative, and demonstrated that he is still in magnificent stroking form.

Herculean Lester Stoefer ousted H. L. Bowman (New York) in straight sets, although the second and third were hotly contested and were taken to twelve and ten games respectively.

Sydney Wood did not have things all his own way against F. Bowden, the New Yorker, and although a winner in three sets, had to play very hard for all his points.

Bowden made a big effort to snatch the third set which went to 22 games before decision.

WILDE OUSTED.
Britain lost one of her two representatives when F. H. D. Wilde took the count against J. Van Ryn. For two sets Wilde played splendid tennis and Van Ryn was forced to the advantage game in both. The two played a first set of fourteen games while the second went to ten. After this Wilde faded away and conceded the third set at 6-2.

Both were beaten yesterday in the U.S. national singles tennis championship. This picture shows Gene Mako leaping the net to congratulate Jack Tidball on his victory in an American invitation tournament held recently.

DROPPING OF VOCE CAUSES OUTBURST

"What is behind it?" he was asked. "I do not know. The usual trouble, I suppose," he replied. "Do you mean politics?" "I should think so, but I do not know any more than you do. I simply know that he was certified unfit—at least that is what they said, but he is playing to-morrow, so he cannot be very bad."

SIR S. JACKSON'S COMMENTS

"PURELY LOCAL MATTER."

London, Aug. 10. Sir Stanley Jackson, chairman of the English Test selectors, returned to London in the early hours of this morning from Kilmarnock, where he has been shooting, determined if possible to clear up the trouble which has arisen in the cricket world since he has been away.

"Why these things always happen when one goes off to have a few days' change I don't know," he said to a reporter last night. "But it is obvious my place is in London at the moment. I am going back to consult the other selectors."

DENIALS.

"I have only just been reading about the incident at Nottingham and a suggestion put forward by the Notts captain, Mr. A. W. Carr, that the Selection Committee have had instructions in connection with the leg-theory issue."

"I wish you to make it clear that this is not an official statement, but firstly, it is quite untrue that the Committee were instructed by anyone not to select Voce."

Secondly, it is not correct that there has been any disagreement among the Selection Committee. "I do not know of any reason why Voce should not play, but I am not going to say that he will be selected. I do not know. The final selection has not been made."

"But if Voce has got shin trouble, as I understand, that does not sound very hopeful, does it?"

A GREAT PITY.

"It seems to me a great pity he did not play on the third day of the Notts v. Australians match. The incident at Nottingham is a very unfortunate affair, and I am sorry, but it must have been purely a local matter."

"There is nothing, so far as I am aware, behind this Voce business, and all the rumours and suggestions about Voce and the committee are groundless."

"Voce is being treated exactly as the others—on his cricketing merits. No orders have been given about him."

VOCE IS "FED UP."

"I thought," Sir Stanley added rather wearily, "that all this bowling controversy was over and done with. It does seem hopeless."

"To-morrow I shall be having consultations with the other selectors, and I shall discuss the position with them informally."

Voce, seen by a reporter in the pavilion at Southampton yesterday, said he did not play against Hampshire because his right heel was badly bruised and there had been a recurrence of the shin trouble.

"I am fed up with the whole business," he added. "I wish we could forget all about leg theory."

WYATT'S COMMENT.

Mr. Wyatt, England's Test captain, said yesterday: "I have not yet been summoned to any further meeting of selectors, nor do I know whether any further meeting will take place."

"All I know is that there is to be a Test match on Saturday and I shall be there."

Asked whether Voce would be considered, Mr. Wyatt said: "I know nothing about Voce except that I believe he plays for Nottingham."

Belgian Golf Championship

HENRY COTTON'S FINE PLAY

Waterloo (Brussels), Aug. 13.

Despite bad weather, Henry Cotton, after a fine round of 67, led the field at the end of the first day's play in the Belgian Open Golf Championship, which was begun at the Waterloo Club this morning. The record for the course was 70, made by Cotton in 1933. Cotton, in the afternoon, had a round of 71 to give him an aggregate of 138. One stroke worse is Percy Alliss, with rounds of 68 and 71 for an aggregate of 139, while joint third place is held by A. Padghian and Mark Seymour, who had rounds of 69 and 73, and 68 and 74 respectively for aggregates of 142.

Brews, the South African and French Champion, disappointed. He started well but fell away to return 74, and in the afternoon he returned 76 and is thus twelve strokes behind Cotton.

Cotton got into one bunker after another for the first hole of the afternoon round and took a five, one over par. He escaped trouble at the next hole and then took a firm grip on himself in the best Cotton manner to return a par score of 71.

W. J. Cox, a former assistant to Cotton, did 67 in the morning, but so bad were the conditions in the afternoon that he took 82. T. E. Tweed, with a 68 in the morning, returned a second round card of 80.

Alliss, who was paired with Cotton, returned 71 in the afternoon, composed of 39 and 32, three below par of the homeward half.—Reuter's Special.

GERMAN AMATEUR TITLE.
Bud Ems, August 13. The German Amateur Golf championship, for which thirty-four players entered, was begun here to-day, but only one match was played. In this Iloy Archibald, of Royal St. George's, beat the German player, Rob. M. Reincke, by 4 and 2.

Archibald played steady golf and was five up at the turn. Paul Azbill, of Sunningdale, was forced to scratch owing to injuries received in an accident while he was in France.—Reuter's Special.

RIVER THREATENS.

LINHO DISTRICT IN GRAVE DANGER

Kwelhua, Sept. 6.

The Yellow River is overflowing at several points in Suiyuen. Huge volumes of water are rushing into Linho District, sweeping many villages.

The inhabitants of the walled city of Linho shut all the gates in order to prevent the flood waters from entering. It is feared, however, that the wall cannot stand very long against the pressure of the flood, as part of it is only built of clay.—Central News Agency.

ARMED MEN HOLD UP TWO CHINESE

A young Chinese couple, who were walking on the hillside approximately 350 yards above the Basel Mission on the Taipe Road last evening, were held up by two robbers and relieved of a small quantity of jewellery.

According to a report made to the Police, Mrs. Tom Lee-cho, aged 30, and Tam Chai-ming, aged 23, unemployed, both of 29 Fook Wah Street, second floor, were on the hillside at 7:15 p.m. when they were stopped by two men, one of whom produced a revolver.

The victims were relieved of their jewellery, the woman losing a pair of gold and jade ear-rings, three gold finger rings and one gold bracelet, while the man was robbed of his sleeve links. The total value of the haul was stated to be $145.

HONGKONG LOSES

INTERPORT BOWLS MATCH

A PATCHY GAME

Shanghai, Sept. 6.

Hongkong again won the toss and A. E. Coates rolled a short head. He drew a shot ten to the home side scored the seventh head Hongkong had evened the score with two twos. When the tenth head had been played the score was still tied at 9-9 and on the fifteenth each side had scored 13 shots.

At the conclusion of the eighteenth Shanghai led by two shots (18-14), but Hongkong, however, took the next two heads, scoring a single and a two to lead by 17-16, with one head to go.

The last head saw some bad bowling by Hongkong and Shanghai were given the game ten to the home side scored the win by 18-17.

The game was patchy throughout none of the bowlers except Coates played well. Bear and U. M. Omar were right off their form, also Bana who was particularly weak.

The teams and scores were:
Shanghai A. E. Coates
F. O. Mander H. Bear
J. Munro R. Bana
T. G. Main H. Bear
A. A. Malcolm 18 U. M. Omar 17
—Reuter.

THE LAST HEAD.

Our Own Correspondent adds that on the 21st head, which was a short head, Shanghai were laying two when Omar tried to save a hopeless position with an attempted glance which failed. Omar was steady, Coates and Bear being the best and most reliable while Bana was weak. Shanghai placed their shots in winning positions and always made matters awkward for Hongkong.

HANKOW BEAT SHANGHAI.
Shanghai, Sept. 6.
Hankow won the Interport contest against Shanghai, winning the second match by 19 shots to 18.—Reuter.

A MID-WEEK MATCH.

The Filipino Club, for the first time, fielded a full team on Wednesday, when they engaged the Club de Recreo. They were beaten by 47 shots to 20. Scores:
Machado, F. Xavier, P. Yrannovich and Julio Ribeiro (Club de Recreo) beat Roy, A. Delgado, H. W. Randall and A. S. Gomes 17-0.

J. M. S. Rozario, F. X. Soares, H. Rozario and C. H. Basto (Club de Recreo) beat Leonardo, W. J. Howard, Gonzales and W. V. Field 14-13.
H. A. Botelho, J. G. Ozorio, C. E. Marques and F. V. Ribeiro (Club de Recreo) beat Alberto, Fernando, M. J. Medina and V. N. Atienza 16-10.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MARKET REGISTERS DECLINE

The following reports on the New York stock market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz: The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's markets: Stocks were downward, due to the more than 14-point break in United States Smelting issues owing to the Company's earnings for the past eight months being estimated at $5 to $6.50 per share, which is about half the annual rate of $15 a share. Bonds were erratic, featured by a sharp recovery in United States Government issues, which was due to the fact that the Comptroller had ruled in favour of the National Bank's condition that the statements may classify fully guaranteed Government obligations, such as home owners' loans, the Loan Corp. and the Federal Farm Mortgage Corp. as direct Government issues. The Curb Exchange was irregular. Wheat prices were higher, due to the strong cash wheat situation, in spite of extensive profit-taking.

S. C. & F. New York office cables: The stock market was under moderate pressure in the late trading, as metal shares slumped on the disappointing earnings report by the U.S. Smelting Corp. Further irregularity is indicated. The textile strike is the predominant news. The walkout is now about 47% of the industry, according to Press surveys. The new Federal Mediation Board is expected to hasten a settlement of the dispute. Other news is featureless. The Alaska Juneau Mining's earnings for the eight months ended August 31st amounted to $1,568,700, against $939,000 for the corresponding period of last year. Montgomery Ward's earnings for the six months ended July 31st totalled $4,158,000, against a loss of $3,470,000 during the corresponding period of last year. Daily crude oil output last week was 27,000 barrels below the Federal quota. Mr. Donald Richberg of the NRA upholds the profit incident. The Columbia is being sought. "Iron Age" reports that steel output is unchanged at 10 per cent. Immediate prospects are uncertain. The Edison Electric Institute reports that electric production was off 0.5% during the week ended September 1st. The National Cash Register sales for the eight months ended August 31st totalled $11,025,000, against $8,491,000 during the corresponding period of last year. The Electric Autolite has been awarded all Chrysler Motor business. Woolworth's August sales were up 2.15%. Business done: 600,000.

New York & Chicago commodity reports received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz:—

Cotton: The effect of additional low price estimates of a crop was partly offset by news of a further spread in the strike and the belief held in some quarters that contemplated mediation will be ineffective at present. The Cotton Exchange will close at 11.00 o'clock on Saturday morning and the Cotton Bureau report will be published at 12 (noon). The appointment of the Strike Mediation Board and the prevailing small crop ideas are sustaining factors, but the textile strike is apparently spreading.

Rubber: The market was very steady, but featureless.

Grain: The strength of cash wheat, which continues, was a bullish factor and some further advance is probable.

FOOTPADS ON THE TAIPO ROAD

Woman Held Up at Revolver's Point

Held up at the revolver's point, Mrs. Tom Lal-she, aged 30, living at 29 Fuk Wah Street, and Tom Choy-ming, her 29-year-old nephew, were last night robbed by two men having the appearance of Hakkas, on the hillside above the Basel Mission on the Taiipo Road.

The couple had been admiring scenery from the top of the hill, and at twilight were descending the incline to reach Taiipo Road. Some 350 yards above the Basel Mission house, they saw two Chinese who made known their intentions by one of them producing a revolver with which he threatened the couple. His companion proceeded to strip the woman of her jewelry, this including a pair of jade ear-rings, three gold finger-rings and a gold bangle. The total value of the jewellery was $145.

The robbers ran away in a westerly direction, towards Castle Peak, after telling the victims not to shout for help.

The victims were accompanied by two young children of Mrs. Tom Lal-she, who ran away at the outset of the robbery.

PEAK THEFT

FITTINGS FROM AN EMPTY HOUSE

Charged before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning with the theft of brass hooks and fasteners from an empty house at No. 22 The Peak, Fung Kwal, 22, unemployed, was fined $10, or fourteen days' hard labour. The complainants were the China Provident Loan and Mortgage Company, Ltd.

Detective-Sergeant F. Minkey, prosecuting, stated that on the evening of August 26 accused was seen in the house by an Indian constable. He took to his heels and jumped from the rear balcony into the garden below. He sprained his back and had to be sent to hospital.

BERLIN SWOOPS ON "REDS"

FIFTY ARRESTS IN SUBURBS

HEADQUARTERS UNEARTHED

(Special to "Telegraph")

(The Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1911. Received, September 7, 4.11 a.m.)

Berlin, Sept. 6.

Another vigorous attempt is being made by General Goering to suppress Communist activities in Berlin.

Fifty alleged Communists have been arrested to-day by Goering's district police, in the Schoenberg district, as the result of a surprise swoop.

The raids, which followed long and careful observation of certain houses and persons, are still continuing creating much excitement in the district.

It is suggested that the police coup is of the highest importance and likely to break the back of the Communist organization in Berlin. It is rumoured, for instance, that the police have unearthed the headquarters of all the subversive propaganda, whence the anti-Government material was distributed throughout the whole of Germany. —Reuter Special.

HUGE HAUL OF HEROIN

SEIZURE ABOARD THE "TAIYUAN"

A huge seizure of heroin was made aboard the China Navigation Company's steamer Taiyuan yesterday, on her arrival from Canton, when no fewer than 4,500 ounces of the drug were found concealed in 64 cases of miscellaneous goods.

The packages in which the heroin was found were through cargo destined for Shanghai.

At the Central Magistracy this morning, Revenue Officer Grimsitt applied to Mr. Hamilton for confiscation of the drug, but the application was adjourned for 24 hours.

Revenue Officer Ward gave evidence that he made the seizure, on instructions from the Superintendent of Imports and Exports.

Another heroin case came before the Court when a man named Wong Shui, aged 30, was charged with the possession of 7,080 heroin pills at Room 408 of the Empress Hotel, Des Voeux Road Central. It was stated that the accused was a dealer in heroin pills.

Inspector Andrew informed the Court that the analyst's certificate in regard to the pills was not yet ready, and the case was accordingly adjourned.
